ALL VIRGINIA PEACE OFFICERS DRY ENFORCERS

Law Puts Premium on Snooper.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Richmond, Va., July 11.—[Special.]—Rewards for liquor snoopers, disregard for constitutional guarantees against unreasonable search and seizure, and mandatory hard labor sentences for even minor infractions of the law—that is prohibition in Virginia.

Under a law dictated by the Anti-Saloon league and so drastic that even the stringent Indiana code seems liberal in comparison, every peace officer in the state is a prohibition enforcer, working overtime to earn the bonuses which are theirs for the discovery of a still or a hidden pint of "corn."

Army of Reward Hunters.

In addition to the state prohibition unit and the regularly sworn peace officers of cities, villages, and counties, the Layman act, passed by the legislature in 1924, musters an army into service as special enforcers—captains of vessels plying within the state, conductors of steam and electric trains, railroad police and station agents, and commanders of oyster boats—all enrolled to the rewards, ranging from $1 to $50, paid arresting officers in liquor cases.

To make it easier for the reward hunters, the last protection the householder had was swept aside a year ago when the state Supreme court ruled that evidence of a liquor law violation obtained without a search warrant or by any means is admissible in the trial of an accused person.

Neglect Other Crime Cases.

Thus encouraged, practically the entire law enforcing machine of the state is enforcing the state's prohibition law and flooding the dockets from magistrates' courts to the Supreme court with prohibition cases, which, because of rewards, fees, and commissions accruing to various officials, are hurried to trial.

State officials deny that prohibition cases are given preferential consideration over other proceedings in the courts or that, because of the reward system, which admittedly emphasizes liquor law enforcement, other crime receives the minimum of attention.

Rewards Only for Wet Arrests.

The fact remains, however, that rewards are not paid for the detection of any crime except liquor law violations and that Virginia policemen, notoriously underpaid in city and county districts alike, are thoroughly alive to the opportunities for easy money under the prohibition law and the state supreme court's unusual interpretation of the rules of evidence.

The law assesses the rewards against the offender and fixes sentences at from three to six months in convict road construction gangs for failure or inability to pay the rewards, fines, and other costs which are imposed in addition to jail or hard labor sentences for the actual violation.

Maximum for Moonshiners.

The maximum reward of $50 is paid for the arrest of a moonshiner and the confiscation of his still. If the still is made of copper, the officer is given another $10, and if the moonshiner is unable to pay the reward, in such cases the state itself pays the arresting officer $25 for the arrest and gives him for the still.

A reward of $25 is paid officers for every automobile or boat seized as a liquor carrier if the vehicle is confiscated by court order. If the vehicle is not confiscated, the arresting officer receives only $12.50. For all other arrests under the law, including those of tip bottle toters, the officers are paid $10, and for the arrest of a common drunk in the street they receive $5.

Figures Reveal Truth.

Official reports of the numbers of arrests made and the totals of fines and jail sentences imposed under the law best demonstrated, according to some authorities, the efficacy of the reward or fee system in stimulating prohibition enforcement as well as the danger that prohibition enforcement may be encouraged to the point where other laws are neglected.

For instance, it is cited that during the last fiscal year, a total of $233,586.50 was assessed in fines against liquor law violators, while only $192,-736.22 was collected in fines for violations of all the other state laws.

Of the $233,586.50 obtained in prohibition cases, $212,237.25 was paid out in rewards, fees, commissions and other costs incidental to the enforcement of the law.

High Rewards Paid.

City policemen, constables and sheriffs throughout the state were paid approximately $20,000 in outright rewards during the year and with the

John W. Weeks War Chief in 2 Cabinets, Dies

Lancaster, N. H., July 12.—John W. Weeks, former secretary of war in the cabinets of President Harding and Coolidge, died here this morning at 3 o'clock. Death was due to angina pectoris and came after an illness of more than a year.

HIS RICH LIFE EXPERIENCE.

It was generally assumed in the event the Republican party won the national elections of 1921 that John W. Weeks would be a member of President Harding's cabinet. His selection for secretary of the navy or secretary of the treasury was regarded as certain. His success as a financier was recognized. His graduation at Annapolis and experience in naval affairs had been recorded as fitting him for the navy secretaryship.

A big surprise came, however, when President Elect Harding announced he would appoint Mr. Weeks as secretary of war.

A rich life experience in the 60 years preceding the appointment was found to have equipped Mr. Weeks for that duty also, and he soon was recognized as a "fortunate selection" for the army, then facing the post-war problems of reorganization and reduction to a peace time basis.

Born on a Farm.

From the time he was born on the little New Hampshire farm near Lancaster, April 11, 1860, he kept in each stage of life an ever present human viewpoint.

Until he was 17 he was doing chores on the farm, and taking a friendly interest in the horses and other living things about the barnyard. His graduation at the cross roads school and local high school placed him soon afterwards in the school master's chair, also at a country cross roads in his native state. He continued studying and learned one thing well—that a little knowledge was not enough.

The then young school master succeeded at the age of 18 in getting an appointment to the Naval academy at Annapolis, where he was graduated four years later a midshipman. But two more years sufficed to kill what ambition then remained in the mind of Midshipman Weeks for a permanent post in the navy. He and a number of his classmates resigned.

Served in Spanish War.

Incidents followed rapidly in the life of Mr. Weeks after his resignation from the navy. Though he continued interest in that arm of the nation's defense, serving as a volunteer during the Spanish-American war, and later accepting a reserve commission as rear admiral, he turned away searching for new fields and a livelihood.

In 1885 Mr. Weeks married Miss Martha Sinclair and journeyed south as a surveyor and land commissioner for the Florida Southern railroad. Three years later he returned to New England, joining partnership in what grew to be the thriving firm of Hornblower & Weeks, bankers, of Boston, Mass.

He contributed to the development of the Bay state naval brigade and later commanded a brigade in the rank of captain.

He Enters Politics.

In 1900, Capt. Weeks began to attract attention in New England political affairs and in prominent ranks of the Republican party. A resident of Newton, Mass., at that time, he held many city offices, and in 1902 was elected mayor of Newton. Rapid strides followed. He went to congress in 1905.

Courageous, able and friendly to the leaders both of the Republican and Democratic parties, Congressman Weeks endeared himself to his colleagues in the house. He took an important part in shaping the Aldrich-Vreeland currency law as a member of the banking and currency committee and was influential in obtaining its passage. President Wilson found his advice valuable and often called him to the White House for conferences during the period when the federal reserve act was in the making. Congressman Weeks meanwhile had become Senator Weeks, succeeding Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts.

His Senate Record.

In the senate, as in the house, Mr. Weeks won quick recognition. His services were rewarded by appointment to important committees of that body. As a member of the military committee during the world war he stanchly supported aggressive war measures regardless of any question of party politics.

Boy Canoeist Drowns; Three Swimmers Die

Richard Erickson, 18 years old, 1311 Washington street, Evanston, was drowned at the Hamilton street beach, Evanston, yesterday afternoon, and a friend, Walter Ennerson, 19, of 1429 Washington street, narrowly escaped drowning when their canoe upset about 200 feet from the shore.

The two boys were lying flat in the canoe. When they attempted to get up the craft capsized, according to eyewitnesses.

When Capt. Otto W. Fricke and four of his men arrived Erickson was dead. Ennerson was revived immediately after he was taken ashore. Erickson was the son of E. M. Erickson, a tinsmith; Ennerson is a driver for Marshall Field & Co. Capt. Fricke said the water was calm and the spectators at first thought the boys were playing in the water.

Swimmer Dies in Water.

He had sucumbed to heart disease while bathing in three feet of water. An employe's check showing that he had worked for Armour & Co. as a carpenter was found in his locker, and through that he was identified.

Raymend G. Laschinger, 18, of 6116 Kenwood avenue, was drowned yesterday, and Herbert Schwartz, 17, of 2022 Bissell street, was drowned Saturday night while they were bathing at a summer resort on the Kankakee river near Kankakee.

Cool Water Reduces Crowds.

Cool water at all the city beaches kept the crowds smaller than on the same Sunday last year. With a lake temperature of from 66 to 67 degrees, about 25,000 visited the Oak street beach during the day as compared with about 100,000 the corresponding Sunday of 1925.

The body of P. N. Berens, 58 years old, 939 North Leamington avenue, who drowned in Leon Lake, Ill., last Thursday, was recovered yesterday morning by Felix Druba and Frank Druba, life guards at Waukegan.

WAR MAIMED OF FRANCE PROTEST U. S. DEBT PACT

Lay Plea at Shaft to Washington.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, July 11.—Mutely protesting against the terms of the Mellon-Berenger agreement for the settlement of France's $4,000,000,000 debt to the United States, 20,000 veterans marched slowly, in silence, through the streets of Paris today.

Without the sound of even a muffled drum, the men who blocked the German invasion from 1914 to 1918 filed at a funereal pace, set painfully by their blinded and wounded members, past the memorial to America's volunteers who died in the French service and past the statue of George Washington.

They laid wreaths on both statues—in silence. If they carried a bitter reproach in their eyes, they made no move that might be considered hostile to Americans. They marched, they laid their wreaths, and then they disbanded; that was all.

Fear for Nation's Future.

Only the veterans' papers sold along the line of march, despite the government's strict edict that the demonstration should be nonpolitical in character, suggested that the ceremony was to tell of the veterans' fear that the $4,025,000,000 to be paid by France over a period of sixty-two years might ruin the country's future. The papers carried the bitterest comment on the debt. Making mock of Gen. Pershing's famous "Lafayette, we are here," the official organ of the nationalist combatants group suggests, "What would Washington say, if he weren't a figure of bronze?"

Another slogan was, "Nous Voici Washington. Here we were, a million men as soldiers for France and for the world, or so they said a few years ago. It was we who held the line until you came. We gave all that was left to us—our blood. America gave its dollars. Blood and gold fought together, or so we thought. But apparently we were wrong. Now Uncle Sam presents his bill. Washington, old kid, what do you think of that?"

"Refuse to Pay Even a Radish."

"We are willing to admit that America lent us dollars. We are even willing to show our gratitude with a few marble plaques with gold letters. But we refuse to pay them even a radish."

Police were massed at every cross street and close to the American embassy and the statue of Washington.

Not one of the Americans who mingled among the thousands who lined the path of march or walked in front of the luxurious hotels of the Champs Elysees, past which crawled the procession headed by the most pitiful collection of shattered heroes that ever limped upon the face of the afflicted earth had a single glance cast in his direction.

"Brothers of Unknown Poilu."

But to the procession.

It is 10 o'clock — a gray summer morning. Smart horsemen and horsewomen clatter past the Arc de Triomphe after their morning ride in the Bois de Boulogne. Tourists, obviously Yankee, stare at the tomb of the unknown soldier, upon which flickers a bright flame.

Crowds wait quietly around the vast circle of the Etoile. Up the imposing avenue of the Champs Elysees crawls the procession. So quietly, so slowly they move. They might be brothers of the unknown, come up in the pathetic hope that they might change the will of the politicians and financiers. There is no hand to flatter their 3,000 tricolors and banners.

Women Lead Blind Soldiers.

They have great holes in their foreheads, their chins and mouths are awry, their faces lined and marked with scars. Their eyes are turned askew or popping from their sockets. Those coming next have no eyes at all. Their women lead them.

The crowd stops. There are pitying eyes. The watchers will stand this way another half hour.

Other marchers come on. They bear no scars at all; only haunted looks. They are the shell-shocked.

From All Parts of France.

Each group carries a banner telling who its members are and where they come from. There are miners from the north, peasants from the generous south, delegations from Burgundy,

Girl and Her Escort Slain Before Home

Two youthful bandits, in but not of Chicago, took a toll of three lives, a girl and two men, in two holdups early this morning. One of the slayers was captured, one escaped. The victims were:

MISS MARIE BLANG, 23, private secretary in the offices of the Cracker Jack company, 512 South Peoria street, residing at 1533 South 59th court, Cicero.

Cuple Slain in Auto.

Miss Blang and Hein were shot to death as they sat in Hein's automobile in front of Miss Blang's home. Rose died at the County hospital two hours after the bandits had shot and robbed him at 51st court and 14th street, Cicero.

Before he died Rose told the police he had picked up two passengers at 12ts street and Avers avenue, Chicago, who told him to drive them to Cicero. At 51st court and 14th street, he turned around to ask them for a definite destination and found himself facing a revolver.

The bandit fired pointblank at the instant he commanded Rose to throw up his hands. Two bullets struck the chauffeur in the abdomen. The bandits took Rose's money, stripped him of his uniform, tossed him in the street, and drove away.

Girl's Body in the Street.

Half a mile away they came upon Hein's automobile. A passerby heard six or seven shots and saw the taxicab driven away. He notified the Cicero police, who found the body of Miss Blang lying in the street beside the automobile and that of Hein between the car and the Blang cottage. Both had been shot in the head and apparently killed instantly.

On the way to the Blang home the police found Rose. They hurried to the county hospital with him where he died two hours later.

In the meantime Sergt. J. Murphy and Policeman Frank Shea in a flivver from the Fillmore street station had noticed a Checker cab that failed to stop for the light at Central avenue and the Douglas park "L" tracks. They pursued the cab to Lamon avenue and Jackson boulevard, where it struck an obstruction and overturned. One man jumped out and ran. The second was pinned under the car. He was arrested and taken to the Cicero morgue.

Bandit from Michigan; Confesses.

After a look at the bodies of his victims he broke down and confessed. He gave his name as Thomas Wain, 22 years old, of Muskegon, Mich. He said he knew his companion only as "Eddie," but believed he did not reside in Chicago. He said "Eddie" did the shooting.

Wain was wearing the coat and cap of Rose and in his pockets were found three clips of cartridges for an automatic pistol and collection slips from the Salem church Sunday school, which he had taken from Hein when he robbed the churchman's body.

Members of the Blang family said Miss Blang, Hein, Bertha Blang, 20 years old, and a brother, Walter, 17, had driven to church in Hein's car. After the services they had taken a ride, arriving back at the Blang home shortly after midnight. Bertha and Walter went into the house and Marie and Hein remained chatting in the car. A few minutes later they heard the shots and rushed out to find the bodies.

BULGARIA'S KING FLEEING REVOLT, VIENNA HEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, July 11.—Although the Bulgarian foreign office has vigorously denied rumors that the sudden departure of King Boris and the royal family from Sofia means flight from revolution, it is believed here that the precipitate trip to Switzerland has a serious political background.

For some time a strong party, including many army officers, has been working up sentiment for King Boris' abdication and the placing of his brother, Cyril, on the throne.

Betty Andrews Werner, former sweetheart of Martin Durkin, whose testimony was largely responsible for his conviction and sentence of 35 years for murder, was married Saturday night, it was learned yesterday. Her husband is Clyde Whalen, who, she said, she has known for a year. It had been reported that Betty would be married to Arthur Werner, father of her child, Jack. U. S. ARSENAL DAMAGES PUT AT $93,000,000

District Is Still in Terror.

BULLETIN.

New York, July 12.—(Special.)—Telephone messages received from Dover, N. J., at 2 o'clock this morning reported fires still raging on the army and navy reservations. Shells exploding at irregular intervals of ten or fifteen minutes could be heard plainly for miles, and the possibility of further magazine explosions still existed. Most citizens in nearby towns have refused to go to bed. While the present condition prevails it will be impossible to recover any bodies, it was said. Officials could not predict this morning when such an attempt could be made.

Dover, N. J., July 11.—[Special.]—Eleven are known to be dead, 25 are missing and are believed to have been killed, more than 200 are injured, and damage of approximately $93,000,000 has been done to government property in the destruction of the navy ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., and the partial destruction of the army ammunition depot which adjoins it at Picatinny.

The civilian damage may go above a million dollars. Doors and windows were blown out, plaster shaken down, brickwork cracked, and roofing damaged in hundreds of houses in the villages near the arsenals.

Seven Bodies Seen in Ruins.

Late tonight seven bodies were sighted in the ruins of the naval arsenal. They could not be reached. Another body was seen in Lake Denmark. The automobile of another missing man containing his bloodstained clothing was found. He is thought to have been blown to pieces.

Lieutenant Commander Edward A. Browne, medical officer at the naval depot; Capt. Burwell H. Clarke, commanding the marine attachment at the arsenal; Lieut. H. C. Schrade, Joseph Gately, gunner, and twenty marines and two civilian employés with their families, making a total of thirty-three, are the missing. Their bodies are believed to be among the 300 smashed and burned buildings of the navy ammunition depot in which big shells, depth bombs, cans of TNT and cases of powder were still exploding tonight, more than a full day after the blast.

Gen. C. C. Williams, chief of the ordnance staff of the army, will appoint a board of officers to make an official inquiry into the cause and the extent of the damage. Arrangements for a naval investigation have not yet been announced.

Shells Flying for 24 Hours.

For more than twenty-four hours sixteen inch armor piercing shells, fourteen inch and smaller caliber shells have been exploding, throwing projectiles in all directions, some flying over the hills surrounding the arsenals and landing in the wrecked and abandoned villages, on the roads, and over the country.

Late tonight fire still rages. As it does so, it heats up the ammunition stacks until, when the exploding point of the charges is reached, a fresh bombardment begins. Vast sheets of fire leap up, lighting up the four square miles of smashed buildings and explosion holes that now occupy the site of the two ammunition depots.

It would be sending men to sure death to permit searchers for bodies to approach the section where the fire and explosions are still in progress. It is here that more than a score of bodies are believed to be lying.

Buildings Destroyed Total 180.

Officers, marines, and civilians, scorched, lacerated, bruised, their eyeballs seared by floods of heat and light that accompanied the terrific flashes, succeeded in making their way to safety after the first two explosions. They arrived at roads and villages on all sides of the two arsenals. Scores of them were picked up by passing motorists. Some were taken to hospitals, others to private homes. Men were very widely scattered in this way, and some of those still unaccounted for may be alive.

The tremendous explosions, in which magazines containing hundreds of tons of explosives went up in groups of six or eight at a time, destroyed more than 180 buildings of the naval arsenals. Sixteen of them escaped the disaster, but at any time today these might have blown up.

Raging in the ruins of the exploded buildings and sweeping through trees and thick brush, the fire twice threatened to reach this isolated group of sixteen buildings, which contained thousands of tons of shells, powder, and TNT. In addition to the fire itself any of the exploding shells in the burning buildings might make an unlucky hit and set off one of the sixteen intact magazines. If one of these exploded the rest would probably soon follow. The sixteen magazines are still in danger. A stray shell may blow them up at any time.

Army Munitions Thus Far Spared.

None of the magazines of high explosives in the army arsenals has been detonated. The 400 army buildings, smashed and ripped, miraculously escaped the fire and explosion.

The 200 powder magazines of the navy arsenal are situated on a hillside, or plateau, which slopes down towards the army arsenal, which occupies a hollow. The naval depot occupies 400 acres; the army arsenal, 1,616 acres.

This morning, burning through trees and thicket, the fire of the naval area moved down the slope towards the army property. The wind, however, was against it. Army and naval officers watched the wind anxiously and prayed that it would not change.

All day long the wind fought the flames. No other fire fighting was possible under the terrific and continuous bombardment of high explosive shells and the blasts from explosives in containers. By 3 o'clock in the afternoon the wind had checked these flames. The brush and trees had been completely burned out of a wide belt separating the army from the navy arsenal. This furnished the army arsenal with complete protection from fire.

Scores Saved by Holiday.

Shells continued to explode in smoking pyre throughout today and Maj. Gen. Summerall, who rushed to the scene early today, asked hospitals and rescuers to prepare for new emergencies in event one of the shells should strike the army arsenal at Picatinny, where 50,000 pounds of TNT and large quantities of miscellaneous ammunition are stored.

One end of the Picatinny arsenal was partly destroyed in one of the series of explosions last night.

An even greater disaster was avoided because of the fact it was Saturday afternoon and all of the men of the depot and arsenal except those employed on essential duty were on leave. Had the explosion occurred while the great ammunition plant was in full operation the death and casualty list would necessarily have been far greater.

The number of shells and tonnage of powder at the plant was not known exactly today. All records at the plant were destroyed. Duplicate inventories of the shells, powder, high explosives and other equipment were ordered from Washington. Duplicate plans of all the buildings and of the complete layout of the arsenal were also sent to assist searching parties and to make ready for salvaging operations.

May Enter Ruins Today.

Lieut. Robert Ginsburgh, spokesman for the army relief forces, declared that no one would be permitted to enter the grounds of the naval depot until alter all danger from exploding shells is past.

After inspecting the ruins of the arsenals Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum said:

While small shells were still exploding at intervals of half an hour or more linemen of the New Jersey Light and Power company, under Foreman Peter Jewell, completed and connected power lines to pumps on the reservation except at the depot. With water made available from these pumps it was said tonight that the flames would be quenched sufficiently to allow search parties to enter the burned area some time today.

All roads in the western end of Morris county were thronged today by refugees, some afoot and others in automobiles. Part of them sought aid in recovering from the effects of the explosion yesterday, the others sought escape from an expected explosion today, of which they were warned this morning.

Steady Stream of Refugees.

They came from a fifteen mile zone whose center was what until late yesterday afternoon had been the navy's principal ammunition depot at Lake Denmark and the Picatinny army arsenal, but was today a seven square mile stretch of smoking, dangerous ruins.

The refugees came from deserted villages, where they had left collapsed houses and wrecked churches and public buildings. The streets of these hamlets were dotted with mounds of broken glass, and filled with doors torn from hinges and timbers wrenched from buildings. Many came from isolated farmhouses which had tumbled down on their tenants.

There were dazed men, heartbroken women, and lost children in the crowds passing along the roads. Many had camped out all night, others had found shelter in hospitals and homes and churches which had been opened for their relief. Now they were going to Dover, where arrangements had been made to care for them, or to Morristown to seek relatives among the hospital patients there.

High Officials Hurry to Scene.

An imposing number of high military and naval chiefs hurried to the scene of the disaster. In addition to Maj. Gen. Drum, former chief of staff of the A. E. F., in charge of actual operations, Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war, who was spending the week-end on Long Island, is there. Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy, who was with the scouting fleet off Newport, was on his way tonight. Gen. C. C. Williams of Washington, chief of ordnance, and Brig. Gen. Ruggles, his assistant, are on hand. Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, commander of the second corps area at Governor's island, was early on the scene, as was Rear Admiral Charles Plunkett, chief of the Brooklyn navy yard.

The secretary of war was awakened early yesterday morning by a telephone call from Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, commanding the Second corps area, with headquarters on Governor's island, who told him of the explosion. Gen. Summerall had found the secretary of war at the home of Congressman Robert L. Bacon at Old Westbury, L. I.

Army Rushes Aid.

Gen. Summerall, before starting for Lake Denmark, issued orders for all supply trucks and army ambulances to be held in readiness to report to Dover for emergency relief work. With Lieut. Col. S. O. Fuqua, assistant operation officer, he started for Lake Denmark at 1:30 a. m., soon after he had called up the secretary of war to notify him of the disaster.

The trucks and ambulances were at Forts Hamilton, Wadsworth, Jay, Slocum, Schuyler, Totten, and Hancock. Gen. Summerall explained that the trucks and ambulances were to be called if needed for food, hospital and supply service at the place of the explosion.

Two hundred marines from Quantico, Va., under command of Maj. Robert Y. Rhea, arrived at 11:30 tonight to augment the existing guard.

An audit of the naval property at the depot was completed recently, and the appraised value was $87,000,000. The army arsenal was valued, according to official statements, at $40,000,000. The naval property is almost a complete loss.

The wreckage of the army buildings and supplies goes far into the millions, but it cannot be accurately known until the depot is entered and inspected. One of the greatest losses suffered by the army was the almost total destruction of the great army chemical and explosives laboratory. Its chimneys were down, its walls were bent inward, and all of its valuable apparatus is believed to have been shattered.

Guard Deserted Village.

Hibernia, N. J., July 11.—(AP)—This village, normally of six hundred population, tonight is utterly deserted, except for a guard of marines and a few inhabitants who refused to leave in the face of danger from bursting shells. The town's population is scattered throughout the territory, in hospitals and refugee camps.

Every window in the village is shattered, doors are blown in, numbers of walls have collapsed and the streets are littered with débris.

The marine guard stationed here tonight told of the aged caretaker on an estate, only 1¼ miles from the very center of the wrecked naval reservation, who refused to leave his post. Tonight Maj. Gen. Summerall issued a special permit for food to be taken inside the danger area to be caretaker.

The marines also told of one of their comrades who wandered out of the area of bursting shells about noon today after hiding all night behind a large bowlder. This marine reported having seen another badly wounded marine in the area.

Havoc Wrought by Naval Arsenal Blast Is Likened to Devastation in World War

BY LOWELL M. LIMPUS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockaway, N. J., July 11.—A blossom-like puff of smoke—a deafening roar—the shriek of a sixteen inch shell cutting the air—then the spitting flame as it exploded—and intermittently the whine of small arms ammunition loosed into space, and the ping! ping! ping! as bullets cracked against the pines—

A reporter, former West Pointer and ex-A. E. F. officer, in the small hours of this morning sat on the brow of a ridge that overlooks what remained of Lake Denmark naval arsenal and, with mingled wonder and horror, watched the brilliant havoc of destruction in the horseshoe valley below.

Most of the big shells shot skyward as the T. N. T. explosions released them from the magazines. That was by the mercy of providence, for had the bombardment generally taken a horizontal course, villages for miles around would have been wiped clean from the earth.

One after another the powder magazines reared themselves on the floor of the valley. One after another they changed from shadowy piles of masonry into live red and white volcanoes, belching destruction.

The spurts of flame lit up the long low wooden barrack buildings as they caved in and crumpled like card houses in a gust of wind.

A lake at the foot of the hill, ordinarily a calm placid body of blue water, was blood red with the reflection of the holocust enhancing the terrible grandure of this spectacle.

And along the winding road that skirted the ridge on the other side sped an inaudible procession of ambulances, jolting their perilous way through the crazy barrage to bear additional injured to places of safety.

A six year old boy, totally blinded and shell shocked in the arsenal catastrophe, was among the victims taken to Memorial hospital, Morristown, N. J.

His last name is Peterson, but he doesn't remember his first name nor where he lived. The boy's father, John Peterson, was being cared for in the Morristown armory. He, too, is shell shocked. With the boy in the hospital is his baby sister, Eleanor, 17 days old, severely bruised; his sister, Isabel, 16 years old, badly shaken up, and Mrs. Peterson, suffering from a severed artery in her neck.

Doctors say the boy's optic nerve snapped, making him completely blind, probably when he was hurled violently to the ground by one of the explosions. The corona of the right eye was cut and there is a deep gash in the child's chin.

The shell shock from which father and son are suffering, physicians said, is simliar to the extreme cases experienced in the world war.

Rescue workers conveyed the Petersons to Morristown from the explosion area back in from Rockaway.

On his cot tonight Peterson, whose home was but 300 feet from the arsenal, recounted how the explosion transformed a peaceful Jersey countryside into the replica of a shell torn sector on the western battle front.

"I was hastening home to avoid the rain," he said. "As I reached the door, lightning flared. An instant later the very heavens and all the surrounding earth seemed to vomit flame. The volume of sound deafened me. The front of my house and the roof crashed about me.

"My wife and children were hurled across the kitchen. I stumbled to their aid. As we made the door, a second detonation hurled us to the ground and brought down the rest of our home upon us."

In the initial mad scramble from the stricken territory more than fifty children became separated from their parents. All but a few, however, had been reunited with their families tonight.

Thrown 20 feet into the air by a bursting shell and wounded in the back by shrapnel, Sergt. John P. Nicholson, United States marines, swam a mile across Lake Denmark as the final leg of his flight from the naval arsenal explosion.

Nicholson graphically described his experiences while his injuries were being dressed at the Morristown Y. M. C. A.

"When the lightning bolt hit the first magazine," he said, "fire broke out and the gong rang, summoning us to extinguish it.

"With a number of other marines I hurried out, but we had just begun to fight the fire when the first explosion occurred. We all turned and ran like the devil.

"I had run about 150 yards when a shell exploded just behind me, throwing me 20 feet up and forward. When I landed blood was pouring from a dozen wounds in my back made by small pieces of shrapnel.

"I got to my feet and pushed on. I came to the high wall that surrounds the arsenal and had climbed to the top of it when an explosion of T. N. T. hurled me to the ground with such force I thought my neck was broken.

"The next thing I knew I ran plump into a barbed wire fence, cutting my legs badly. I disentangled myself and ran on. For a little way there were three other men running along with me. They shouted something to me—I don't know what—and then disappeared. I don't know what became of them.

"I kept on blindly, my footsteps guided by I know not what. Shells were bursting all around, whining and shrieking through the air, tearing great holes in the earth when they landed. Death was very close, I thought.

"After what seemed ages I found myself on the shore of Lake Denmark. I was almost ready to drop from exhaustion, but I pulled myself together and dived in. The cool water revived me and I struck out for the opposite shore. How I managed to swim that mile I don't know. When I reached land I sank down and lay in a sort of stupor, but the events I had witnessed kept passing through my mind like one in the dilirium of fever. The most vivid picture was of the wooden barracks, row on row of them, caving in like tissue paper houses, after the first explosion of T. N. T., as I was running."

Hours later a rescue party came upon Nicholson wandering dazedly near the lake.

Louis Murchio, 12 years old, was looking out of the window of his home in Pompton Lakes, N. J., late Saturday afternoon, when he saw the head and body of a man rush by in the air, he told police today. The body was legless, the boy said, and was uniformed. Police are trying to find the body.

NEWS, CAMERA TRIO PERMITTED IN DANGER ZONE

Warned It's Like Visit to "Western Front."

Dover, N. J., July 11.—(AP)—A reporter, a photographer and a motion picture camera man were allowed inside the danger zone of the explosion of the naval ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., for the first time this afternoon.

At the entrance to the Picatinny arsenal the party, under military escort, was met by Brig. Gen. Crum, who said:

"Well, boys, you'll find it just like the western front."

The car carrying the party had not gone 200 yards beyond the picket lines marking the entrance to the army reservation before shell holes appeared on either side of the roadway. The road itself was almost impassable from limbs of trees and other debris scattered on it.

No Building Intact.

The brick headquarters building on the army reservation had collapsed and the roofs of officers' quarters were scattered over the lawns. Not one of the 500 buildings on the army reservations was intact. Concrete looked as if it had been smashed by a giant sledge hammer. As the party proceeded nearer the naval reservation, the intermitten shell explosions increased in violence and dense smoke and powder fumes made breathing difficult.

The newspaper men were informed by the officers conducting them that it was impossible for any one to go inside the devastated naval reservation and that the most they could do would be to skirt the danger area.

Flames from the burning debris on the naval reservation were visible from all parts of the countryside, and a sulphurous black smoke hung over everything.

At the foot of Picatinny peak it was necessary to abandon the automobile in which the party had come. On foot it proceeded to the arsenal power house, which was demolished. It was near the power house that Capt. G. W. Bott was killed.

A wooden water tank on a hillside near by had burst and the large amount of water stored therein had swept down the hillside. The stucco house of Chief Pipefitter Moog and that of Engineer Williams were crushed flat to the ground. The Moog and Williams families were absent at the time of the explosion.

Viewed from a Cliff.

The party climbed a one thousand foot cliff on the army reservation overlooking the plateau upon which the naval depot had stood. A mass of white wreckage marked the place on which the largest magazine on the reservation had been situated. A great hole 100x40 feet and about 30 feet deep was all that was left of the storage magazine for TNT depth bombs believed to have been struck by the lightning which precipitated the disaster.

The flag on the pole before the commandant's quarters in the reservation was still flying, although the headquarters building itself was a mass of ruins. The entire plateau was quite clean of trees and shrubs of all sorts and instead of the green of grass, the whole area was a burntover brown.

Shells Still Flying.

The shrubbery and trees atop the cliff upon which the reporters stood were stripped of leaves and an occasional shell still burst near by. A piece of metal from one of the shells, still hot, was picked up on the cliff.

The army and navy officers conducting the party said that they expected the shells would continue exploding for two or three days.

From the cliff it was possible to count nine of the semi-buried magazines on the naval reservation which had not yet exploded. Naval officers said there were eighteen of these small magazines which had not yet blown up.

ARSENAL COMMANDER BLINDED FIGHTING FIRE —IS OPERATED UPON

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Capt. O. C. Dowling, commander of the naval munition depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., was operated on at the Brooklyn naval hospital tonight in an effort to save his eyesight. The captain was blinded while he was combating flames at the depot following the first of the series of explosions. Lieutenant Commander Paul Albright of the medical corps, who performed the operation, said afterward that he was doubtful if Capt. Dowling's sight could be restored.

ONE CHICAGOAN MISSING, 1 HURT IN ARMS BLAST

Relatives and friends of Chicago marines stationed at the navy munitions depot, Lake Denmark, N. J., scene of the explosions disaster, made inquiry of THE TRIBUNE yesterday regarding the fate of those they were interested in. Early this morning dispatches had not established that any men from here had been killed, although one was listed as missing and one as injured.

Among the missing is George Mathis, 23 years old, 2138 North Spaulding avenue, a private in the marine corps, who has spent seven years in the service. Private Mathis is the son of Mrs. Mary Mathis, living at the Spaulding avenue address, and has a brother, Frank Mathis of 3513 Medill avenue. They had not been notified last night of his fate. He was married last Christmas, his mother said, to Stamford, Conn., girl.

Thomas Johnston Injured.

Another listed as slightly injured is Private Thomas Johnston of the marine corps, whose address is given as 4038 Wilcox street.

Two brothers, Charles L. and Ralph E. Hall, 23 and 21 years old, living at Robinson, Ill., were reported missing in early dispatches, but later reports failed to mention them. Both enlisted in the marines a year and a half ago. A brother, Chester, of Robinson, said last night over the telephone. Neither was married, he said. Their mother is Mrs. Albert Gibson, 139 North High street, Paris, Ill.

Mrs. Fred Russell, 6227 Major avenue, is a sister-in-law of Capt. Otto C. Dowling, in command of the navy depot, who was badly injured in the first explosion. His wife was Miss Ora Russell of Chicago. They had no children, Mrs. Russell said. Capt. Dowling was a graduate of the naval academy at Annapolis in the class of 1908, she said.

Explains Theory of Blast.

According to the theory advanced by Fred R. Weiss, former instructor of electricity at Lewis institute, the disaster would not have occurred had the lightning rods on the government buildings been properly installed or maintained.

"Lightning," he said, "will not enter a building protected by rods unless they are not properly put up or kept up. The rod must be grounded in damp soil and the ground wire should not be bent around a sharp corner. I know nothing of the rod conditions at the ammunition magazine, but my years of experience as a teacher of the theories of electricity has convinced me that the disaster would not have occurred had the installation and maintenance of the lightning rods been properly attended to."

CITY WELCOMES ELKS TONIGHT; 100,000 COMING

Thousands of delegates and visitors to the sixty-second annual grand lodge reunion of the Order of Elks flowed into the city yesterday, to be on hand at the formal opening of the convention tonight. At 8 p. m. in a meeting at the Auditorium they will be welcomed to the city by City Comptroller Martin J. O'Brien, acting for Mayor Dever.

At sundown yesterday it was estimated by members of the credentials committee in the Congress hotel headquarters that fully 50,000 members of the order, many with their wives and families, had registered in a score of hotels throughout the city. By tonight that number will be doubled, the officials said.

15 Come from Canal Zone.

Among the numerous delegations to arrive during the day were fifteen members of the Panama Canal Zone lodge, whose trip here required seven days, by boat and rail. With them is their district deputy, R. M. Davies, and their exalted ruler, L. G. Scheets. The group brought unique canes made from the spines of sharks they had caught at home.

The visiting Elk today will obtain his badge, register his name, and obtain tickets and credentials to the convention in the corridors of the City hall. For the remainder of the day until the meeting tonight nothing else is on the general program except for a concert at 3 p. m. by the order's prize winning band in front of the Congress. Grand lodge officials will hold their annual golf tournament at Olympia Fields Country club in the afternoon while their wives will be entertained at bridge on the club veranda.

But all who can will enter the Auditorium tonight to hear the city's welcome and the response to be given by Judge William H. Atwell of Dallas, Tex., grand exalted ruler.

First Big Day Tomorrow.

Tomorrow is the first big day of the convention. The opening business session at 10 a. m., in the Auditorium will include the annual reports of the grand officers and the election of new leaders for the coming year. Charles H. Grakelow, director of Philadelphia's department of public welfare, will be placed in nomination for grand exalted ruler by the mayor of his city, W. Freeland Kendrick. Mr. Grakelow probably will be elected, it was said last night.

Mayor Kendrick will head a delegation of 300 Philadelphians into the city this morning at 9 a. m. Groups from New York, Washington, Denver, Detriot, Omaha, Toledo, Salt Lake City, Seattle, and other cities will arrive during the day.

WHITE MULE + WHITE HORSE = 1 NIGHTMARE

And One Hostler Is Minus Liberty.

Too much white mule and a big white horse proved too strong a combination yesterday for James La Velle, 43, hostler, of 4817 South Halsted street.

Plodding waveringly down the middle of the State street car tracks, James was enroute to return the horse to its master, and had nearly reached 50th street.

Oblivious, James meandered on. Obedient to the signal, the big white horse attempted to turn out, but was restrained by the rope held by La Velle.

Another jangle from the trolley, and the horse leaped ahead of the hostler, who confusedly tried to pull him back. The white horse lifted a hoof and propelled the hostler into the path of the trolley, beneath which he disappeared before the horrified gaze of motorman and passengers.

Some one sent in a call to the fire department, and just as the smoke eaters arrived, James was discovered, woozily pulling himself out from under the rear end of the car, a trifle pugnacious and loudly demanding to know what the fuss was all about, who had hit him, and where his horse was.

Police escorted James to the 50th street station, where he was booked for disorderly conduct, in preference to a suggested charge of having escaped death.

Deserted and alone, the big white horse wandered on down State street, and into a switch track at 61st street, keeping a weather eye out for his guide. There he was discovered by a starter for the street car company, who telephoned the 50th street police station

They did. James and the big white horse are still in the jug.

Drops 1,750 Feet Before Using Parachute; Record?

Cincinnati, O., July 11.—(AP)—Claim to the world's record for a delayed parachute drop was made here today by F. A. Deweese, former United States army air service sergeant. Deweese said he dropped 1,750 feet today from an airplane at Grissard field before he pulled the rip cord to his parachute, bettering the 1,500 foot drop of Air Service Sergeant Randall Bose of Mitchell field, Mineola, N. Y. The plane was flying at an altitude of 2,500 feet when he jumped.

CLAIRE DUX TO FACE $10,000 SUIT IF SHE WEDS C. H. SWIFT

San Francisco, Cal., July 11.—(AP)—Miss Claire Dux, grand opera singer, will face a $10,000 damage suit for breach of contract if she stands by her decision to give up her musical career with her marriage next month to Charles H. Swift, millionaire Chicago meat packer.

This was made known today by Timothy Healy, counsel for the San Francisco Opera company, who pointed out that Miss Dux several months ago entered into a contract to make several appearances with the opera company here during the summer season.

All efforts to induce Miss Dux to continue her career until the completion of the season here have failed, Healy said, and unless she reconsiders action will be filed to reimburse the association for loss sustained through breach of contract.

Miss Dux was scheduled to sing the leading soprano rôles in "Fra Diavolo," "Faust," and "Martha." It was to have been her first appearance in grand opera on the Pacific coast.

YOUTH KILLED FIXING FUSE IN RADIO STATION

Lester J. Wolf, 19 year old Thornton High school graduate, said to be one of the youngest licensed radio broadcast operators in the country, was killed early yesterday morning as he was endeavoring to replace a blown fuse at station WOK, in Homewood.

Vibrations caused by applause of a dance number broadcast through the station were said to have caused the fuse to blow out.

George W. Allen, studio director for WOK, had announced an instrumental number when the broadcasting apparatus went dead. He then telephoned to Herman Pomy, chief operator, requesting speedy repairs.

Young Wolf went into the battery room alone and was replacing the fuse when he was knocked down by the power, which he had failed to shut off. When Pomy entered the room Wolf had regained his feet and assured Pomy that he had not been hurt. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness and died within a few seconds.

Wolf lived at 103 North Dixie highway, Homewood. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wolf, were in Buffalo, N. Y., on a vacation when notified yesterday of their son's death.

Team Runs Away; Drags Man Caught in Harness

Harry Tilling, 814 West 43d street, was injured yesterday when a team of horses he was leading became frightened and ran away. Tilling was entangled in the harness and was dragged for half a block. The accident occurred at 72d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Police Rush to Untangle Traffic Snarl at Fire

Police squads were rushed to a spectacular fire last night in the plant of the Northwestern Terra Cotta company, Marshfield and Wrightwood avenues, after thousands of pedestrians and motorists had gathered and blocked traffic routes in the neighborhood. The blaze caused damage estimated at $20,000. The wooden structure was ignited by sparks from a bonfire kindled in a nearby lot by a group of boys. It required a half hour's work by the police to untangle the snarl in the traffic.

Dives Into Water with Food in Mouth; Chokes to Death

East Liverpool, O., July 11.—(AP)—Diving into a pool while eating an orange caused the death of Dominic Prezzia, 20, Wellsville, O., grocer, at Chester, W. Va., tonight. The orange pelt choked him while he was under water.

BOLIVIAN CABINET RESIGNS.

FREE HOFFMAN AFTER MONTH IN JAIL TODAY

His thirty day sentence for contempt of court at an end, Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman today will step from the Du Page county jail at Wheaton and be whisked back home to Des Plaines.

While the sheriff is barred by the contagious illness of his son, Gordon Hoffman, from entering his quarantined home, he is expected to live until the quarantine is lifted in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bennett Johnson, which is on the same lot in Des Plaines.

Sheriff John Hesterman of Wheaton yesterday decided to discharge Sheriff Hoffman at noon, which will round out, almost to the hour, the full thirty days. While no comment has come from the sheriff, those who know him believe he will return at once to his office, seeking to forget his unpleasant experience and to have it forgotten.

20,000, Led by Maimed and Blinded, March.

There is the association of authors who fought in the war, the association of state functionaries who took part in the combat. There are royalist veterans who do not carry the tricolor. There are Fascist veterans marching briskly with their canes and black shirts.

At 10:30 the column is leaving the Place des Etats Unis. In a drizzling rain it wends on to the statue of the young American poet, Alan Seeger, who was killed in action in 1916. The procession stops at the monument to the American volunteers. The leaders step forward with a wreath, which is received by members of the Association of American Volunteers to the French Army.

Police Hide Plea to United States.

At 10:40 the procession dips its flags before the statue of Washington, mounted on a prancing horse, in the Place d'Iena.

Police walk nervously in front of the American embassy. The leaders again step forward, and lay a wreath on the statue of Washington. The wreath is tied with a great tricolor ribbon bearing the inscription: "Washington, Esperance;" "esperance" signifying hope and expectation. Other leaders step forward with a marble plaque to place beside the wreath.

The prefect of police meets them and takes the plaque and places it face down, covering it with the flowers, explaining: "Orders from the government."

Want Debt Discussion Renewed.

The plaque read:

"Veterans of France to the people of the United States: Over the head of diplomacy, far from political and financial combines, the far veterans of France appeal straight to the American people. The proposed debt settlement would cause the ruin of France and the loss of her independence. America will understand that the war veterans of France, who are honest, sincere, and loyal, are asking in a friendly manner that study of the question be taken up once more."

Half a block farther on the flags are furled and the "grand mutiles," as the French call the badly battered veterans, were picked up in cars and wheeled away. The blind are led to their homes. Everything is done. The police go to lunch.

Members of the Association of American Volunteers turned up today despite the letter, signed by their president, to the effect that they would not, since they had taken exception to posters displayed by the French veterans before the demonstration. Among the Americans were Col. Charles Loeb and D. K. McAfee.

Carry Black Flags in Nice.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 11.—On the eve of his trip by airplane to London to sign the Franco-British debt accord, Finance Minister Caillaux, speaking in his home town of Le Mans tonight, for the first time publicly emphasized the need of a virtual dictatorship "in certain times when the country must give the men who hold the helm the means necessary to accomplish their purposes."

"The representatives of the country are there to choose the men," he said. "Once chosen, let them work freely. Parties must fade into the background, drop their individual conceptions and group around the man who assumes the ungrateful task of saving French finances. If France does not do this she is in for misery. I am sure the franc's value in the foreign exchange is not in any way representative of its real value. It is up to the French to change this."

M. Caillaux expects to sign the London accord tomorrow night, and return with the safeguard clause and everything else he wants, to face the chamber on Friday, vastly strengthened.

DALE ACCEPTS HELP TO FIGHT PRESS MUZZLE

Indiana Klux Victim Wants Federal Decision.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Muncie, Ind., July 11.—[Special.]—George R. Dale, fighting fifty-nine year old editor of the Weekly Post-Democrat here, has accepted the offer of the America Civil Liberties Union to finance his battle for the freedom of the American Civil Liberties union of the press. He formally wired his acceptance today following a long distance conversation with his attorney, William V. Rooker, at Indianapolis.

The offer to carry the financial responsibility of the fight came yesterday from Forrest Bailey, secretary of the Civil Liberties union. Dale wired Bailey that he is sending the decision a full statement of his case, and that Attorney Rooker has agreed that he will be glad to have, probably, Arthur Garfield Hayes, attorney for the union, associated with him.

Menace to Free Press.

Dale was sentenced to ninety days on the penal farm by Judge Clarence Dearth of the Delaware county Circuit court here. The Supreme court affirmed the decision of the lower court in a decision which stated that in the opinion of the court "the truth is no defense." This referred to an editorial Dale had published in his paper and on which the contempt action was based, and Dale has been informed by Indiana lawyers that such a decision is a menace to free speech and a free press, guaranteed by the constitution.

Therefore the old editor, worn and haggard from his long fight against the Ku Klux Klan of Delaware county, says he will carry on, that he doesn't want a pardon, as friends have suggested.

Must Wipe Out Decision.

"No, no," Dale says, "a pardon won't do in this case. That decision must be wiped out; the United States Supreme court must pass on it and wipe it out."

It is understood that it is not the decision per se that is worrying Attorney Rooker, who also is interested, as a citizen and lawyer, he says, in perpetuating the freedom of the press.

Mr. Rooker has stated that he is principally worried about the interpretations that will be put upon the decision by other courts of law—the parts that will be taken from its lengthy whole and used and quoted in other harmful decisions.

There, Attorney Rooker says, is where the danger in this decision lies.

Promise Exposure This Week.

Meantime a revelation is promised this week of a good many of the conditions surrounding the rise and fall of the Ku Klux Klan in Muncie, conditions which led to Dale's plight.

This is expected to come about through a political fight that looms; a battle for supremacy between Sheriff Harry McCauley and Judge Dearth.

There is every indication that Judge Dearth will seek to remove the sheriff from office this week and that the sheriff will make some reprisals, and that in the general mêlée a good deal of exposing will be done.

Gives Despotic Power.

Judge Dearth has revealed that he will make his fight to remove the sheriff from office probably under the Wright bone dry act. The despotic power the judge is given under this law may be understood from the following quotation from it:

"And the court shall, without a jury, hear the charges and upon satisfactory proof thereof, remove any such officer from the discharge of the duties of his office."

Another revelation which may be made this week may be the identity of the man, among a band of black hooded klansmen, whom Dale shot on the street here four years ago.

Dale has ever since openly stated time and again that he shot a man and that he had reason to believe the man died. Still nothing has been done.

Judge Dearth doesn't believe the story and gives that as the reason why he will not investigate it.

SHOOTS BROTHER WHILE PLAYING.

Kewanee, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—While playing today, Dale Shaner, 14, shot his brother, Randall, with a .22 caliber rifle which he believed unloaded, the bullet passing through Randall's body near his heart.

TREASURY READY TO VIEW SITES FOR NEW POSTOFFICE

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—First steps to acquire a site for a new Chicago postoffice are likely to be taken this week by the treasury department.

Proposals will be solicited by the treasury in a daily paper in Chicago over a period of about three weeks. A final date will be specified on which proposals must be submitted.

The proposals will be received by James A. Wetmore, supervising architect of the treasury, and negotiations commenced with the property owners.

If the terms offered are satisfactory the treasury has authority to enter into a contract for the purchase of the site. If no satisfactory arrangement can be entered into the treasury may resort to condemnation proceedings, in which case the matter will be handled by the department of justice.

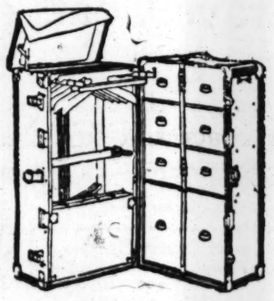

The treasury has available in cash to pay toward the site during the present fiscal year the sum of $3,975,000. This includes $1,750,000 appropriated a number of years ago and $2,225,000 additional provided in the recent deficiency bill. Under the terms of the deficiency bill, however, the treasury is authorized to purchase a site at a maximum cost of $5,000,000.

ALLEGED MASH SISTERS INSIST THEY ARE SANE

Blame Boy Friend for Mixup with Police.

Throughout yesterday Rose and Ella Halik, youthful stenographers, languished in the psychopathic hospital, wondering why Capt. Richard Gill of the Lawndale police station, as they charge, had sent them there.

Meanwhile relatives of the girls, who are 22 and 18 years old and live at 2647 South Millard avenue, declared they were perfectly sane and threatened to engage a lawyer to obtain their release. Physicians at the hospital also asserted that so far as they had observed them, the girls were "without psychosis"—which means normal mentally.

Ella Explains Candy Gift.

Ella explained her side of the story; how she had sent Capt. Gill a box of candy merely as a token of friendship.

"Rose and I have been going with a boy named John Lohrentz," she said. "He seemed to know all the policemen. He told us he was a good friend of Capt. Gill. Once when I was with John we passed the captain and spoke to him. The captain tipped his hat. He is so nice looking.

"Naturally I thought John and the captain were good friends. So when John brought me a box of candy Saturday I thought maybe it came from the captain. I sent Rose over with it to thank him for sending it. Am I crazy because I thank a man for a box of candy I thought he sent me?"

Police Shocked by Note.

Police at the Lawndale station assert that with the box came a note so shocking in its contents that they were stunned. Other policemen, it is said, received notes from the girls. But Rose and Ella deny that they wrote any.

They blame Lohrentz. They believed, they said, that his conversation indicated Capt. Gill's interest in them. Both averred that they had never been out with the captain.

DEMAND HANGING FOR ROBT. SCOTT IN COURT TODAY

Death on the gallows for Robert Scott, whether he pleads guilty to the murder of Joseph Maurer, clerk in the City Hall pharmacy,or not, will be demanded by the state today, it was declared yesterday by First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman.

While Attorney William Scott Stewart, defense counsel, refused to admit or deny the reports that his client would confess the murder and throw himself on the mercy of the court when arraigned for trial today, Mr. Gorman notified Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Byrne, who will prosecute the case, to accept no compromise.

GUN ON HIS HIP, STAR ON HIS CAR; DANCER IS JUGGED

When Milton Levy of 1153 Wenonah avenue, Oak Park, goes to dance on the south side he goes fully equipped.

Last night as he charlestoned past two detectives in a Chinese restaurant at 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue, one of the officers noticed a bulge on his hip. It was a pistol, and Milton was dragged from the arms of his partner and hastened to the door.

Under his coat he wore a deputy sheriff's star. On his automobile, parked at the curb, was an official star of the sanitary district. The vehicle, instead of the customary horn, had a police gong. So Milton was taken to the Woodlawn station and charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

NEARBY COUNTIES TURN SPOTLIGHT ON SPEED TRAPS

Neighbors Help Clean Up "Legalized Banditry."

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Chicago's official inquiry into "legalized highway banditry" leaped the boundaries of Cook county and spread to the motoring territory within a fifty mile radius north, west and south yesterday when officials of neighboring counties pledged cooperation with State's Attorney Crowe, the Chicago Motor club and other agencies battling speed traps.

Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county, was the first neighbor to jump into the campaign. He announced that whenever motorist complaints concerning the conduct of village police officers or magistrates in Lake county warrant investigation, police and court records will be seized and grand jury action will be asked in Waukegan.

Roads Will Be Made Safe.

"You may rest assured," he told Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the motor club, "that this war on speed traps will get direct and official cooperation in Lake county. All roads in Illinois must be patrolled for safety rather than to reap police and court fees before the great paved highway system that motorists have built and paid for can return their actual value to the public."

Braun announced that all complaints so far gathered against Lake county towns will be forwarded to State's Attorney Smith for immediate action, and that a like collection of evidence will be sent to officials of both Will county on the south and Du Page county on the west. Numerous charges of speed trap methods along St. Charles road in Du Page county and some of the roads to Joliet in Will county have been received by the club and THE TRIBUNE Friend of the Motorist department.

Inquiry Against Two Towns.

While waiting for the first consignment of grand jury evidence to come in on Crowe's speed trap questionnaire mailed to victims of various Cook county villages today, Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller prepared last night to direct his inquiry into magistrate methods in River Forest and Markham.

Joseph Hartford, former assistant state's attorney and a recognized expert in motor vehicle law, has been employed by the Chicago Motor club to aid in the general campaign.

U. S. INVESTIGATION OF MOTOR TRUCKS TO BEGIN THIS MONTH

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—More than 80,000 owners of motor truck fleets will be represented directly or indirectly at the hearings the interstate commerce commission will hold throughout the country in July, August, and September in its investigation of the operation of motor busses and trucks with relation to the operation of railroads.

The hearings will begin in Chicago July 27 and close at Washington Sept. 29. The other cities in which hearings will be held are St. Paul, Portland, Ore., San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Detroit, Boston, New York, Asheville, N. C.; Dallas, Tex., and Kansas City.

The investigation of the commission, which will be made the basis for legislative recommendations to congress for regulation of motor busses and motor trucks operating as common carriers in interstate commerce, is welcomed by the motor truck owners, according to A. J. Brosseau, chairman of the motor vehicle committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

HEAVY INCREASE IN AUTO THEFTS HERE THIS YEAR

Chicago police officials predicted last night that the total number of cars stolen in Chicago this year will double the figure for 1925 if the present startling rate is maintained.

The prediction was made when statistics from all vehicle sources revealed that 96 cars had been stolen during Saturday, Saturday night, and yesterday morning, and that the total for the three day holiday around the Fourth was 125.

The total for 1926 to date is 7,500, as compared with 8,260 in all of 1925, according to the police.

One of the contributing causes of the increase, officials said, was what they described as the growing tendency of judges to place youthful auto thieves on probation.

It was said that there had been a marked increase in the theft of high priced cars, as contrasted with the former specialization in cheap cars, which could be readily sold and were of sufficiently common type not to be recognizable on cursory examination.

Police claimed that the increase could not be attributed to any easing up in vigilance and pointed to a record of 65 per cent recoveries.

Several state capitals within a day's drive from Chicago were named as ideal places for thieves to dispose of any kind of car. Some cities have stations where drives by thieves are made at regular intervals, it is said. As in years past, some of the cars are disassembled for parts, while others are disguised and reconditioned for sale.

Accessory thieves, particularly those adept in ripping off spare tires, are having a busy season in Chicago. It is said that theatergoers are the favorite victims of these thieves.

3 AUTO CRASHES IN GERMAN RACE; 1 DEAD; 6 HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 11.—Three automobile crashes with one man killed and several injured today marked a race on the "Avus" track at Berlin for the "big prize" given by the German Automobile club. A Mercedes car skidded on the road made slippery by the rain while doing 100 miles per hour and crashed into rails at the side of the track, hitting three attendants. Then the car dashed into a wooden building. The driver was not injured, but one of the attendants was killed and the others were severely injured. Another machine dashed into a grand stand, injuring three spectators. The driver was not injured. Finally a French car collided with another. Both machines were smashed and the driver of one had his jaw broken.

JAMS AGAIN RUIN AUTOIST HOLIDAY; PUSH BOND ISSUE

Cermak to Name Widening Committee Today.

Following another Sunday of traffic jams, dangerous congestion and tedious delays on the narrow state highways pavements entering Chicago, Anton J. Cermak, president of the Cook county board, announced last night that he will command full speed ahead today on plans for the proposed $15,000,000 bond issue for the widening and improvement of existing main roads in the county.

Congestion observed yesterday along the two-lane pavements of the River road from Maywood through Des Plaines, at the Rand, Ballard and Milwaukee avenue intersections, along Milwaukee avenue where the Northwest highway, Waukegan road, and Higgins road concentrate their traffic; along Lake street road, Roosevelt road, Halsted street, and other gateway pavements, will be cited at today's county board meeting. On some of these arteries cars were banked up for miles at 6 p. m., and drivers were delayed several hours in reaching their Chicago homes.

Names Committee Today.

Announcement of members of the wider highway committee of Cook county will be made by President Cermak at the board meeting. This committee is the outgrowth of the conference of all traffic and highway bodies held in the board rooms recently to discuss plans for pushing the emergency traffic relief campaign. This committee will work with the committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce in bringing about the $15,000,000 bond issue, and will consist, according to last night's announcement, of nineteen members.

In discussing the relief program, President Cermak pointed out that, although the worst congestion and delay in Cook county is found on the pavements built and maintained by the state of Illinois, lack of state action in the emergency demands direct improvement methods, and that the county board is ready to assume the necessary burden and force road widening.

State Fails to Answer Appeal.

Appeals to the state department of works and building for a statement of what funds and building coöperation may be expected from the state have not been officially answered, Cermack declared. It is his belief that the road widening must be accomplished through a county bond issue. In the meantime legislative action can be demanded to bring about the proper state coöperation.

Details of the bond issue and its financial problems are in the hands of the Association of Commerce, according to county officials. Details of the emergency road widening and building program are nearing completion by the Chicago Regional Planning association engineers. The county board committee, planned to include representatives of both associations and to dovetail both plans, will be charged with pushing the double program and with keeping the county board properly advised. It is expected that this committee within thirty days will recommend the bond issue to be submitted to a vote of the people at the November election.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO THREE; TOLL IS NOW 417

Three deaths yesterday as a result of automobile accidents raised the year's toll in Cook county to 417.

ANDREU KRAWCZYK.

John Milavich, 17 years old, 269 West 25th street, died at the Wesley Memorial hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when he fell under the wheels of a truck at 25th street and Wentworth avenue. Peter Vargallo, 907 School street, the driver, was not held.

Andrew Krawczyk, 60 years old, 2135 Clifton Park avenue, died at St. Anthony's hospital of injuries sustained when he was struck near his home by a car driven by Kurt Haigis, 421 East Maple street, LaGrange. Haigis was held for the inquest.

John Wondrowski, 81 years old, 4826 South Ashland avenue, died of injuries received when he was struck in front of 4812 South Ashland avenue. His skull was fractured.

Howard Bryant, 14 years old, 315 Sheldon street, was seriously injured when he was struck at Sheldon and Randolph streets by an automobile. The driver fled after the accident.

Dr. William Campbell, 42 years old, 1400 Arthur avenue, suffered a fractured skull and his wife, Elizabeth, was injured internally and both legs broken last night when their automobile overturned after having been forced into a ditch off the Touhy road at Hart road near Niles.

James Beck, colored, 3229 South Park way, was struck and seriously injured by a car with an unidentified driver near his home. He was taken to the county hospital where it was said his skull was fractured.

CHURCHES MEET ON DANCE SITE TO PROTEST IT

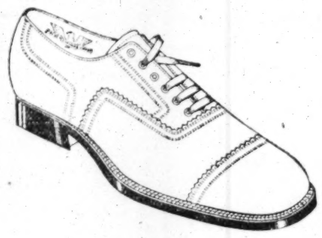

In West Chicago religion and Terpsichore meet on common ground, but there is no friendship between them.

On June 29 the Lions club of the suburb promoted a dance, roping off Galena street between Depot and High streets for the festivities.

So successful was the event, in the opinion of the Lions, that it was announced there would be a similar dance every third week. But members of three churches decided that the evolutions and positions of the dancers were —in effect—immoral.

Last night the three congregations, Lutheran, Congregational, and Methodist Episcopal, held a union meeting at the spot where the weaving waltz, the tight embrace, and the wriggling fox trot had been staged. An organ combated the influence of the jazz orchestra and three ministers spoke against the dancing.

FOR THE NEW YORK SEAWAY.

A little more than a hundred years ago De Witt Clinton, governor of New York, opened the Erie canal and carried a keg of Lake Erie water by water to the Atlantic and emptied it, wedding the west to the sea. The waterway triumphed over human doubts and natural obstacles, and that began an era of waterway developments in the wake of which came the railroad. We forget that there was a period when canals made the country.

Canals, hard roads, and then the railroads, until the rails themselves were sufficient, and the canals went out of use and the hard roads went out of existence. Now we are back on the hard roads again and are trying to get back the waterways, all being needed.

New York, which built an American waterway from the lakes to the sea in the early nineteenth century, now proposes to make that link a sea channel by which ocean ships can reach the interior lake ports and carry the produce and trade of the midwest.

The alternative to this is the St. Lawrence seaway, which requires the consent and coöperation of Canada. Because of the obstruction by Canadian power and shipping interests that coöperation is not forthcoming. THE TRIBUNE is for the seaway. The New York all American seaway is the better. It is preferable to the St. Lawrence seaway for a number of reasons:

1. It is all in the United States. It can be controlled and defended by the United States. The possibility of Canadian neutrality would not stop its military use.

2. It does not present any international complications. It will not require treaties, agreements, and compromises.

3. The traffic between the lakes and the New York ports on the way to the sea could be developed.

4. It is better for the lake states to communicate with the Atlantic states than with Canadian ports.

5. It would open a passenger service by an all water route to the West Indies.

6. It would be open for navigation more months of the year.

The United States would regret it now if it had undertaken to build the Panama canal with the coöperation of any other nation. The American government extinguished all other claims and has control of its isthmian canal.

The New York seaway is all within American territory to build and it will be all within American power to use, maintain, and control. It is, therefore, the seaway route the United States should adopt.

FUNDS FOR THE CRIME COMMISSION.

The president of the Chicago crime commission has put his appeal for funds in a most effective form. He reminds the public that while a fund of $100,000 was raised for the defense of two killers of policemen, Anselmi and Scalice, the average amount available annually to the crime commission from 1919 to 1925 was only about $60,000.

There is no want of money for the defense of influential criminals. The system provides that. But though when the crime commission was established by the Association of Commerce it was estimated that an annual expenditure of $120,000 was called for, $80,000 has been the largest amount subscribed.

The crime commission has justified its existence and is doing an important work on its own lines. The conditions of organized, professional criminality in our community are grave enough and notorious enough to loosen the purse strings of citizens, and the crime commission deserves adequate funds. It is helping in the fight against forces which use money freely at need. Our defense from crime should be at least as well supplied as our popular criminals.

CHAPLIN AS NAPOLEON.

It is announced that Charles Chaplin has signed a contract to produce Napoleon. Raquel Meller will be Josephine. Mr. Chaplin will be Napoleon. The production is not to be a comedy. It has been known for some time that the comedian was on his way to Hamlet, the objective of all first class comedians, but he can't make Napoleon a way station. His own genius would not permit it.

Napoleon is essentially a comic figure. Probably he wasn't at the Lodi bridge. Probably he never was in the perceptions of troops who adored him or of nations which hated him, but he was harlequin, and all the historical painters left a record of it. His glories, his dignities and his sorrows are all comic. He could be comic in Moscow, at Waterloo and at St. Helena. It was comedy that he had the genius to upset the gods and remain a little pot bellied man, unescapably funny no matter where he stood in pomp or tragedy.

The first time Chaplin scowls from under the Napoleonic hat, the first time he sticks his hand under his coat flap, the first time he crosses his legs, the comedy will run away with him and there will be no further chance of playing it straight. Which will be a good thing. All Napoleon needed was Mr. Chaplin's feet.

THE DURKIN VERDICT.

Durkin killed two men. For the killing of the first, Shanahan, his defense was self-defense. The jury did not believe him, but it was not ready to hang him. It would have been a more effective deterrent of murderous violence if the death penalty had been exacted. Durkin says he would have preferred it. It may be, but we don't believe it. Too many convicted murderers have done their utmost to escape the gallows and been glad of a commutation. Who can blame them, especially when we remember the parole system as managed of late?

Durkin was proved a killer. He carried on his nefarious activities with a gun to back him. There is no reason to doubt that he was ready to kill and he did. The death penalty would have been justice for him and to the community, but since it is to be 35 years' imprisonment, unless there is reversal, we can now only hope that it is to be 35 years and not 35 months with a parole and perhaps a pardon later on.

CONSERVATION FOR ITALY.

A campaign for the conservation of its fish resources has begun in Italy and is said to have the support of the ministry of economy. Americans will give the effort hearty applause. We, too, have our problems of conservation and do none too well with some of them, but conservation has become a permanent factor, at any rate, in the larger policy of the nation. As for Italy, one of the merits of the Fascist revolution is that it definitely tries to move toward practical results under cover of rather high-flown rhetoric, which, also, we don't doubt, has its practical value.

The basic need of Italy is to increase its own available economic resources. It is fundamentally an agricultural country, but it is almost an island, and as to fish it has been said that almost no region is more than two hours from the catch. We suspect this is an exaggeration, applying only to the principal cities or centers of population, but it should be possible by strict and well considered conservation measures to protect and increase the fish supply of the people and add substantially to the food resources and income of Italy. The Mediterranean supplies varied and delicious fish, as any one acquainted with the best French or Italian cuisine is aware.

We wish the Italians well in their conservation campaign, which seems to us not only sensible in itself but as an indication of a national frame of mind. A good many resounding political issues have less bearing on the restoration of Italy and the actual well being of its people, we suspect, than this campaign for the humble fish.

MAKE THEM BUY IT.

Of recent place in American news and pictures have been the American women presented at the British court. The chore of seeing that the ladies get into the presence and get by with their curtsy without offense to any part of the ritual is that of the wife of the American ambassador. It may be a nuisance or a pleasure to her, according to her disposition.

The trepidation and gratification of the successful candidates are complimentary to the caste system of society. The presentation gives an opportunity for a moment of self-abasement and a lifetime thereafter of self-exaltation, and that opportunity is so much thought of that Americans more than any other people clamor for it. Radical western congressmen threaten the ambassador with political consequences unless he gets the favor of their wives, daughters, sisters, cousins, and aunts.

London dressmakers like it because it is profitable to make presentation dresses. The English people probably do not object to a bowing down in humility to their social system. Nothing much can be done about it except one thing. The United States officially can be taken out of it, and with the ambassador and his wife conducting the candidates' end of the affair this government is officially in it.

If an American notable is to meet the king it can be arranged through the British foreign office and at the initiative and suggestion of that office. If American women are to get in it can be arranged through English persons of importance on a cash basis. Lady Francis Beekman no doubt would be glad to publish a rate card.

Editorial of the Day

[New York World.]

The nation had the Saturday half holiday and a double week-end to think over the figures of Anti-Saloon league finance as revealed in Washington. It was none too long. In six years this organization has spent $11,075,253 for dry agitation and enforcement. This includes the national organization, but only twenty-three of the states, such great commonwealths as Minnesota, California, the Dakotas, Georgia, and virtuous Pennsylvania, where money never dares to peep, much less talk, not having reported.

The organization which spent this money and much more remains a mystery. It is a league, but there are no leaguers. It has officers, but they seem to be self-appointed, a narrow clique of men at the head managing everything. It is organized for politics, but fails to report expenditures as other political organizations must. It is organized for lobbying—it has just jammed through congress a $2,931,000 item for an intensive dry campaign—but it is immune to the laws governing lobbying. It upholds the law—one law—but brushes the law aside to terrorize judges and federal attorneys and to decide which incumbents are "crooked" and must be "gone after." It paid Hobson of Alabama $171,249 in eight years and W. J. Bryan $11,000 in one year, when these gentlemen and others in public life were speaking "for the cause." It had money to spend wherever a wet candidate for congress was seeking election.

It is a fruitful lead that the senate committee is exploring. Nothing that has been revealed as to primary squandering in Pennsylvania, nothing that can be revealed in Illinois, surpasses in intensity of interest the spectacle of this huge machine with its many millions working in the dark for the intimidation of officials and candidates and the mass misrepresentation of public opinion which, honestly ascertained and reported, should be the guide of public action.

SO SAY WE ALL.

The teacher, wishing to arouse the interest of her Sunday school class, asked them to write the names of their favorite hymns.

All the pupils bent their heads over pencil and paper for a few minutes, and then handed in their slips—all except one.

"Come, Mary," said the teacher, "bring your paper to me."

BENEFITS OF SOUR MILK.

THE original reason for adopting sour milk as a food was the fact that sour milk is the only meat food which will keep indefinitely without ice. In the regions around the Mediterranean nature supplies no ice and the Florida inventor of refrigeration has never been heard of. In consequence, when the people kill an animal for food they must eat it quickly. There is either a feast or a famine.

But the nature of industry and trade in that section is such that many of the people must travel, carrying their provisions with them. They learned early that if they soured the milk they could pack it in bags and thus keep it fit for food for a considerable time. Dry bread, soured milk, and dates make up the common diet.

Thus the custom of eating soured milk came into being. Now we, who have plenty of ice, are finding advantage in using soured milk. Experience taught us long ago that soured milk was easy to digest. Then came the physicians who, watching sick people and babies, came to the conclusion that buttermilk, clabber, cottage cheese, and sour milk generally were easily digested, and therefore, should be fed to babies and sick people.

Next came the chemists with an explanation of what the Arabs first noted; later the people, and, lastly, the physicians had confirmed—namely: that sour milk of one kind or another was more digestible than sweet. They said sweet milk, due to its large content of lime, was so peculiarly alkaline that considerable stomach acid was wasted in digesting it. On the other hand, acid milks were immediately acted on by the stomach juices. The digestion of acid milk, however the acidifying was done, was comparatively easy. Now the bacteriologists come forward with their word of support.

Dr. L. D. Arnold finds that normally the upper part of the intestine is about free from bacteria because the acid in the gastric juice kills off the bacteria in the stomach and the acidified food keeps down the development of bacteria in the first ten to fifteen feet of the intestine. If, for any reason, the contents of this part of the intestine become alkaline, the kinds of bacteria normally present lower down are found in enormous numbers.

In fevers this occurs because the stomach acid is deficient. There are many other conditions which cause a decrease in the stomach acid, and, in that way, cause an overgrowth of somewhat harmful bacteria in this area which should be bacteria free. There are those who say that pernicious anemia is due to just that kind of bacterial migration. Spasms, diarrheas, indigestions, improper tooth and bone formation are all charged against this migration by some. The use of acidified milk is recommended in all these conditions.

LA SALLE STREET TILTS.

Chicago, July 1.—[Friend of the People.]—Evidently due to excavation for the new La Salle street bridge, on the north bank of the river, the east walk of La Salle street has become so weakened that it has tilted to quite an angle. Numerous pedestrians use this very walk in getting to the L terminal in this neighborhood and the sidewalk should be braced to provide safe passage. A. F. R.

In connection with the construction of the north substructure of the La Salle street bridge, it is necessary to remove the sidewalk along the east side of La Salle street, just north of the river. The concrete sidewalk will be entirely removed and a temporary wooden sidewalk provided during the construction of the bridge foundation. There will be times during the construction when it will not be feasible to maintain this sidewalk, but the period when the sidewalk cannot be used by the public will be made as short as possible. JOHN ERICSON, City Engineer.

SIGNS HAVE BEEN ERECTED.

Chicago, July 2.—[Friend of the People.]—Why is it that there are no street signs on Kimball avenue between Milwaukee avenue and Wrightwood avenue? We do not even know the names of these streets. The Kimball signs are there, but the others are missing. MRS. F. L.

Our sign division reports that street signs have been erected at the following locations: Kimball and Parker avenues, Kimball avenue and Drummond place, Kimball and Wrightwood avenues. THOMAS H. BYRNE, Superintendent of Streets.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 12, 1861.

WASHINGTON.—Thad Stevens, chairman of the house ways and means committee, has fixed July 18 as the time when the house can finish its business and adjourn. While the house was in committee of the whole on the army bill Vallandigham offered an amendment providing that no part of the money appropriated should be used in the employment of forces for subjugating any states and holding them as conquered provinces, or for interfering with slavery in any state. A spicy debate followed in which Vallandigham rolled himself in the dirt as usual, and Burnett of Kentucky followed with some balderdash about "peace."

BUCHANAN, Va.—A messenger from Gen. McClellan's command reports that two Union regiments made a reconnaissance of the rebels' position and were fired upon. The enemy is so strongly entrenched that it will be necessary to take the fortifications by storm. Gen. McClellan divided his forces and began erecting batteries on the hillsides commanding the rebel position. Skirmishing has been brisk for the last twenty-four hours.

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—Reports from Fairfax Courthouse indicate the gradual withdrawal of the confederate troops.

WASHINGTON.—Press correspondents voted to comply with the request of Gen. Scott that no telegraphic information concerning the movement of troops should be sent out. The government will permit correspondents to telegraph as freely as they please in the event of a battle. The commander in chief declared that important and as accurate information as if it came from his office had been sent out and this had embarrassed the government.

EDITORIAL.—Gen. Patterson's column has made no forward movement for several days; and the head of the anaconda under Gen. Scott is still torpid, showing no symptoms of motion. This sluggish inactivity will not be allowed much longer. The President has said so. His patience is exhausted. We speak from information deemed wholly reliable.

DETROIT, Mich. — Two theories advanced by G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, Worcester, Mass., before the council of education today caused a sensation. They are that higher education unfits young women for wifehood and motherhood and that boys should not be discouraged in the use of slang. He would separate the sexes in the higher schools.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—A conference of three constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, held today, is believed to have resulted in a decided victory for the workers and a compromise agreement ending the strike is expected before the week ends.

ALBANY, Mo.—The three children of George McCurry, a prominent contractor, found some dynamite in the cellar of their home today and thinking it was putty fed it to their pet frog. A large tool chest fell on the frog and exploded the dynamite. A chisel pierced the temple of the youngest child and killed him. Another child and Mrs. McCurry, in the kitchen above, were seriously hurt and that part of the house was wrecked.

CHICAGO. — The horse will be crowned king at Lake Forest today. At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon a Fort Sheridan bugler will proclaim the beginning of the open air horse show that has been the one topic of conversation in the northern suburbs for weeks. To accommodate the many spectators every residence in Lake Forest has opened its hospitable doors.

JULY 12, 1916.

LONDON. — The capture of the whole of the Germans' first system of defense on a front of 14,000 yards (nearly eight miles), after ten days and nights of continuous fighting, is announced in the official report from British headquarters in France. The number of prisoners taken exceeds 7,500. By bombing their way forward the British recaptured nearly the whole of Trones wood following all night fighting over the front as far as Ovillers and La Boisselle.

BERLIN.—Russian troops advancing in the direction of Kovel have been beaten back by the Germans in a counter attack near Hulewickze, south of the Sarny-Kovel railroad.

PETROGRAD.—The war office announced that the prisoners taken by the Russians during Gen. Brassiloff's campaign to July 10 total 5,620 officers and 266,000 men.

NEW YORK.—New cases of infantile paralysis to the number of 195 and thirty-two deaths are the record of the last twenty-four hours in Greater New York. This makes a total of known cases to date of 1,278 and a total of 270 deaths.

BALTIMORE.—Capt. Paul Koenig, skipper of the German submarine Deutschland, which made its way through the British blockade and reached the United States, announced that he is preparing to begin his return voyage within ten days. Three American naval officers inspected the submarine and reported that it is not a warship, and Capt. Koenig is confident it will not be interned.

CHICAGO.—One of the biggest scoops in the history of news films is presented to movie fans today by the Selig-Tribune weekly in the first pictures of the supersubmarine Deutschland as it swept up Chesapeake bay on its arrival.

A WEE LITTLE VERSE.

Set out for adventure one day.
And the fork and the spoon to the wee little mouth

Just felt that-he'd wasted his life.
For somebody's mother had firmly announced
That a boy mustn't eat with his knife!

"But never you mind," said the wee little boy,
"I'll use you to butter my bread;
"God bless you!" the little knife said.

I.

Of course, the White Knight's in training as he is running for senator to succeed himself. "It's my own invention," said he one morning, as he let a magnet on a string down outside his third floor window to recover his Gillette blade. Just then the bell rang, and he placed his bottle of Old Rye under his pillow, and ran to a large mirror. "It's my own invention," said he, as by means of reflectors and a periscope he saw a reporter from the Morning Mirror below. "Admit him," said he very gravely to his butler, then walked to the bed, and drank deeply from the bottle.

The reporter entered, and at once asked him what he thought of the question of light wines and beer. "I think the country should be wet or dry," he said, "it will put money in the workingman's pocket and better the morals of the masses, and will not interfere with our personal liberty."

"What will?" the reporter ventured.

"It I said," he thundered.

"But how do you stand?" asked the fly paper.

"On my feet—get out," was the reply.

The knight returned to his bottle, and in a few moments he heard the bell, and saw, at the mirror, his bootlegger. He jumped joyously down the three flights of stairs to admit him. "It's my own invention," said he as he opened the door. "The case will be here tonight, and the check in the morning," said the good faery, "as some of the brothers haven't paid in yet. Of course, you know how to vote."

"Yes, I'll vote dry," said the knight to himself, "I know where my cash comes from; a senator's salary wouldn't keep a tramp. It's my own invention." THE RED KNIGHT.

It is not that this passing of sunsets is a futility beyond all recompense, for there are yet dawnings waiting birth in the east, and there shall one day come a white horse with fine trappings whose rampant pacing shall have the swiftness to overtake the sun. There may be on that day of his coming no one any longer left in this world to be riding such a fine illusion in search of departed dawns. But that youth who has, but once even, burned thin incense on the altars of loveliness shall be waiting still hopefully by the roadside for the realizations of the brightest of all dreams. And fair forever. But my own name
Has the look of homespun stuff. Its sound
Is that of crickets on the hearth.
I want two brazen copper bracelets round
My arms, and earrings clinking coldly
In my ears. I want my hair to stir
At Alexander's touch. Ah me!
Will no sharp sighing change me into her?

WIFE AND COUNTRY.

Chicago, July 7.—I cannot see what W. B. Platt's remarks about protecting his wife have to do with the discussion over Stephen Decatur's words on loyalty to our country. He talks about "an assault on her from a neighbor"—an assault which, he says, she has really brought upon herself, but which should nevertheless be prevented—and, of course, he is quite right. Although she may have done wrong, this in no way justifies a wrong act on the part of another. But that is not the point at issue, for the real question is this: If our government commits an act which we feel to be wrong, shall we knowingly participate in that wrong by being "loyal"? Shall we, for instance, bend our energies to the waging of a war which we feel to be unjust, just because the wrong side is our side? Shall we have a share in the committing of an act against which our conscience rebels?

It is the question of consciously doing evil, of deliberately taking part in a crime, and it has no connection whatever with a man's protecting his wife from an assault which would be wrong, no matter what the woman had done in the first place. Giving protection from an assault of this kind is always right and never wrong.

Of course, a man should fight to protect his wife. And, of course, he should fight to protect his country, but that in no way implies that he should fight for a nation which he is fully aware is asking not for protection but for something quite the opposite. J. K. ROBBINS.

SWALLOWING A CAMEL.

Georgetown, Ill., July 7.—Apparently the Chicago ministerial brethren, in specifying the Decatur slogan as a "casus belli," are "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." Why do not these ecclesiastical luminaries tackle real issues within the scope of theological facts? Decatur's meaning was not so sinister as they make it appear. They are punching at a straw man.

Fads must have periodic recurrence. The more absurd, the greater the following. This is because ministers generally have ceased to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, and are at their wits' ends for substitute themes. Hence they go to the graveyard and knock on a dead man's patriotism.

Is this country right? What two of them say so? Is it wrong? What two agree as to remedy?

Can, therefore, this medley of dissimilar ideas generate anything productive of "peace and good will"? No, indeed! These kindly disposed chaps (or something to that effect) cannot swallow a gnat, but they'd "walk a mile for a camel." OSCAR J. RAISOR.

OUR COUNTRY MAY BE WRONG.

Chicago, July 7.—"Our country, right or wrong" is an advocacy to be accepted only by a people incapable of realizing that even we ourselves may be wrong—by a people in whom a false sense of national righteousness has eclipsed the ability to choose between the worthy and unworthy. The men now regarded as the greatest patriots have all been men who have defended the right—"as God gave them power to see the right"—and not the proponents of blind faithfulness. They have been men whose moves have been influenced by the protection of the meritorious and not by the feeling that it is our country, and our country can do no wrong. Though our country in the past has had no need to be put to the blush by a comparison with the ethics of other nations, it is possible to conceive of a situation in which our country may be in the wrong, and then the true patriotism is to be manifested by a change to the right and not by the unseeing support of an undeserving cause. A. R. S.

THE NEED FOR TRUE AMERICANISM.

Chicago, July 7.—The significance of your editorial on Independence day in reply to the Chicago Forum council was exceptional. Once more you declare with profound logic the need of true Americanism. I'm justly proud of the editorial staff in supporting standards of democracy that have made it possible for the petitioners of such a council to have their names placed in review on the pages of this great newspaper.

Decatur being an American it hardly seemed possible that Miss Jane Addams, the foremost pacifist in the country, would permit her subordinates such humiliation at the hands of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It reflects disloyalty, ingratitude and insincerity for men of learning to be carried in disguise as members of the Forum council. I have wondered if any of them have a special price on their patriotism. ERNEST E. PROSTA.

NOT THE SKIRTS.

Chicago, July 8.—With regard to the rubberneck condition at 63d and Cottage Grove. I live in Rogers Park, but I visit my mother in Woodlawn and notice the way these "bums" [you can't call them much less than that] rubberneck. I am a married woman and the mother of a three year old boy. I never wear my skirts short, although I am 24 years old. I am not an old maid and not a flapper either, but they rubber at me and I feel very badly annoyed. They even sit under the stairs in machines and ask you to go for a ride. Where are the Woodlawn police that they do not eliminate this condition? It is not due to short skirts. That has been proven in my case. MRS. M. HARRIS.

MOVE ON, "GENTLEMEN."

Chicago, July 8.—Let me say a word in regard to the "three chums from Woodlawn." I have passed down these steps many times, and when reaching the bottom I feel just like going up and slapping these rubbernecks in the face. Just because we girls choose to be comfortable in our dress, why should men let their beastly instincts get the best of them? This menace is predominant at the majority of the L stations, and I heartily agree with S. J. O. that if the police were "traveling beat on foot," as formerly, they could relieve us girls of much embarrassment by making these things who are termed "gentlemen" move on. Why not erect "no parking" signs directed to the gentlemen of the south side at all these L stations?

In honor of the Grand Lodge Convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, we have invited Mayor Dever to use our space in today's Chicago Tribune for the purpose of conveying a message to our visitors

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE TO CHICAGO'S VISITORS

TO the many visitors in Chicago at this time, coming from all parts of the country and from abroad, I would give assurances of Chicago's welcome and Chicago's hospitality. In the spirit of the city toward those who honor it with their presence, in the vast provisions which have been made for the convenience and comfort of her guests, and in her position as the metropolis of the great Middle West, you will discover some of the causes for Chicago's popularity as a place for large meetings.

If I were privileged to say a word to our guests, and had the assurance that my message would be carried by them to their homes throughout the length and breadth of our country, it would be this:

In fairness learn the truth about Chicago and report that truth whenever and wherever you have occasion to speak of our city. With that truth unmask the falsehoods and misrepresentations which too frequently pass for truth and thereby do harm to the reputation of Chicago.

Measured by any fair standard Chicago is a well governed city. Her positions of civic and industrial responsibility and leadership are occupied by men of ability, integrity, and progressiveness. These men, representative of Chicago's citizenry at its best, are responsive to the city's needs, in hearty accord with the city's best vision of her possibilities, and are willing to sacrifice their time and energies to solving the problems of the city's progress and well-being.

Chicago's program for the present and the future, in the matter of vast public works for the comfort and convenience of her ever-increasing population, and for the beautification of the city as befits the dignity of her position among the four greatest cities of the world, is a gigantic program. It is based on a splendid vision of the city's present and future requirements, and the vast projects of civic development receive the strong support of the voters who must authorize them. This, in the largest sense of the word, is the spirit of Chicago in voice and action.

The extraordinary growth of Chicago in recent years and the moral certainty of the continuation of that growth, have given to the city many problems which require time and extensive consideration for their solution. Whatever may be said of the conditions which exist because of these problems, the important fact is that Chicago has the will and the ability to face these problems squarely, and is now busily engaged in working them out as rapidly as it is possible to do so.

We hope that you will see just as much of our city as you possibly can. Take the wonderful motor trips through the scores of miles of boulevards, parks and Forest Preserves. Note the rapidly developing features of our great Chicago Plan. See the remarkable educational institutions; the Art Institute; the Field Museum. Visit as widely as possible with our citizens, let them point out to you some of these many things of which we are proud. If you will do these things, we are confident that you will be—as we very much want you to be—Chicago's friends.

Evangelist Says He's in San Francisco.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—[Special.]—Search for Kenneth Ormiston, wireless expert at Angelus temple and missing grand jury witness in the Aimee Semple McPherson case, turned tonight from Riverside and San Diego to San Francisco, upon information furnished by Mrs. McPherson. Her clew was supported by a wire from San Francisco police to District Attorney Asa Keyes, saying Ormiston had been reported seen in the San Francisco ferry house.

Ormiston's parents, who live in San Francisco, said they had not seen their son since his name first entered the McPherson case, shortly after the evangelist disappeared at Venice, Cal., last May 18, for six weeks.

Questioned About Evangelist.

Several weeks before Mrs. McPherson's reappearance at Douglas, Ariz., on June 23, with the explanation that kidnapers had imprisoned her in Mexico, Ormiston came to Venice for questioning about his acquaintance with Mrs. McPherson.

At that time Ormiston said his relations were those of an employé. He admitted that his wife, Ruth Peters Ormiston, who now is in Australia, had threatened to sue for divorce and named Mrs. McPherson, but laid this to jealousy. Following these admissions at Venice, early in June, Ormiston dropped from sight.

Ormiston's father, W. C. Ormiston, today denied his son was the author of a letter which was turned over to police of Los Angeles by Mrs. McPherson. The letter was signed "Ormie" and mailed in Oakland, June 22, to Ernest Ballard, an attendant at Angelus temple here. The letter commented on the McPherson case.

To Resume Inquiry Tomorrow.

The grand jury investigation of the evangelist's disappearance will be resumed on Tuesday. Two important witnesses from Arizona will arrive tomorrow. They are Police Sergeant A. B. Murchison of Douglas, Ariz., who led posses into the Sonora desert in a futile search for the shack in which Mrs. McPherson stated she had been held prisoner while her abductors sought to secure $500,000 ransom, and Miss Meribah Shinn, of the Calumet and Arizona hospital in Douglas, who helped disrobe Mrs. McPherson and made notes of her physical condition when she arrived in Douglas and told of an escape from her captors across 25 miles of desert.

Mrs. McPherson baptized many persons at Angelus temple today. Fifteen thousand were drawn to the different services at her church.

To Take Over Giesche Enterprises.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—The world's biggest zinc mines under one management—the union of two of the greatest producers coupling the experience of 222 years of continuous direction with the advantages of modern mass production and forming a fitting climax to the romantic history of Giesche, one of the world's oldest mining enterprises—will result when the Anaconda Copper Mining company formally takes over the Polish holdings of the Georg von Giesche heirs.

The new company, negotiations for which were completed through W. A. Harriman & Co., New York, will be under American financial and technical direction. It will, through an offering of bonds to be public, permit ownership in a firm which for generations has refused the partnerships of emperors, kings, and statesmen.

To Own Blei-Scharley Mines.

The American-Silesian corporation, as the new firm is to be known, will control not only the largest European zinc mines now furnishing 10 per cent of the world's production, but will own and operate the famous Blei-Scharley mines, fourth greatest ore body and the world's most extensive high grade zinc ore fields.

A glimpse of the fabulous profits of Giesche-Erben was given to the public in 1913, when for taxation purposes the properties were given the highest valuation of any undertaking in Germany, not excepting the Krupps.

The Versailles treaty explains why Americans are to be allowed to participate in such a profitable industry. The treaty put four-fifths of the Von Giesche possession under the Polish flag. This immediately created difficulties for a company owned by ardent German nationalists, so a sale to the American corporation followed.

History Since 1809.

The history of the business after 1809 divides itself into two periods, one of acquisition and the other of development. In the former, which lasted until 1890, Giesche acquired four major mining properties. They were the Blei-Scharley mines near Bouthen; the Mathilde lead and zinc mines, which also contain coal, located near Chrzanow; the Cleophas coal mines, west of Kattowitz, and the Heinitz coal mines.

When the calamine carbonate ores of Blei-Scharley were becoming of lower grade in 1870, Giesche's research department detected the richness of the blende, or sulphide zinc.

Deposed Dictator Sent to Azores Exile by Portugal

LISBON, Portugal, July 11.—(AP)—Gen. Gomes da Costa, who held the role of dictator for a short time, but was ousted on July 9 by the new government set up by Gen. Carmona, was sent out of Portugal today aboard a warship. He is bound for the Azores, where he will be set at liberty.

fees and expenses they received as witnesses, the total paid the officers alone run close to $50,000, in addition to their salaries. The balance of the $212,237.25 was divided in fees or commissions among the commonwealth's attorneys who appeared in the cases, justices of the peace and court clerks, or spent for the care of prisoners and the payment of jurors.

Sensing the danger that under the fee system their police forces would naturally spend most of their time searching for liquor law violations, city councils in most of the large cities, such as Richmond, Norfolk and Lynchburg, adopted ordinances soon after the passage of the Layman act requiring any rewards secured by policemen to be paid over into the policemen's pension funds. No such curb restrains officers in other districts who are depending largely on prohibition rewards for their living.

Efforts at Modification.

An effort by liberals in the last legislature to modify the Layman act to make the collection of rewards more difficult was only partly successful. Rejected earlier in the session, an amendment sponsored by the recently elected Governor Byrd as one of his campaign platform planks, requiring arresting officers to be uniformed at the time of an arrest in order to be eligible for a reward, was revived before adjournment and whooped through on the plea that its failure would be a rebuff to the popular governor.

The amendment, however, provided no appropriation for the purchase of uniforms and left the selection of a style of uniforms to the attorney general and the highway commissioner.

Thus far the latter two officials have made no haste in selecting the type of uniform and, meanwhile, un-uniformed officers go merrily about arresting their neighbors for prohibition violations and collecting rewards.

Record of 9 Months.

It is interesting to note in the official reports that during the nine months from November 1, 1924, to June 30, 1925, a total of 9,485 prohibition law violations were prosecuted throughout the state, and that in 7,207 cases the violators were convicted, fined, and sentenced to jail or hard labor terms aggregating 694 1-3 years.

During the same period, a total of 1,831 stills were seized, for which officers were paid $10 apiece in addition to the rewards for the arrests, 32,688 gallons of ardent liquors were taken, and, according to the prohibition commissioner's report, property, including stills and paraphernalia, valued at $383,263 was destroyed by his unit alone.

Coupled with the reward system and the heavy penalties which are imposed on violators, the severity of Virginia's prohibition law is greatly enhanced by the provisions of the law which prohibit the suspension of sentence by the committing judge in any case where the quantity of liquor involved exceeds one pint.

League Dominates State.

The whole system is the result, it is asserted here, of the domination of the state by the Anti-Saloon league, which is probably more highly organized in Virginia than in any other state in the union.

Closely affiliated with the league, it is said, are at least 800 churches of several denominations, and at a signal from headquarters, the pastors in every one of the 800 pulpits preach practically the same sermon on the same Sunday throughout the state, rousing their followers into vigorous support of the league for whatever may be at stake.

Probably nothing since the passage of the Layman act has caused more stir among the wets and caused even the drys to fear they were going a little too far, than the opinion of the state Supreme court which, handed down in June, 1925, validated the use of any means by officers to secure evidence of prohibition violations.

Amazing Court Opinion.

The startling opinion was given in the appeal of a citizen who insisted that liquor had been seized in his house and out of his very hands by officers not authorized to enter or search the premises by a search warrant. He contended that the liquor which was produced against him in the trial was consequently illegal evidence and that his conviction should be set aside.

"The admissibility of evidence," ruled the Supreme court, in an opinion which half a dozen lawyers in Richmond hold is in direct conflict with the rulings of the United States Supreme court, "is not affected by the illegality of the means by which it has been obtained, unless it appears that the defendant has been compelled himself to give or produce it, as where a confession obtained by duress is offered as evidence; and where evidence is acquired by an illegal search and seizure, it cannot be said that the defendant has been himself compelled to give or produce it.

"Where the evidence produced is competent and pertinent to the issue, the court will not stop the trial of a case to investigate the means by which it was procured."

GENERALS ADMIT PLOT TO UNSEAT SPAIN'S DICTATOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 11.—Both Gen. Weyler and Gen. Aguilera, who have been called upon by a special court trying alleged participants in the recent plots against the dictatorship, have acknowledged the genuineness of their signatures to the manifesto the discovery of which led to the revelation of the plot by the police.

Far from attempting to excuse their action, both generals have defended themselves, maintaining that whatever was done or attempted was constitutional, since their first attack was not against the king, whom the army is sworn to protect, but was against Dictator Primo de Rivera, who, they assert, represents neither the king nor the country, but only his own personal interests.

Explaining the plans of the participants in the plot, they say their intention was to convoke a new council which would hold elections within six or eight months to obtain a genuinely representative parliament.

By developing strong arches, Nature-Treads effect permanent cures.

CONDEMN SMALL AS GIRL SLAYER IS SET FREE

Keressi, from Aurora, Is Given Parole.

George Keressi, confessed murderer of his sweetheart, ordered to spend the rest of his life in prison for the crime, and one of the most brutal in Kane county's memory, by the act of Gov. Len Small is free today, only fifteen years after the murder.

And while the police of Aurora are condemning the governor for freeing him—they tell how wanton the killing was—other authorities bring to mind the plights of Loeb and Leopold, wondering if the same might now occur in their cases, and of Martin James Durkin, whose 35 year sentence might dwindle as did Keressi's.

Life Sentence Commuted.

Keressi's release necessitated first a commutation by the governor, which after intercessions of the killer's relatives was granted when Small in 1923 altered the life sentence changed to 14 years. A week ago, at the earliest date on which Keressi might be paroled, the governor's pardon and parole board set him on the street.

It was back in January, 1911, in Aurora, that little Flora Sabo, 17 years old, was attracted to Keressi, then 19, and heeded his urge that she draw her savings, $93, from the bank so that they might be married.

Keressi took the money and the next day they started out, in a storm that had laid two feet of snow on the ground, to get a marriage license, he told her. They had gone a little way, reaching a lonely spot, and Keressi, telling Flora to walk ahead of him, shot her three times. Then he left her in the snow and went home, to sleep.

Suitor Arrested; Confesses.

But the girl was not dead, and crawling to a factory a short distance away, she cried weakly for aid. A watchman found her and she was taken to the hospital. She could murmur only the name "George." The police learned of her suitor, George Keressi, and he was arrested. Before Flora died Keressi was confronted with her pain drawn face, and he confessed the crime, telling how he had taken of the girl's $93 to pay for the weapon with which he killed her.

When all this was told to the court before which Keressi pleaded his guilt the court ordered him to Joliet prison for life. And today, at 34, Keressi is free.

Chief of Police Frank Michaels and Prosecutor J. Bruce Amell of Aurora, calling Keressi's crime the most brutal they have known, termed Gov. Small's act a "shocking and unwarranted interference with the orderly administration of justice," and announced they would inquire to learn what influence might have been exerted by Keressi's friends and relatives.

FORECASTING AT LONG RANGE IS PROMISED SOON

New Discovery Based on Sun's Heat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Long range scientific weather forecasting may be possible within the near future as the result of experiments conducted by Dr. Charles G. Abbot of the Smithsonian institution.

In a statement issued by the institution today officials announced that Dr. Abbot has discovered new and simple proof that the amount of heat given off by the sun from day to day and from year to year varies.

"If the proof is final," says the announcement, "and it seems irrefutable, there can be no further question that the sun is a real factor in the daily and yearly weather changes.

New Element to Forecasting.

"Exact appraisal of its value for long range weather forecasting awaits only the further perfection of measurements of solar variation and world weather. At all events an essential element new to weather forecasting has been discovered and proved. Its application is only a matter of research and time.

"For thirty years Dr. Abbot has been investigating the sun and measuring the heat it sends to the earth. In 1903 he surmised from his results for previous years that the amount of that heat varied. Urged on by that clew and its great significance to mankind if true, he has spent the intervening years in elaborate measurements of solar radiation in many parts of the world.

Proof of Solar Radiation.

"The proof, which Dr. Abbot now announces, appears to leave no doubt of the variability of solar radiation."

A careful study of the results of his experiments disclosed, the statement said, that the heat given off by the sun varies from day to day and from year to year, even on days when atmospherical conditions are identical.

RECONCILIATION OF ACID BRIDE AND DAY DENIED

Reports that Darby Day Jr, and his acid throwing bride, Mrs. Grace Bernice Lundstrom Day, might be reconciled were discredited yesterday by Mrs. Day's mother, Mrs. G. A. Lundstrom, 923 Lawrence avenue.

"I don't believe Darby came to Chicago to see Grace," she said. "He and his father make frequent visits here from Los Angeles, and it was just by accident that the young people met at a north side dance resort Friday evening. His parents are still opposed to the marriage.

Mrs. Lundstrom said she expected to hear from her Los Angeles attorneys tomorrow, advising her whether her daughter must travel back to California to serve from 1 to 14 years in San Quentin prison.

Darby Day and Darby Day Jr. are at the Churchill hotel, 1255 North State street. Mr. Day Sr. last night declined to be interviewed.

TEMPORARY I. C. RANDOLPH STREET STATION OPENED

Suburban commuters who use the Illinois Central service as a means of reaching the loop will be greeted by new surroundings this morning when they get off at the Randolph street terminal.

For yesterday the company put into service its temporary station south of the Randolph street bridge across its tracks as the first step toward providing a modern and adequate station where the old antiquated one now stands. Workmen will start today to wreck the old station, and a new one, much larger, will rise in its place.

The permanent station will be set lower than the present one and will extend farther south, going under the bridge to connect with a tunnel being constructed to link up with the present one running under Michigan boulevard and opening at the northeast corner of the public library.

While the principal entrance and exit from the new station will remain at Randolph street, those who have heretofore utilized the South Water street end of the loading and unloading platforms will still have the advantage of the short cut under the boulevard bridge in getting to their near north side offices.

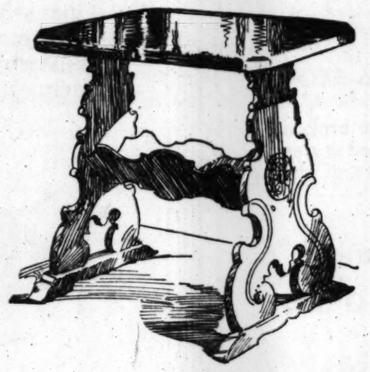

In order to comply with the lake front ordinance relating to the width of bridges, the Illinois Central will widen the wooden structure over the tracks at Randolph street from its present 38 feet to 64 feet, Chief Engineer Daniel J. Brumley said yesterday. This will extend to about the south end of the new station and connect with the tunnel, he said.

MEXICO SLAPS BRAKES ON REDS; DELAYS STRIKE

Rail Owners Get 90 Days to Make Adjustments.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mexico City, July 11.—The firm stand of the government has postponed the threatened strike of Mexican railway laborers ninety days. The union was warned that an attempt to strike before then will meet the opposition of the government, which will support the railway management with the federal army.

The Mexican Federation of Labor is backing the movement to give the railway management three months in which to effect readjustments, after which the disputes between the union and railways will be submitted to a labor arbitration court, if a private agreement has not been reached.

The red union, which has lost its strike on the Isthmus, Pan-American, and Vera Cruz and Isthmus lines, is now afraid to force a strike on the Mexican railway, lest it should lose its hold on 14,000 miles of Mexican railways which it has had for eight years.

Government to Curb Reds.

The government has suffered from the exactions, impositions, and dictation of the red labor union on the Mexican railways for years, but now seems determined that the success of the roads under private ownership shall not be endangered.

Hitherto going before an arbitration court has meant that capital stood a good chance of losing, as the sympathy of the court was avowedly with labor. In three months a reform of the labor arbitration court will be effected, and then the dictation by the Red union will be a thing of the past.

Limits Arbitration Court.

The court of arbitration today received a staggering blow when its jurisdiction was limited to disputes only between capital and labor organizations. Scores of lawyers made a living by pushing the cases of laborers against employers, the latter almost invariably losing because of the influence of the prosecutors in the arbitration court, which ostensibly was organized to protect workmen.

Numerous businesses have been closed in the last six months because of decisions of the arbitration court. The new ruling as to the court's power shears it of its right to intervene in disputes between individual employés and employers.

WOMEN IN HOUSE VOW NO MEN WILL BOSS CAMPAIGNS

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—Stumping tours of their districts, personal direction of their campaigns, and no solicitation of campaign funds have been announced by the three women members of the house as their "plans for the fall."

Thus they have answered definitely and strikingly alike the question of how they regard politics at the end of their first session in congress. They like it so well they all expect to run for reëlection indefinitely.

Politics, however, is no novelty to them. Representatives Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts and Florence P. Kahn of California, both Republicans, succeeded their husbands, who died in office. The other woman member, Representative Mary T. Norton, a New Jersey Democrat, was a delegate to the 1924 national convention of her party and for several years was active in local political affairs.

Mrs. Kahn and Mrs. Norton have declared themselves in favor of modification of the Volstead act, but otherwise the platforms as announced will follow those of the members' respective parties.

Each admits she faces stiff opposition and each is working now in her district for nomination and reëlection over at least six opponents.

COOLIDGES ON VACATION GO TO RESORT CHURCH

Crowds Cheer Them Going and Coming.

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 11.—(AP)—Driving 13 miles to Saranac Lake, the President and Mrs. Coolidge were given a warm welcome by the people of that health resort today when they attended morning service at the First Presbyterian church.

The ride was the only one they have taken beyond the immediate vicinity of White Pine camp since their arrival and hundreds were outside the little church to see them. As Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge rode through the streets of the town of some 8,000 inhabitants, invalids from their cots on porches and at windows looked eagerly out.

Cheered by Crowd.

Word spreading that the chief executive was at the church, the crowd of two or three hundred outside increased until twice that number were present when the President and Mrs. Coolidge entered their automobile to return to the camp. The crowd clapped their hands and cheered as the President appeared and he responded quietly by lifting his gray felt hat and smiling.

The service in the church with its accommodations for less than 250 was simple. The sermon was preached by the minister, the Rev. George K. Newell, who made no reference to the presence of the distinguished visitor, but devoted his sermon to an exposition of the spiritual authority of Christ.

After the benediction, however, the minister stepped down the aisle while the congregation remained standing and greeted the President and Mrs. Coolidge with a cordial handshake and a word or two before escorting them to the door.

Keep Coats on.

Music was furnished by a small pipe organ and a choir of twenty. On account of the cold many kept their coats on during the service, including Mr. Coolidge, who wore a dark topcoat, and the minister. Mrs. Coolidge was dressed in black and wore a neckpiece of silver fox.

Returning directly to their camp, the President and Mrs. Coolidge arranged to spend the rest of the day and the evening in quiet seclusion. Log fires in the huge fireplaces of the cabins they found comfortable, as the day was overcast and chilly, so that even topcoats were none too warm outside.

Conference on K. C. Star Sale to Be Resumed Today

Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—(AP)—Trustees of the William R. Nelson trust, who for two days last week conferred with prospective purchasers of the Kansas City Star and Times, will resume sessions tomorrow to consider further the eight offers that have been made. The trustees also will confer with the three university presidents who, under terms of the Nelson will, appointed the trustees four months ago.

PLYMOUTH BANK SLAYERS CAUGHT; ONE CONFESSES

$4,000 in Currency Is Found with Them.

Marshall, Ill., July 11.—[Special.]—William MacFayden, 18 years old, today confessed that he took part in the Plymouth, Mich., bank holdup of last Friday, as a result of which a Detroit policeman and one of the bandits were slain. After an all-night drive MacFayden and his two companions, Arthur Sheehan, 16 years old, and James Bylander, 30 years old, were arrested as they passed through Marshall en route to Leachville, Ark., the home of Bylander's mother.

MacFayden told of the robbery, the dash out of Plymouth, the gun battle in which his companion, Jerome McCarthy, and Patrolman Kobinsky of Detroit were slain, and of the flight from Detroit. The suspects will be returned to Detroit tomorrow by Detroit detectives.

Trooper Finds Loot.

The arrest was made by Sergt. Clarence W. Roth and Trooper William M. Connor of the Illinois state highway police as the suspects drove through the town. The trooper opened a grip lying on the floor of the car and found in it several hundred rounds of ammunition. Two guns were found in another suitcase and a third was under a newspaper in the rear seat.

Strewn under the back seat of the automobile were bills in $50, $100, and smaller denominations totaling $3,800, among which was found a bank slip made out in the name of the First National bank of Plymouth. Roth said the slip immediately led him to connect the suspects with the Plymouth robbery, word of which had been broadcast through the state the day before.

One Admits Crime.

Two of the occupants carried $100 hidden in their shoes, while approximately $37 was taken from the pockets of the third. MacFayden alone admitted connection with the Plymouth holdup and slaying. He asked concerning the condition of McCarthy.

"He's dead, isn't he?" the youth asked.

The bandit trio abandoned the wounded McCarthy in the roadster following a gun battle in which Policeman Kobinsky was shot through the brain. It was in this battle that McCarthy was killed. The trio were given into the custody of J. M. Turner, sheriff of Clark county.

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO.

Belleville, Ont., July 11.—(AP)—Wellington Bowers of Rossmore, Ont., and his son, Harold Bowers, were killed, and five others injured at Rednesville when lightning struck the chimney of the Orange hall.

TUNNEL ROBBERS FLEE AS FLORIST YELLS FOR HELP

Chicago's greatly sought mob of tunnel burglars could have been captured at work yesterday morning but for the leather lungs and excitable temperament of Harry Lickose, a florist at 224 North Michigan avenue.

As it turned out, the burglars got away after they had burrowed through a heavy brick wall into Dr. Jaeger's Woolen System store at 220-222 North Michigan avenue, which is said to house a readily portable stock valued at more than $50,000.

Varying his usual practice, Lickose made a Sunday trip to his flower store. When he entered the upper level floor he heard men talking on the ground floor leading to the Michigan avenue lower level. Then he heard the sound of chisels and sledges. His next discovery was that two big trucks were standing in a runway next to the Jaeger establishment. Mr. Lickose, at this juncture, became excited.

Shouting lustily as he ran, the startled florist reached the detective bureau as though shod in seven league boots. Deputy Chief of Detectives John Stege mobilized several squads forthwith and a dash was started to Michigan avenue—Mr. Lickose still in fine voice.

When the police arrived it was apparent that the florist's voice had been sufficiently strong to cut through the din of the chisels, the sledges and the profanity of five or six toiling burglars. The quarry had fled in the two big trucks.

The attempted robbery was one of a series bearing identical techniques, police said. Two of the robberies, like the one yesterday, have been upset by the appearance of some one not usually around on Sunday.

FILIPINOS TELL COOLIDGE ENVOY TALE OF MISRULE

BY PARKE BROWN.

(Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.)

MANILA, Philippine Islands, July 11.—Some of the floods of propaganda which was expected on the arrival of Col. Carmi Thompson, President Coolidge's investigator, but wihch was mysteriously missing during the first two days after his arrival, was released today.

But the propaganda concerned only grievances against American rule and the economic situation and outlook. Demands for complete independence are still missing.

A long exposition of alleged grievances was made public by Maximo M. Kalew, former exchange professor at the University of Michigan and technical adviser on the first and second independence missions. Admitting he made no effort to set forth the benefits of American administration, Dean Kalew described what he called the evils of American retention of the islands.

Suspicious of Thompson.

Another broadside was fired by Senator Juan B. Alegre, one of the followers of Manuel Quezon, leader of the independence forces, who declared at a meeting of the commerce club of the University of the Philippines that the natives must be suspicious of Col. Thompson's visit. He charged Col. Thompson was sent here to "help American capitalists to begin to expand their business interests and not to help the Filipinos." He said: "I hold no grudge against any man who comes to me in the open and gets my money out of my pocket, but I certainly am suspicious of one who comes and takes my money and says he does it with altruistic motives."

Senator Alegre is reported to hold a personal grievance against Americans because of the manner in which his family is treated socially.

Charges Loss of Rights.

Part of Dean Kalaw's attack follows:

"Throughout America's history in the Philippines, the American tariff policy has been dictated by capitalists and not by the mutual interests of the two peoples. From 1900 to 1907 the government in the Philippines was in the hands of a civil commission, absolutely irresponsible to the people and violating the most elementary principles of democracy.

"Autonomous powers were granted the people or their representatives in 1913, but these are now completely nullified. The democratic practices that took root in Philippines government from 1916 to 1920 have been unjustly abolished. The veto power of the governor general is being used in a more arbitrary manner than was ever dreamed of by the state executive or the English governor in colonial America."

The final grievance cited is the usual assertion that the preamble of the Jones act, although not law, promised freedom as soon as a stable government was established. Americans here say that Gov. Harrison permitted the Philippine legislature to pass laws which were really amendments to the organic act for the government of the islands, passed by the American congress, and that Gen. Wood's ruling that such laws were invalid because the legislature has no authority to so amend the act of congress is sound law.

Col. Thompson and newspaper correspondents in his party were guests of Gov. Wood this noon at a luncheon, which was also attended by prominent American and Filipino leaders, including Señores Quezon and Roxas.

NEW RECORD FOR FIVE MONTHS' FREIGHT HAUL MADE BY RAILROADS

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Railroads of the country moved the greatest freight traffic of any corresponding period in their history during the first five months of this year, and without experiencing difficulty, according to reports filed by the carriers with the bureau of railway economics and made public today.

This freight traffic amounted to 187,869,465,000 net ton miles, which exceeded by 385,598,000 net ton miles, or 2-10ths of 1 per cent, the previous high record for the corresponding period made in 1923.

Not only was this a record traffic, measured by the numbr of tons of freight carried one mile, but the number of cars loaded with revenue freight during the first five months in 1926 also exceeded any previous corresponding period.

Freight traffic moved during the five months this year, as shown by the total number of net ton miles, was an increase of 6.4 per cent over the corresponding period last year and an increase of 8.7 per cent over the corresponding period in 1924.

KANSAS POTATO GROWERS STRIKE AGAINST CHICAGO

Topeka, Kas., July 11.—(AP)—The big Kaw valley potato growers in the vicinity of Topeka, controlling fields running into hundreds of acres, have gone on a strike against the Chicago potato market and quit digging potatoes.

The big growers declare they will not resume digging for a week unless the market takes an upward swing. Not a bushel was dug yesterday. Friday the market price, f. o. b. Topeka, dropped 24 cents from $1.29 in the morning to $1.05 by night. The break came three days after the harvest started. Usually it comes about 15 days after the harvest opens.

The growers say they are not blaming the commission men, but a glut of the Chicago market, and that no advance can be expected until the demand overtakes the supply. Other market centers are expected to relieve the situation to some extent.

BANDIT HITS WATCHMAN, FLEES.

A Negro, his face masked by a red bandanna handkerchief, struck Thomas McLaughlin, 65 year old watchman, on the head with a revolver early yesterday when he was refused the keys to the Wilson Products company plant, 40th street and Western avenue. The bandit fled, however, without getting into the building.

START RECOUNT OF DEMOCRATIC BALLOTS TODAY

Peering today into five of the ballot boxes holding Democratic April primary ballots, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki today will test the charges that by every known method of election fraud the leaders of the Democratic party deprived a rebellious group of an honest count.

Votes in five precincts will be recounted today, Judge Jarecki announced. Meanwhile the Republican recount will proceed at top speed, twenty new precincts in the 21st ward being recounted.

Reports that the special vote fraud grand jury would today return indictments against several persons implicated in the vote thievery were neither affirmed nor denied by Special State's Attorney Charles A. McDonald.

ROBINS BEAT CUBS 2 TO 1 BEFORE 29,000

ATLANTA GREETS ITS GOLF PRINCE RIGHT ROYALLY

Bobby Jones Proves Modest Monarch.

WATTS GUNN.

They hoisted him upon loyal shoulders and bore him up the steps through the terminal station and between lines of National Guardsmen to a waiting automobile at the head of a parade, while bands played, whistles blew, and thousands cheered.

From the terminal station plaza the parade moved through streets lined with other thousands of his friends to the Atlanta Athletic club, Bobby's home club, where, instead of the key to the city, he was officially assured of the love of Atlanta and of Atlanta's admiration of his achievements.

Bobby Blushes and Grumbles.

Mayor Walter A. Sims spoke, Maj. John Cohen, publisher, lauded his achievements as a golfer, praising him especially for the manner in which he earned his laurels, and officials of the Atlanta Athletic club told Bobby and the crowd what they thought of him personally and of his ability as a golfer.

Throughout it all Bobby slouched down in his chair and blushed. Plainly not at ease and evidently longing to be at home enjoying a well earned rest with his wife and baby, he would have avoided addressing his fellow clubmen but they would not have it.

When introduced by the master of ceremonies, he fumbled for a moment with a flag draping off the balcony from which he spoke, before telling them how wonderful it was to be home again and of his appreciation of the reception accorded him. He bowed and it was over without his having mentioned any of the trophies he won.

Baby Charlestons for Him.

Probably the happiest person of the entire crowd was little Clara Malone Jones, year and a half old daughter of Bobby. Elbowing his way through the crowd that thronged about him as he stepped from the train, Jones espied his child in the arms of the nurse on the fringe of the crowd. After an embrace she did a miniature Charleston for her daddy.

The crowd was not content with Bobby alone. As he approached his automobile a cry went up for Watts Gunn, Atlanta golfer, who also was a member of the Walker cup team. Gunn again was called for and roundly cheered.

ON PROS AND POVERTY

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—Bobby Jones has snatched the haggis, the weinerwurst or the ravioli out of the mouths of the professional golfers once more, for he has just won his third open championship and thus has deprived another more or less deserving professional of another fortune.

In this most recent instance his winning of the American championship on the brindle whiskered estate of Scioto Country club of Columbus, O., the junior Jones of Georgia may be said to have helped himself to the ravioli, for the boy defeated on the last hole Saturday afternoon is Joe Turnesa, a member of the increasing and improving group of golfing fascisti.

Time was when you could call any professional golfer Jock, or Angus, or Andy and have one chance in three of getting his name right, but times, like the French cabinet, are subject to change without notice, and nowadays the entry list of any National Open championship is highly seasoned with Giuseppes and Wilhelms.

Pros Don't Save at All.

It is estimated that 99 cents out of every dollar that the Scotch professionals have taken out of the golf business has been taken out of circulation, the implication being that Scotch professionals play golf not because they cherish the honorable bunions that are so gloriously won in plodding over the countryside. This may be an exaggeration, for authorities differ, some placing the Scotch professional's average saving as low as 98 cents on the dollar.

However, the motive that draws the Scotchmen out of their beds at seven o'clock in the morning to flail some exasperating meadow with the side arms of their race, is precisely the same one that actuate the German, the Italian, the American or the occasional Jose whose presence indicates that another country has been heard from in golf. Nearly all play golf for the same reason that Benny Leonard used to fight and nobody ever accused Benny of fighting for altruistic motives.

Therefore, this Jones of Atlanta, Ga., is becoming an expensive nuisance to the professional golfers. There are only two really big championships, the Bobby Jones, Atlanta's great amateur, who now holds three of the world's most coveted golf titles—the American amateur, the British open, and the American open. The last named championship he won for the second time Saturday by the slim margin of one stroke from Joe Turnesa, a pro. From a sketch by Chris Mario Mecker.

RACE FANS PLAY CABBY AND VIEW LINCOLN FIELDS

High Class Colts Entered at Homewood Today.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Race track regulars, hundreds of them having gathered here for what appears to be a big summer turf season, played the rôle of the London cabby yesterday. Instead of observing a day off and forgetting about the galloping thoroughbreds, most of them took the usual trip south toward Homewood, but instead of stopping off at Washington Park, continued on south to Crete for a look at the new Lincoln Fields course, where the next racing season opens Aug. 9.

They found a modern plant all but completed. In fact, the bugler could sound "Boots and Saddles" any day now and the thoroughbreds could put on their regular entertainment. By the time opening day arrives it will be finished in every detail.

Stands Will Seat 10,000.

Even the regulars, accustomed to watching the turf sport at many tracks, found something new at Lincoln Fields. The architecture of both the stand and the clubhouse is new for an American course, the stands being built low but to accommodate 10,000 people, and the clubhouse a fine type of brick structure along English lines.

The running strip is finished and already horses are putting in training gallops over it, a number of them now racing at Washington Park being stabled at Lincoln Fields.

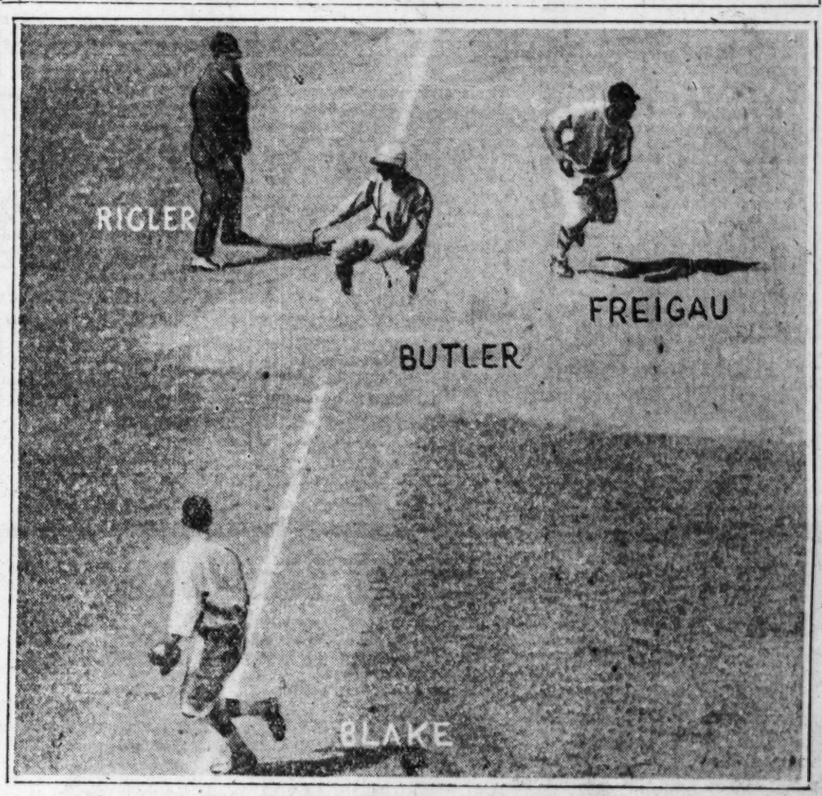

Fine Fields at Homewood

For well balanced fields of class, the season at Washington Park might as well just be opening today. Despite the fact that it is Monday, usually an off day, the best offering since Washington Park opened makes up the program. Horses that have come here from Latonia and Fairmount are beginning to show in the entries.

All events except the fourth filled well, and there is enough class in the small field of five in this race to make up for any shortage of starters. It brings Chicago, Russell Gardner, and Senator Norris, all winners last week, along with Brilliant and Fabian, two others that are in fine racing form. It is at a mile.

Jockeys Willie Crump, Tommy McElroy, and R. Finnerty, who have been leading the local riding colony, will find plenty of competition this week, as Earl Pool and Willie Garner will get into action today, and Arthur Johnson, who has left the Glen Riddle Farm stable in New York, has given first call on his stake services to Edward R. Bradley and he may come here this week to ride until Saratoga opens.

THIS ROBIN FLIES FAST

When Hargreaves singled Marriott home in the second inning of yesterday's pitching duel at the Cubs' park Butler scampered from first to third on the hit and arrived just in time to beat Stephenson's return throw. Butler's burst of speed availed him nothing, however, because a moment later he was cut down at the plate on Fewster's tap to Freigau. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There was nothing but deception rolling off the creaky right arm of burly Burleigh Grimes, the Brooklyn venerable, yesterday, and the Cubs, trying to stretch their win streak of three games, suffered accordingly before a packed turnout of 29,000. Burly Burleigh, who among other things throws spitters, could be induced to give up only four widely separated hits, so the north siders were forced to take the useless end of a 2 to 1 slab duel in which Fred Blake, the Sheriff, played the losing role.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Blake was so close to being as good as his more experienced opponent that there wasn't a difference of even a full run between them. But where Grimes kept the hits scattered, Blake didn't, and that was what beat him. Two blows in the second frame gave him his first jolt, but the Cubs tied it up a couple of innings later. Then two more wallops in the eighth shoved over the deciding tally. Only one other safe tap was made off the north side speedballer.

Fournier's Hit Decides Game.

The punch that put the Cubs down for keeps was contributed by Jack Fournier, another of Uncle Robby's sturdy ancients. After the battle had gone along for one inning after another with neither side making any apparent headway in the effort to break a 1 to 1 tie, the fellow who played with the White Sox way back when Jimmy Callahan was still awing the world by stealing bases, came through with a double in the eighth and the hopes of 29,000 sank out of sight.

Until the eighth Blake had given only three hits, two of them producing a run in the second inning. He fanned Fewster to start the eighth and Jacobson came through with a drive past Blake out into center for a single. Herman popped out, and then Fournier sneaked the pill down the first base line for two sacks and Jacobson scored the winning run.

Looked as if the Cubs made a mistake in the decisive play. Heathcote hustled the ball back to the infield and Cooney tried to nip Fournier at second, but the attempt was useless. Had the ball been relayed to the plate Jacobson could have been stopped with room to spare.

Blake Wabbles at Start.

Blake was as shaky as an exposed lump of jelly at the start, otherwise the Robins might not have picked off that run in the second inning. The Sheriff opened by passing the first two batters to face him, but he pulled through undamaged. Then Marriott led off in the second with a double to right and Butler walked. A hit by Hargreaves counted Marriott. Right here Blake found himself and the Robins didn't have a chance again until the eighth.

Grimes was much the same as Blake in the matter of control at the start, but the Cubs couldn't mix any hits with the passes, so gained nothing. Their first bright opportunity loomed in the fourth, when Grimm slapped the ball to left center for three bases. An infield out let him score. After this only two Bruins reached base on Grimes. One was Wilson, who died after opening the sixth with a single, and the other Blake, who hit with one out in the seventh.

Merkner and De Zutter Lead Field in City Bike Trials

Edward Merkner of the South Chicago Wheelmen, one of the best amateur riders in the country, and Maurice De Zutter of the Belgian-American C. C., topped the field of riders who competed in the city elimination amateur bicycle trials held yesterday at Sherman park. The former was high point scorer in the senior division and the latter led the junior division.

Merkner Easy Winner.

Four events were held in each section and the four riders who scored the greatest number of points in each division qualified for the state championships to be held later. In the state title events, winners in the junior and senior divisions automatically qualify for the national amateur championships which will be held later in the summer.

Merkner was an easy winner in the senior section. The South Chicago expert, who has carried off the honors in THE TRIBUNE'S annual derbies for the last two years, scored 15 points by winning the only three events in which he participated. August Benson of Henry playground was second with 9 points, while Mike Rodack of the South Chicago Wheelmen and Albert Waldack of the Belgian-American C. C. tied for third with 6 points.

De Zutter Junior Champ.

Maurice De Zutter of the Belgian-American C. C. and Ted Becker of the Antlers Sportsmen's club had a close duel for the leadership in the junior section. Although Becker won two races, he failed to score in the other pair. De Zutter won one race and placed in the other three. De Zutter wound up the day's riding with 14 points against 10 for Becker. Edward Schroeder of the Star Cycle club was third with 7 points and Howard Shellberg of the South Chicago Wheelmen, fourth with 5. Summaries:

The first pitch in a baseball game between the Hope and Immanuel church teams at Calumet park yesterday was fouled by the batter. It went on a line toward the players' bench and struck Harold Wangerow of the Hope team near the right eye. His jawbone was broken. Wangerow is 20 years old and lives at 5523 West 63d street.

Semi-Pro Ball Player, Hit in Head by Pitcher, Dies

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—Orville Allen, 31, semi-professional baseball player, with the Morrisonville Cardinals, was hit by a pitched ball during a game this afternoon at Morrisonville, and died tonight at St. Vincent's hospital, Taylorville. He was at bat when hit.

Baseball's a Game Too Informal for Teutons—Dreyfuss

FREIBURG, Baden, Germany, July 11.—(AP)—Barney Dreyfuss, visiting his birthplace for the first time in thirty-six years, said baseball in Germany could knock the props from under any monarchist movement and aid in the firm establishment of the republic. But he sees no chance of the Germans ever taking a liking to the American national game without amending the amenities of German etiquette.

"Whether a man pays two dollars or twenty-five cents for a seat at a ball game" the veteran baseball club owner said, "he buys the democratic right of talking to his neighbor without the formality of rising, clicking his heels, lifting his hat and shaking hands. That's how baseball promotes democracy."

Los Angeles Gets Berth in Pro Grid Loop

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—(AP)—A number of changes in the membership of the National Football league, adoption of a playing schedule for next fall, and approval of the new forward pass rule featured the closing session today of the league's annual meeting. A franchise was granted to Los Angeles, Cal., which with Brooklyn, N. Y., and Hartford, Conn., granted franchises yesterday, brings three new teams into the league.

The Pottsville, Pa., and Racine, Wis., clubs were reinstated, while Cleveland, Minneapolis, and New Britain, Conn., withdrew from membership. Dr. J. K. Striegel, head of the Pottsville club, was fined $2,500 for playing Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen" in Philadelphia last fall while Frankford, territorial franchise holder, was playing a league game here. The playing of this game led to the dropping of Pottsville from the league after the team had won the 1925 championship.

The league, which is composed of professional football clubs, will open its season on Sept. 19 and close Dec. 17. In the opening games Akron will meet the Frankford Yellowjackets at Philadelphia; Columbus will play at Canton, Chicago Bears at Green Bay, Brooklyn at Providence, Hammond at Racine, and Detroit at Milwaukee.

The relation of the league toward college football was the subject of extended discussion, and in order that a clearer understanding may be had with the colleges a committee was appointed to confer in New York tomorrow with Brig. Gen. Palmer A. Pierce, president of the Intercollegiate Athletic union.

2 KILLED IN AUTO RACE ACCIDENT AT LOS ANGELES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—The most disastrous automobile race crash in this city left a wake of dead and dying at Ascot speedway last night. The dead are:

Nick Guglielmi, 34, race driver.

Police Lieut. J. D. Cornwall, 51, who sacrificed his life by running on the track to warn others of a danger of which they were not aware.

Jack Petticord, auto race driver, semi-conscious and with only a meagre chance to recover from a skull fracture, broken leg, and internal injuries.

The cars of Guglielmi and Petticord locked in the first race of the night on the electrically lighted track. Lieut. Cornwall alone saw the wheeled death speeding toward him and a group of mechanics and spectators as the two, clashing when each was doing eighty-five miles an hour, locked near the top rail and projected toward the pits. Cornwall ran along the curb and pushed back spectators, but was crushed to death himself.

Tilden Wins Tennis Title by Default

Detroit Mich., July 11.—(AP)—William T. Tilden won his sixth national clay court tennis title here today through the default of Brian Norton, his opponent in the finals. Norton in yesterday's play aggravated an old knee injury early in a singles match. He continued play at that time but the knee bothered him so much today that after taking the court for the beginning of the double championship he announced to the officials he would not be able to play. Norton and his partner, A. H. Chapin Jr., defaulted the doubles to D. N. White and L. L. Thalheimer of Austin, Tex.

WM. T. TILDEN.

Tilden, by virtue of his default victory today, becomes the permanent possessor of his second cup, emblematic of having won the clay court championship three times. He first won the title in 1918, and his victory today was his fifth in succession. His first cup was won permanently in 1923.

White and Thalheimer, who through the default attained the title held last year by Walter Wesbrook and Harvey Snodgrass, first attracted attention when they won the intercollegiate title in 1923.

Her time was only six minutes slower than that of Frank Perks, the English champion. She is training for an attempt to swim the English channel.

JONES' VICTORIES RACKING TO PROS' BANKROLL NERVE

British open and the American open. The British open is worth a lot of money. The exact amount depends on the personal popularity, the business acumen, and the golfing proficiency of the winner. The value of the American open championship to a professional is largely determined by the same factors, but generally it may be reckoned at no less than $25,000, which is about the amount earned last year by Willie MacFarlane, who refused to exert himself during his tenure.

The American open championship may be made to pay as much as $50,000 if the winner chances to be a man of spectacular personality, hires a hustling manager, and is willing to spend one night in three on the Pullmans carpet bagging from town to town giving exhibitions.

First Happened in 1923.

Three years ago Bobby Jones, with nothing to win but the honor of winning, fought Bobby Cruickshank to a long deferred finish, and beat him for the American open championship. Being an amateur and determined never to make a dollar out of golf, Jones simply wasted the commercial possibilities of the championship, and Cruickshank, who might have made a stake in life, became a mere runner up, which distinction pays comparatively trifling dividends.

This year Bobby has taken both the British and the American titles, and all the professionals, including Walter Hagen, will have to go along tooking their carnival stands and club affiliations on the strength of their past conquests, some of which are losing their luster as time goes on.

There is no way of estimating just how much ravioli Bobby Jones took away from Joe Turnesa in that last breathless instant on the eighteenth green at the Scioto club on Saturday as he bumped his ball for a two foot roll and watched it go down the hole. But Turnesa is a much more willing tourist than Willie MacFarlane, who was known to call off some matches and forfeit his deposit money rather than wrench himself away from his family in the suburbs of New York.

It's Painful to Joe.

Turnesa is young and, with the first proceeds of the championship, say a $1,500 check for endorsing a golf ball, he might have bedizened himself in a seven day rotation of pink, purple, blue, green, brown, yellow, and orchid golf pants with sox, ties, and hat bands of synchronizing complexions and then might have made himself as beautiful as Johnny Farrell or Walter Hagen at their loveliest, and then, with an energetic manager to send telegrams to ambitious golf clubs along the R. F. D. routes, he might have arranged a series of twenty or more exhibition matches at prices ranging between $250 and $1,000 a round.

But it is idle and painful to meditate on what might have been but for the superior golf and the sporting determination of Bobby Jones, who has diverted such a prodigious amount of haggis, weinies, ravioli, and even a few morsels of chile con carne from the yearning palates of the pros.

WARREN, ARIE HIGH SCORERS IN TRAP SHOOT

W. G. Warren and Mark Arie captured high gun honors in the shoot program held at the Lincoln park traps yesterday. Warren won the singles, 150 targets at sixteen yards' rise by shattering a total of 149. His single miss came on the ninety-seventh try when his shot went wild. Arie finished first in the doubles two twenty-five pairs at sixteen yards. He broke 49. Edward J. Markham's 148 gave him second in the singles while D. E. Thomas broke 47 in the doubles for a like honor.

Vagaries of Weather Man Irk Ederle

BY GERTRUDE EDERLE.

[Copyright: 1926: Tribune-News Service.]

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, July 11.—I'm becoming disgusted with the weather here. One day it is beautiful and sunny and the water of the English channel is comparatively calm. The next day is cold and rainy and the channel is abominably rough.

I had planned to race Izaak Helmy, the Egyptian, and my trainer, William Burgess, from Gris Nez to Wissant, a distance of four miles, giving them 40 minutes handicap, but in the rain and fog we wouldn't have been able to find our way and the test had to be deferred.

The training is getting monotonous now and I will be happy to go to Paris to compete in the cross-Paris swim and also to glance at the latest fashions. Although I never could grow tired of the pretty country hereabouts, I am fed up on the channel swim talk. It seems as though everybody I meet insists on talking on no other subject. Especially am I weary of those who delight in telling how terrible the channel is to swim.

I think about half of the difficulty of swimming the channel is caused by having to listen to so much discouraging talk before you get started. Then, when you're in the middle of the channel, you are apt to think of all this that you have heard, and may lose your nerve.

SOX REST AND THINK OF THREE DEFEATS IN ROW

Resume Series with the Athletics Today.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—After spending a day entirely away from baseball, causing much mental relaxation, which was badly needed after three successive defeats by the Athletics, the White Sox will go into the final game here tomorrow with spirits revived at least, even if they don't seem to have any pitcher who can go in and stop the rushing Mackmen.

Some of the Sox players took a train ride to the shore today and got some sea air; some went out and played golf, and some sat around the hotel lobby and looked at the wall all day, as many ball players are prone to do.

Manager Collins attempted to play golf, but after taking a seven on the first hole decided that his injured thumb was suffering torture, so resigned his place in the foursome. Not many people knew that he had an injured thumb, but there is a chip of bone knocked off the thumb joint of his throwing hand that was done on June 8, when Cochrane of the Athletics slammed a line hopper at him in the series in Chicago.

For the final game here tomorrow Collins doesn't know whom he will send to the mound. He may pitch the veteran Faber, who did nothing today but rest in the easy chairs of the hotel, or he may work Ted Lyons. Collins did drop a remark indicating that he would like to have Lyons open against Washington. There is a possibility the hurler may be Tommy Thomas, who spent today down at Baltimore, eating home cooked victuals. The veteran Jack Quinn is slated to hurl for the home boys.

NIESENS BEAT BELOIT, 6 TO 4

Two big innings, each of which produced three runs, gave the Niesens a 6 to 4 victory over the Beloit Fairies yesterday at Normal park. McGuire led the Niesens' attack with two triples.

Notes of the Cubs

Charley Root is out gunning for the statistician who is responsible for the averages that show only nine wins for the ex-Coast leaguer. Charley keeps notes on his own slab performances, and he claims eleven victories to date.

The crowd didn't think well of some of the close decisions rendered against the Cubs, and booed considerably. One gent hurled a pop bottle at Ump Hart, who was guessing 'em at first base. The missile hit nothing but the ground.

Hartnett's eye must have been troubling him yesterday. The first time up he popped to Marriott, but in his next three appearances he fanned. He swung lustily at everything Grimes threw.

Stephenson had a chance to make himself temporarily famous when he came up with two out, Freigau on third and Wilson on first in the third inning. A pass and single had put the runners on the paths. Steve fanned.

There is a strange similarity in the percentages of the Cubs and Soxs in their respective leagues. The Cubs have won 43 and lost 38. The Sox have copped 44 and dropped 39.

CERMAKS DIVIDE TWIN BILL; WIN, 5-1; LOSE, 7-4

Cermaks divided a double bill yesterday with the Romeos and Duffy Florals at Cermak park, dropping the first game, 7 to 4, to the Romeos, then copping, 5 to 1, from the Florals. Frankie Schultz held the Romeos scoreless in the first fray after relieving Williams in the third inning, then came back for the second clash and set the Florals down with six hits.

Lake Moses Yields State's Largest Bass

BY BOB BECKER.

Southern Illinois fishermen are "pointing with pride" to Lake Moses [not far from Benton, Ill.], which has just yielded a black bass weighing 9 pounds 6 ounces, as this catch must constitute a state record for a fish of this species.

Some time ago we reported that an 8 pound bass had been taken from Lake Moses, and now comes this record fish captured a few days ago by Sheriff Henry Dorris. The sheriff said that the length of this whopping big bass was 24½ inches, which puts it in a class with the giant large mouths of southern lakes.

Lake Moses, which seems to shelter many of these black bass among its bulrushes, is an artificial body of water covering about 400 acres. It has been stocked for a number of years, and judging by the size of the bass that the sheriff snagged with an artificial lure, Moses does grow 'em big.

HARMONS DEFEAT ALL-CHICAGOS FOR TEN IN ROW

The Harmons won a close battle from the All-Chicagos, 5 to 4, yesterday at Cermak-Mills stadium. It was the tenth straight victory for the west siders. An argument arose in the ninth when Umpire Meads called a man safe on third base and Umpire Moore, working behind the plate, called the runner out. Play was resumed, the visitors tying the score. Driscoll opened the home half with a walk and scored from first base on Schick's second double.

CARRS DEFEAT BELLWOOD, 7 TO 4

The P. J. Carr semi-pro nine romped over the Bachall Furnaces, 7 to 4, at Bellwood, Ill., yesterday. The teams played good ball and remained on even terms until the latter part of the battle when the Chicagoans stepped out and marked up their decisive margin.

SOUTH BEND NINE WINS.

Berlenbach to Face Acid Test in Jack Delaney

New York, July 11.—[U. N.]—The most critical point in the career of Paul Berlenbach, who was hoisted from the amateur wrestling mat to the world's light heavyweight championship by virtue of his paralyzing punches, will come Thursday night at Ebbets field.

Delaney knocked Berlenbach out in their first meeting. Later, with more experience behind him, Berlenbach beat Delaney, although knocked down in the fourth round.

Reports from Delaney's training quarters indicate that he has returned to his former self and may be better than ever.

One report is that Paul is trained too finely and is in danger of going stale before the night of the fight.

Berlenbach, who is getting into trim at Summit, N. J., is resting. After he had finished his training Friday he was just two pounds above the stipulated championship weight of 175.

ROSENBERG IS UNWILLING TO FACE TAYLOR

Commission to Be Asked to Void Title.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg, world's bantamweight champion, barred here because of his failure to defend his title at least once within six months as is prescribed by the state athletic commission's regulations, is in danger now of having himself placed on the ineligible list in Chicago. This developed yesterday on the departure of Jim Mullen, Chicago promoter, after he had failed to sign Rosenberg to defend his title against Bud Taylor, Terre Haute bantamweight, in Chicago in August.

Graham May Fight Taylor.

Mullen expressed his displeasure with the failure of Harry (Champ) Segal, manager of Rosenberg, to come to terms, and said he had practically abandoned hope of inducing the champion to accept the match with Taylor. Upon reaching Chicago, he said, he would take steps immediately to have Rosenberg's title declared vacated and Taylor recognized as champion. Then, Mullen asserted, he would seek permission from the Illinois state athletic commission to promote a bout between Taylor and Bushy Graham, Utica bantamweight, the winner to be recognized as the title holder. Mullen declared Rosenberg had rejected an offer of $45,000 to defend his laurels.

"I am convinced now that Rosenberg does not intend to fight Taylor for the title, and I am prepared to proceed accordingly," said Mullen, as he left. "I have had several conferences with Harry Segal, but always there is an air of indefiniteness about the actions of the champion's manager. I think $45,000 is pretty fair money for a bantamweight champion, and I don't know of any place outside of Chicago, where Rosenberg could get this sum to defend his title. I will petition the Illinois commission to declare the bantamweight championship vacated and will seek a bout between Taylor and Bushy Graham. Then, if Rosenberg wants to come in and fight, he will have to take our terms."

JULY 24 CARD SIGNED

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Having closed two matches for his show at the White Sox park on July 24, Promoter Mullen will announce the remainder of the card following his arrival from New York City this morning.

Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., and Tommy Ryan of McKeesport, Pa.; Billy Petrolle of Fargo, N. D., and Johnny Adams of San Bernardino, Cal., who is now making Quincy, Ill., his home, are the matches arranged. Both will be ten round affairs and three of the fighters are strong contenders for the titles in their classes.

Bud Is King.

For the last two years Bud has been looked upon as the uncrowned king of the bantams who never was able to get into the ring with the champion of his division. Ryan gave Bud an interesting fight on the night before the Kentucky Derby in Louisville and to all appearances is a worthy opponent for the Terre Haute terrier.

Petrolle and Adams rate with the best in the lightweight division. Adams has a referee's decision over Ace Hudkins of Omaha and he boxed a twelve round draw with Sammy Mandell, the champion, on the coast.

Langford Meets McVey.

While in the east Mullen signed Jack McVey, a colored fighter, to meet Wolcott Langford of Evansville, Ind., in one of the other ten rounders. According to Mullen, McVey is held in higher regard in the rear than Tiger Flowers.

The other ten round affair will be announced today and it may bring together some of the local fighters who have been showing promise in recent starts.

Mullen went east primarily to sign Paul Berlenbach, the world's light heavyweight champion, to meet Sailor Eddie Huffman in Cubs' park next month. He also wanted to spike the Taylor-Rosenberg match and to tie up Pete Latzo, the world's welterweight champion, and Joe Dundee.

Eckersall's Gossip of the Boxers

JAMES FARLEY, chairman of the New York boxing commission, is in Chicago to attend the annual convention of the Elks. While in the city Farley will visit the Illinois commission, which secured valuable information from him regarding the drafting of rules and regulations to govern the sport in this state. Farley asserted there was nothing new in the boxing world, as far as he was concerned, but he was interested in learning that the sport got away to such a good start in Chicago.

Local boxing fans are taking a keen interest in the Berlenbach-Delaney fight in Brooklyn on Thursday night. Opinion is divided over the result, but the majority want the champion to win so that he can come to Chicago to defend his title against a suitable opponent. A few of the more rabid fans will make the trip to Brooklyn to see the encounter and return with first hand information regarding Berlenbach's ability.

Erland Peterson, the local welterweight who defeated Jimmy Smith in one of the preliminaries to the Mandell-Kansas bout, may appear on the July 24 card at the Sox park. Peterson is under the joint management of Babe Barron and Soldier Farr, who also manage Marty Fields, one of the products of the local amateur ranks.

Jim Mullen has sent word from New York that Tex Rickard expects to start the construction of the Chicago Madison Square Garden in September. Rickard will be in Chicago sometime this week.

Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, is in town and will confer with Promoter Mullen today regarding the local appearances of Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion, and Napoleon Dorval, the heavyweight. Kearns will remain in Chicago for a few days.

O'Donnell-Kahn Fight in Milwaukee Canceled

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—[Special.]—Johnny O'Donnell, St. Paul, who was scheduled to meet Harry Kahn, Milwaukee, in the semi-windup to the Tommy O'Brien and Harry "Kid" Brown outdoor bout here Thursday night, has withdrawn from the card in favor of a bout in St. Paul, Tom Andrews, matchmaker, announced today. Tommy Herman, Chicago, has been offered as a substitute, but the Windy city battler refused to come to terms.

A NEW SIZE CHANCELLOR Panetelas 3 for a quarter

We've succeeded in offering handmade Panetelas at 3 for a quarter of the identical quality of our highest priced Chancellors.

A Half-century Reputation

But a Chancellor Panetela at 3 for a quarter is big news, men—chiefly because it means Chancellor quality is maintained.

Guaranteed by

New Way Packing

As 3 for a quarter is a popular selling unit, we present a new idea in packing which appeals to men because it is very sensible. One Panetela is ready to smoke—two are wrapped in foil for protection while in your pocket. "Smoke one, carry two," the dealer offers. A convenience—a protection.

WHEAT FIGURES BEARISH, SAY MANY TRADERS

MONDAY GRAIN REVIEW

The grain trade had the government report late Saturday afternoon, and considered it bearish on wheat, because of large winter wheat yields, offsetting the losses in spring wheat.

On other grains it was moderately bullish. Had it been possible to trade on after the government report was out it would have been easy to buy wheat at 1c decline from the regular close.

Now that the government report is out with its 567,000,000 bu of winter wheat traders who are bearish predict that final returns at the end of the season will be close to 600,000,000 bu, while the estimate of 200,000,000 bu of spring wheat may be cut down somewhat. The figures suggest an exportable surplus of 122,000,000 bu. Farm reserves July 1 were 20,739,000 bu, compared with 23,242,000 bu last year and a five year average of 37,000,000 bu.

There is a record movement of new wheat in the southwest, with a large milling and fair export demand, although the latter is disappointing to bulls. Two northwestern millers are said to have bought 4,000 cars of wheat in the southwest and sold 225,000 brls of flour.

Good Gains for Week.

Foreign crop conditions are moderately bullish and supplies are down to the minimum. Speculative trading has increased, particularly in the northwest, where the markets were oversold, and Minneapolis July closed 5⅛@5¼c higher than a week ago. July in Winnipeg was up 4⅝c, and Kansas City, despite the record receipts of wheat, finished 5⅝c higher on July than the previous week. Chicago is up 4⅞c on July and 3¼c on other futures.

Closing trades on July wheat in Chicago Saturday were at $1.38⅞@1.39, with the top price for the week up 9⅛c from the low of the previous week. September closed at $1.37½@1.37⅝, December at $1.40⅞@1.41⅛. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Condition Low.

High temperatures over the corn belt last week pushed the crop along more rapidly, and it made better growth than at any time this season. The government report condition of 77.8 is 6.1 per cent below the five year average, and perfect weather, with plenty of moisture, is necessary to bring the crop to an average yield, which would necessitate an increase over present estimate yields of nearly 200,000,000 bu.

Those bearish on corn assume that present crop conditions mean little as a market influence for the present, as there are unusually large stocks back in the country.

The market has been so heavily oversold of late that with an advance in wheat and a small increase in speculative buying by old time corn traders values responded 5⅝c on July, 4⅛c on September, and 3⅝c on December from the low of the previous week, with the close at gains of ⅛@3⅛c, July leading with a discount of 5⅝c under September, against 7c earlier in the week, while the July-December spread also was narrowed sharply at the close, yet it still is unusually wide.

Oat Crop Promise Ample.

Although the government report suggests an oat crop of 1,334,000,000 bu, or 168,000,000 bu short of last year, it is 9,000,000 bu above the 5 year average. The big states, Illinois and Iowa, which furnished most of the commercial crop, have a combined promise of 369,000,000 bu, against 396,000,000 bu harvested last year, so that there will be enough oats to go around. The new crop has not commenced to move in the middle west and it will be late before there is any marketing of consequence.

Cash interests have turned over their hedges from July to September and northwestern interests have bought oats futures liberally in Chicago.

Closing trades were at gains of ⅛@⅝c for the week, with July 37⅝c, September 39½@39⅝c, and December 42⅞c. Prices for the week follow:

Rye Traders Are Bullish.

The rye situation is bullish. A crop of 40,000,000 bu, as estimated by the government, is the smallest in fourteen years. Prospects for rye abroad are less favorable, especially in Germany, yet foreigners are not buying rye futures to any extent and eastern and northwestern operators have taken hold liberally. July rye reached 98½c last week and closed at 97½c, with September up to $1.02, and closed at $1.00⅞@1.00⅞, with net gains of 4@4⅞c for the week, July leading.

Provision Prices Lower.

Liquidation by holders of lard, short ribs, and bellies, combined with selling by packers, was sufficient to satisfy all demands from shorts and investors, and while last prices were at a moderate rally from the low point the close showed lard off 30@32½c, short ribs 45@55c, and bellies 20@37½c lower than a week ago.

The cash trade has fallen off and hogs are off around 50c@$1 for the bulk of trade, making a situation that is unsatisfactory to the speculative interest and is rather disappointing to packers. Prices for the week follow:

PLEADS FOR CO-OPERATION IN ALL RISK LINES

Coöperation in the insurance business should not be limited to any one line of the calling, or any group of agencies, asserts Frank M. Chandler of the Travelers Insurance company.

There should be some general point of contact on public relations with regard to insurance matters in general, he contends. He includes mutuals and fraternals as they are "just as legitimately in the insurance business as ourselves." Harmony, he says, would tend to eliminate waste and increase profits.

"In all our discussions," Mr. Chandler remarks, "we must not overlook our attitude to the public. Through coöperation we can sell ourselves and our business to the community. Public opinion can be developed in favor of the insurance business as a whole."

America's Fire Loss at Rate of $1,000 a Minute

Statistics compiled by leading fire insurance companies show that the nation's losses for the first six months of the year will exceed last year's record by an impressive total. Some idea of the way America burns property may be had from the fact that the loss thus far for the year is about $1,000 a minute, $1,440,000 a day, and $10,080,000 a week.

EXPENSES DIFFER IN TWO KINDS OF AUTO INSURANCE

Among advantages often claimed for reciprocal insurance exchanges is that of lesser operating expense. That this contention does not always exist in fact is borne out by the recent compilation of an insurance expert familiar with the leading stock and reciprocal concerns operating automobile lines in Illinois.

Some thirty reciprocal automobile exchanges in the state, his figures show, experienced an average expense ratio of 54.3 per cent during 1925. In other words, out of every $100 in premiums collected, the reciprocals paid $54.30 for the expense of business operation.

Forty leading stock companies showed an expense ratio on automobile lines of 48.4 per cent, or $48.40 out of each $100 of premium income. This is approximately $6 less per $100 than paid out by reciprocals.

Rules Sunday Labor No Bar to Risk Benefits

Employment on Sunday does not prevent an injured person from receiving the benefits of the Texas Employers Liability act, according to a ruling of the state supreme court in a recent accident case. The insurance association had denied liability for an employé of a motor company who was injured while on a Sunday assignment.

URGES INSURANCE ON "THE BOSS" TO PROTECT CREDIT

As an important factor in stabilizing business and credit, William H. Pouch, president of the National Association of Credit Men, yesterday recommended that the practice of insuring the lives of important business executives should be more widely employed.

"Life insurance is very definitely a business asset," Mr. Pouch asserted, "and an element of great importance in the credit of any concern.

"The death of a partner or of the directing genius about whom the success of a business has been built may be the cause of serious consequences unless an unencumbered fund is immediately available. Such a fund, provided by life insurance, would span the uncertain period of new proprietorship and maintain the confidence of creditors."

Credit executives, he said, should be fully aware of the great possibilities in partnership and business life insurance. They know best how it tends to stabilize an enterprise in the emergency of a serious loss, and, in the event of distress, increase its liquidating capacity.

Adopts $2,000,000 Fund to Protect Insurance Trusts

A special reserve fund of $2,000,000 to protect the trust investments in its life insurance trust department has been established by the Chicago Title and Trust company.

'RED' GRANGE INSURES COMPLETION OF HIS FIRST MOVIE VENTURE

The insurance will be kept in force for at least the duration of Grange's moving picture contract, it is asserted. He is now in California where his picture cast is engaged in producing a gridiron thriller for the screen. Twelve companies participated in underwriting the $1,000,000 of insurance.

Mike Gibbons, former world's fightweight champion boxer, and more lately an insurance agent representing a prominent eastern life company in St. Paul, Minn., scored a business knockout recently when he wrote three policies aggregating $225,000.

COMPLETE PLANS TO INSTALL NEW TAX SERVICE

Arrangements have just been completed by the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters whereby association members may avail themselves of a complete tax service and counsel at a reduction from the regular price.

The inheritance tax institute service is widely used among underwriters and is especially prepared for them. It consists of personal consultation service in the way of opinions, analyses of estates, and private counsel. A loose leaf volume is afforded covering all inheritance tax laws, state and federal, and the income tax as applied to life insurance, estates, and trusts.

According to Clinton F. Criswell, the managing director, a new and valuable feature of this service is a monthly report of estates probated in Cook county with detailed information relative to inheritance taxes and administration costs.

Underwriters Give Women Positions on Committees

Formal acknowledgement has been made of the growing importance of women in the field of life underwriting with the appointment of two women to the international convention committee of the National and Canadian Associations of Life Underwriters at Atlantic City in September. Both women are leading producers in their respective companies. They are Mrs. Laura B. Patrick of the New York Life and Mrs. R. L. Dermody of the Massachusetts Mutual Life.

SAYS GROUP PLAN CHANGES LINEUP OF RISK "GIANTS"

BY CHARLES BARTON.

Most interesting of all the results of group insurance has been the realignment of the so-called "giants" of insurance, asserts W. J. Graham, vice president of the Equitable Like of New York.

Group insurance, he avers, is so changing conditions that in the future it seems as if the giants are to be precisely those companies having the largest volume of group business.

"The tail," Mr. Graham points out, "having grown up, is beginning to show signs of wagging the dog."

Has Justified Itself.

Mr. Graham is of the opinion that the business, condemned flatly at first by executives of some companies, and looked at askance by others, has so far immensely justified itself. The initiation of group insurance, he recalls, came in 1912 when his company wrote the first large policy which was placed on 2,300 employés of Montgomery Ward & Co.

"There is no question," the executive asserts, "but that the principles of group insurance have proved sound. The first of these was that selection by an employer can safely be substituted for selection by a medical examiner.

"The second principle is that a satisfactory age distribution of policyholders can be secured by the same sort of selection. The third is that through group insurance a premium is practically fixed at the level of one year term rates for a low age, which would rise rapidly in the case of a single individual.

Adapts Mass Methods.

"Finally, the group scheme is an adaption of mass methods to industrial conditions dominated by masses. All of these have been borne out satisfactorily in our experience."

So satisfactory, indeed, has been the experience, he continues, that many companies have entered the field bringing about a period of keen competition. Signs of danger in this have forced the formation of a group association composed of ten American and Canadian companies.

Minimum rates have been fixed for the business. The result is that force of competition has been thrown where it belongs—on efforts to reduce costs.

Asks for Receiver to Take Over J. C. Adderly, Inc.

On petition of Clarence F. Buck, receiver of the Integrity Mutual Casualty company, 220 South State street, the United States District court in Chicago has appointed William F. Zibell as receiver for Joseph C. Adderly, Inc., general managers for the Integrity and its allied companies. Assets were estimated at not more than $15,000, while liabilities were declared to exceed $200,000.

NEW RISK RATES FOR MOVIE ACTOR FAKING THRILLS

Most of the movie thrills seen on the theater screen are produced by "ingenious deceptions," according to Dr. S. E. Simmons of the California State Life.

As a result of an investigation made by Dr. Simmons it is reported that there will probably be a favorable revision of rates for people engaged in the movie business. The health hazard of the actors, Dr. Simmons ascertained, is not greater than that of any average industry.

Even when some definite and important event has changed the position of affairs, the industrial movement will sometimes not change perceptibly until the autumn months. At this time in 1924, for instance, the action of the Republican and Democratic conventions had cleared up some of the year's political uncertainties, yet the country's output of iron in July was nearly 50 per cent below that of March and steel production less by 12 per cent, while freight moved on the railways in July was less by 100,000 cars per week than in the preceding year. Not until the last months of the year did the speeding up of industrial activities match the monthly results of a year before.

Last year's industrial recovery similarly was slow; even in September, when the stock market was entering on its excited speculation for the rise steel production ran far below that of 1924. These comparisons throw highly interesting light on the present movement of events. Not only does volume of midsummer railway traffic continue far to exceed the achievement of any past corresponding period, but steel output though not reaching the unprecedented magnitude of the spring, is running much beyond any recent midyear showing. The trade reports that orders were so considerable that the usual week's shutdown at the opening of July was omitted by the mills and that the customary midsummer decrease in production has been the smallest in at least six years. There occasionally has been some disposition to discredit steel production as a measure of general industry on the ground that requisitions from the abnormally active building boom and the hugely expanded motor car trade were causes of a peculiar and isolated nature, which might suddenly disappear. That very consideration, however, lends importance to the present steel trade movement, because the principal misgivings hitherto entertained about the general outlook largely were based on the possible fulfillment of that prediction, which would obviously have disclosed itself first of all in the steel trade's order books.

Trade Expansion Shown.

At the same time this month's reports of the reserve banks and other agencies show that with some exceptions wholesale and retail trade is expanding normally and exceeding considerably that of a year ago. In short, it is now beginning to appear not only that the forecasts of trade reaction were mistaken in the light of present evidence, but that trade itself is making up for the moderate curtailment of activity which occurred in the spring time period of financial doubt and unseasonable weather conditions.

All these considerations point to a highly interesting situation, not less so in that nothing whatever in the trade movement indicates a business boom.

On the contrary, testimony to buying for visible requirements only and tangible evidence from the continuance of relatively small advance orders on manufacturers' books still are pointing to the same conservative policies as have prevailed in the two last years. If the pace of the gradual decline in prices of commodities has lately slackened no aggressive upward reaction has occurred, no competitive bidding for merchandise, no accumulation of goods with a view of a coming violent expansion of demand.

The stock market proved last year that it is not always willing to reflect a conservative movement of prosperity in trade by a conservative rise of prices. What its action will be this year, in case the midsummer recovery in trade is sustained and expanded, cannot be predicted with absolute confidence because circumstances present this autumn (such as the congressional elections) may not be entirely the same as they were a year ago.

CORN GROWERS IN IOWA PREDICT SMALLER CROPS

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Council Bluffs, Ia., July 11.—[Special.]—Western Iowa farmers seem to be worrying little over the official crop reporter's figures just released, indicating that this state will have approximately 70,000,000 bushels of corn less this year than last. With their fields now practically covered with tall, dark green corn, these growers of tall corn know from experience that miraculous things can happen between now and picking time this fall.

In the west central counties, as well as other parts of the state, they have planted about as many acres as they had last year. The corn got a late start, but that has been almost overcome with favorable weather during the last week or ten days.

Stalks Vary in Size.

The main factor tending to reduce the yield on the farms here in the rougher portions of Iowa is the uneven stands. It is common to see fields with corn ranging in height from six or eight inches to waist high in the same field. But almost every stalk is thriving and is making a surprising growth.

"It's too early in the game to predict with any degree of accuracy what our yield will be," said a veteran grower today. "With corn in fine shape as it is today, practically every stalk, even the late ones, would mature a fair ear of corn if we have a normal amount of rain and frost doesn't come ahead of its scheduled time."

By the middle of this week practically all corn will have been cultivated for the last time in Boone, Greene, Carroll, Crawford, Monorna, and the adjoining counties in the west central part of the state. Within a week corn in many of the earlier fields will be shooting the tassel.

Oats Still Green.

Oats throughout this section are still green in many fields. Early oats are being cut. The stands are only fair. Although the heads seem to be filling nicely, there are comparatively few grains to the head. The yield of oats here will be cut short. Despite extremely favorable weather the crop cannot overcome the setback it was given early in the season. Fields are beginning to turn yellow where the crop was sown early, and the last seeded oats are rapidly approaching the final ripening stage. While the yield will be reduced this year, compared with last, growers expect the quality to be better. They would rather have a fair yield of high grade oats than a big bushelage of shriveled, chaffy grains.

Hay and pasture crops are short through this territory. Stockmen in some cases are forced to start feeding their newly cut hay. Potato vines have been severely burned in some places. The early vines have dried up on many farms and growers have little hopes of them being saved even with an abundance of rain.

Indiana Gas Utilities Company

First Mortgage Gold Bonds

5% Series, Due (July 1) 1946

Price 95 and Interest, Yielding Over 5.40%

The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax up to 2%.

The Company, incorporated June, 1926, is acquiring a group of properties now owned by affiliated companies which supply gas without competition in Terre Haute, Richmond, Brazil and West Terre Haute, Indiana. The principal predecessor companies have had a long, successful history, the oldest having begun operation in 1855.

These bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by direct first mortgage on the entire fixed property being acquired by the Company.

As officially reported for the 12 months ended June 30, 1926, gross earnings were $923,617; net earnings were $249,169, or more than 2.2 times the annual interest charges of $112,500 on the First Mortgage Bonds.

We recommend these bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail.

NEW ISSUES GET CHIEF ATTENTION IN LONDON MART

BY WILLIAM S. PRESTON.

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 11. — New issues which have recently appeared and arrangements for more that will appear shortly held most of the attention on the London stock exchange this week. Lists for debentures of Anglo-Canadian pulp and paper mills promptly closed Monday, being oversubscribed many times. Similarly, Province of Westphalia bonds had a strong appeal for the public.

In the gilt edge market a rather dull tone prevailed, certain hopes for a reduction in the bank rate being disappointed. Leading government stocks were slightly lower.

France Fluctuate Wildly.

Both Belgian and French francs fluctuated widely and reached further low records, while French rails again declined. Most other stocks in foreign markets, however, made a good showing, there being a marked disposition to invest in foreign securities at the expense of British, owing to a prolongation of the coal strike.

European reconstruction loans were in good demand. Mexican bonds improved on the resumption of interest payments.

Home rails remained in a moribund state, traffic returns being deplorable. Foreign rails, in contrast, were fairly active. A large demand has set in for leading Argentines, which finally extended to smaller stocks.

Dull Day in Industrials.

Friday was a dull day in the industrial market. Instead of materializing with a bonus, Courtalds announced a reduction in the interim dividend by 1¼ per cent. The price, in consequence, opened 10 shillings lower. Up to Thursday, before Courtalds' cut became known, many popular favorites in industrials had a good run, newspaper shares being fairly active and electrical equipments showing to advantage.

Leading oil shares at first took a turn for the better, but prices sagged Friday on the reduction of the price of Pennsylvania crude and on scattered continental selling.

Rubbers were quietly steady, with late buying of Vallambrosa on optimistic dividend, of which hope is the main feature.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Florida borrowing occupies an important place in the new financing schedule for this week. In connection with a $14,000,000 municipal improvement program, the city of Miami will be represented by an issue of $3,550,000 5 per cent bonds, maturing serially from 1929 to 1956. The bonds will be priced at par. Two bond issues, aggregating $2,187,000, will be offered for the city of Coral Gables.

As a sequel to the acquisition of the City of Paris department store in San Francisco by B. F. Schlesinger & Sons, operating a chain of department stores on the Pacific coast, George H. Burr & Co., bankers, are preparing to offer an additional issue of the chain company's common and preferred stock. The offering will be made in units of one share of preferred and one of class A common at a price to yield about 7 per cent.

Insull Interurban Line Will Finance Equipment

Financing in connection with a part of the $2,800,000 rehabilitation program of the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad was announced yesterday with the offering of an issue of $1,060,000 equipment trust certificates, series A, due serially in amounts of $106,000 each July 1 from 1927 to 1936, inclusive, and priced to yield from 4½ to 5¾ per cent, according to maturity.

Another sizable piece of water company financing is announced for today. It consists of a new issue of $2,500,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series A, of the Monmouth, N. J., Consolidated Water company, dated June 1, 1926, due 1956. The bonds will be offered at 95. An issue of $2,250,000 Indiana Gas Utilities company first mortgage bonds will be offered at 95 and interest, yielding over 5.40 per cent. Further financing for the Peoples Light and Power corporation, consisting of a new issue of $1,650,000 convertible 5½ per cent serial gold notes with stock purchase warrants is scheduled for this week.

NEW ISSUE

Chicago South Shore and South Bend Railroad

(PHILADELPHIA PLAN)

Certificates dated July 1, 1926. Due serially, as below. They will be in $1000 denomination, except those due July 1, 1931 and 1936, which will be in denominations of $1000, $500 and $100. Dividend warrants payable semi-annually, January 1 and July 1 either at the office of the Trustee in Chicago or at the office of Halsey, Stuart & Co. in New York without deduction for the Federal Income Taxes now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of 2%.

Security: These Certificates will be issued by the Trustee and will represent about 80% of the actual cost of new equipment consisting of 10 three-compartment baggage, smoker and passenger motor cars, 15 two-compartment smoker and passenger motor cars, 4 eighty ton electric locomotives, 2 dining cars and 2 parlor observation cars. In the opinion of counsel, upon the delivery of the equipment to the Railroad, full title to the equipment will be vested in the Trustee for the benefit of the Certificate holders. The lease will be assigned to the Trustee, and will provide for rentals to pay these Certificates and dividend warrants as they come due. Under the terms of the lease, the Railroad will covenant to maintain and keep the equipment in good order and repair, to replace any of said equipment that may be worn out, lost or destroyed, and to insure the equipment against loss or damage by fire to an amount of not less than the balance of these Certificates unpaid and outstanding.

Lessee: Chicago South Shore and South Bend Railroad owns and operates the high speed electric railroad, 69 miles in length, extending from South Bend, Indiana, westward to the Indiana-Illinois state line. The "South Shore Line," as the Railroad is more commonly known, serves the thriving northern Indiana industrial region, the picturesque Dunes country, and such intermediate cities as Michigan City, Gary, East Chicago and Hammond. By lease and trackage agreements, an entrance into the downtown district of Chicago is obtained, passengers being carried to and from the Illinois Central's suburban terminal station in Chicago located on Randolph Street near Michigan Boulevard. The outstanding Common Stock is owned or controlled by the Midland Utilities Company, thereby placing the management in the hands of men long experienced in the public utility field.

Studebaker Trails of Triumph

Studebaker Smashes Transcontinental Record

ON June 17th, a stock model Studebaker Big Six, driven by Ab Jenkins and Ray Peck of Salt Lake City, established a new transcontinental record, bridging the 3471-mile gap between New York and San Francisco in 86 hours, 20 minutes. This not only lowered the previous automobile record by 16 hours and 25 minutes, but also beat the fastest time by train 6 hours and 25 minutes.

In addition to the gruelling strain placed on the car by its average speed of 40.2 miles per hour, terrific rainstorms, fog and deep mud combined to further test its stamina. But the Big Six never faltered—its rugged endurance and abundant power being ever ready to cope with the test of time, distance and elements.

Not only was this record-breaking run a demonstration of the supreme stamina and speed of the Studebaker Big Six, but it also gave striking evidence of its economy of operation. Even under the extremely unfavorable conditions encountered in this coast-to-coast trip, gasoline consumption averaged 13.4 miles per gallon and oil, 315.5 miles per quart.

A YEAR ago Studebaker was forced into the bus business. Bus operators had found the Studebaker Big Six engine and the Studebaker Big Six chassis were peculiarly suited to their needs. They were buying Big Six chassis in large numbers, lengthening them and equipping them with bus bodies.

It was apparent the public would be better served by busses specially designed and built for this work, and Studebaker engineers were given the task of developing economical, efficient units for bus transportation. Studebaker's $100,000,000 manufacturing facilities enabled us to sell these powerful, dependable busses at prices never before approached for such quality.

Nation-wide popularity

The country over, far-flung trails tell the triumph of Studebaker's achievement. Today, as the map shows, Studebaker bus routes make neighbors of the nation. Linking hundreds of communities in every state, across the desert sands of New Mexico and over the mountain passes in Montana, through clinging gumbo and along broad highways . . . everywhere Studebaker Busses are providing trustworthy transportation.

Studebaker busses cost less to buy, less to operate and have the stamina which insures 100,000—200,000—300,000 miles of dependable transportation.

Studebaker Big Six passenger cars offer similar economies. You can buy both a Studebaker Big Six Sedan and a Studebaker Big Six Sport-Roadster for the price of any other sedan or roadster of equal rated horsepower. And your Studebaker will cost you less to operate and will live longer.

Unsurpassed stamina

Gruelling bus service has conclusively proved the merit of the Big Six engine. Since it handles 12 to 21 people and a heavy bus with such ease at high speed over long distances, it is no wonder that passenger-car work is mere child's play. This quiet L-head motor has reserves of power which assure the utmost in swift acceleration and smoothly sustained performance. And it does its work so easily that repairs and depreciation are minimized.

It is not surprising that the Studebaker Big Six (at One-Profit prices) outsells every other car in the world of equal or greater rated horsepower.

The following Big Six Studebakers may be purchased out of income at time-payment rates as low as any known to the motor world:

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy.

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Parke, Hudson Bay company's agent at Moose Lake, is greatly disturbed by a news item in an English paper announcing the coming marriage of Alistair Spencer Panton to Eileen Grant and referring to the prospective bridegroom as the heir presumptive of Lord Panton, whose only son, John Bridgnorth Panton, disappeared some years ago and whose death is about to be presumed by law. Parke decides to leave Moose Lake and go back to England.

Arrived at Edmonton, he tells Mr. Leslie, the temporary head of the Hudson Bay company, that he is John Bridgnorth Panton. Maple, Leslie's daughter, is a sympathetic listener to the tale and she encourages her father to help young Panton.

In the meantime Eileen Grant is married in London to Alistair Panton. Immediately after the ceremony she learns that John Panton is alive and is on his way to England to claim an inheritance left him by his aunt. Lord Oban. John Panton's father, tells Eileen that his son had been dismissed from the army for cowardice under fire and drunkenness, and that he is unable to forgive him. Eileen goes off to Inverlochtie with Alistair as planned, but she tells him that she will not live with him as his wife until the matter about John is settled to her satisfaction.

John, accompanied by his dog, Spot, arrives in England. He carries a letter of introduction to Mr. Leslie's brother, a lawyer living at Wimbledon. The Leslies invite him to stay with them and he accepts their hospitality. Shortly afterward Maple arrives.

While walking through the streets of London John meets an old army friend, Sir Arthur Frensham, who tells him that he has evidence that he had been drugged by one of his men on the fatal day he refused to lead his men out of the trenches.

John imparts this bit of information to Mr. Leslie and the latter calls a meeting at the house of Inspector Winter of Scotland Yard, his assistant, Furneaux, Mr. Mountford, judge of the Probate court, and Frensham.

Eileen reads letters which come from John to his father and to Alistair, and she is confirmed in her belief of John's innocence. She quarrels bitterly with Alistair, and writes to John, asking him to come to Inverlochtie. On his arrival there he discovers that Connington, one of the men of his former regiment, has just arrived, presumably to see Alistair, and his suspicions are again aroused against his cousin.

John meets Eileen in the village and she tells him her faith is unshaken. That night after dinner Alistair walks down to the lake, and he is hardly out of sight of the house when a police whistle disturbs the neighborhood. Alistair is found dead on the boathouse pier, and presumably has been murdered.

INSTALLMENT LV.

AN AWKWARD SITUATION.

John had crossed the hall to meet his father. Higher up, on the stairs, stood Colonel Grant, toying nervously with his mustache. It was a difficult moment, yet it passed off quite pleasantly, because Lord Oban affected to regard his son's home-coming as a quite commonplace sequel to their earlier meeting.

"I knew you would be detained, dear boy," he said, advancing with outstretched hand. "I have persuaded Grant to stay the night. Lansing, Sir Reginald Lansing, whom you may not have met, is making himself useful carving things in the dining room. We simply compelled the ladies to retire. They are naturally quite upset, but I hope they will sleep, because we all have a big day before us tomorrow."

John was literally tongue-tied, though a queer conceit danced in his brain that Frensham's curious reference to David Leslie must have some bearing on his father's attitude. Luckily, he was spared a further ordeal, Colonel Grant being far more ill at ease than he was. The two shook hands with the self-conscious air of true Britons who, not knowing what to say, say nothing. The introductions which followed served to relieve the situation. As they all moved toward the dining room, which was on the ground floor, a buzz of talk broke out with regard to the nonsuccess of the hunt for Connington.

It was Colonel Grant's unhappy lot to draw general attention to himself when they were seated at table, and Lansing was serving a much needed meal to at least three hungry travelers.

"I wonder," he said, "if there was anything in the story one of my men told about half-past nine? I thought he was a perfect fool, and made no secret of my opinion. By gad, perhaps I was in the wrong, and not he!"

Thereupon he gave a full and true account of the Loch Inver gillie's adventure with a strange man and a wolf, uncanny apparitions, which came ashore from the mist covered lake, and vanished silently into a lane leading nowhere except to the hills.

Now, John knew by this time that the missing boat had been discovered in the very locality described; he alone realized the exact measure of Grant's pigheadedness, and its effect on the search for Connington. He held his tongue, but laughed harshly. It was simply impossible to keep altogether quiet. The grim humor of the situation was too much for him. Everything said or done since he crossed the threshold of Interlochtie seemed to conspire against ordered speech on his part.

But Furneaux, now slightly revived—he had found some 1810 Chambertin on the table—struck in instantly.

"Are you laughing at or with the gillie?" he inquired.

"Did I laugh?" said John. "I didn't mean to. I'm afraid my nerves are a trifle on edge. Everything has been contrary tonight. We are not men, but puppets, dangling at the ends of strings manipulated by a callous and altogether inhuman power."

"Of course, Colonel Grant's messenger saw Connington and Spot?"

"Yes. Had Matt Fletcher been told we might have Spot with us now and Connington in safe keeping for the night."

"Angus was not far wrong," said John. "My dog is a Canadian husky. Undoubtedly he has a fair share of wolf blood in him. Sometimes the wild strain is most marked. In Spot's case it is confined altogether to his appearance and an almost phenomenal keenness of scent and vision. But, when his rather magnificent coat is soaked with water he resembles a wolf far more than a chow, which, I suppose, makes up the greater part of his doggy side. The breed is frightfully mixed, of course. What the old time trappers aimed at were strength and stamina. The climate did the rest in weeding out the weaklings. My own belief is that by some hidden working of the law of heredity Spot has combined the intelligence of some long forgotten Scotch or Cumberland collie with all the bone and hardihood of the best sledge dogs of the Northwest."

It was generous of John to enter into that long explanation, which gave time for the flush of annoyance to fade from Colonel Grant's face. The older man, however, was not minded to spare himself.

"It was I, then, and not my gillie, who behaved foolishly," he cried, with the honest bitterness of one who knew that an assumption of superior knowledge at an unfortunate moment had wrecked John's well laid plan for the capture of a malefactor.

Sheldon struck in then. He was the least talkative man who ever shared in the secrets of Scotland Yard, but it was well known among his intimates that he believed implicitly in the existence of an active and most potent evil force in the human cosmos. This discussion stirred him out of his usual reticence.

"No," he said earnestly. "Please do not think that, sir. Mr. Panton, perhaps unconsciously, hit on the right solutions. 'Puppets' he called us. What else are we? And how can we be sure that at certain moments in our lives the influences which make for good, and they generally predominate, do not give place to those which make for evil? There's a modern jargon which prates of subconscious impulses and tries to classify them in a scientific way by psychoanalysis. I prefer the downright language of the Bible. Christ cast out devils from unhappy people suffering from demoniac possession. We don't like the phrase today, but it may well be the more accurate of the two."

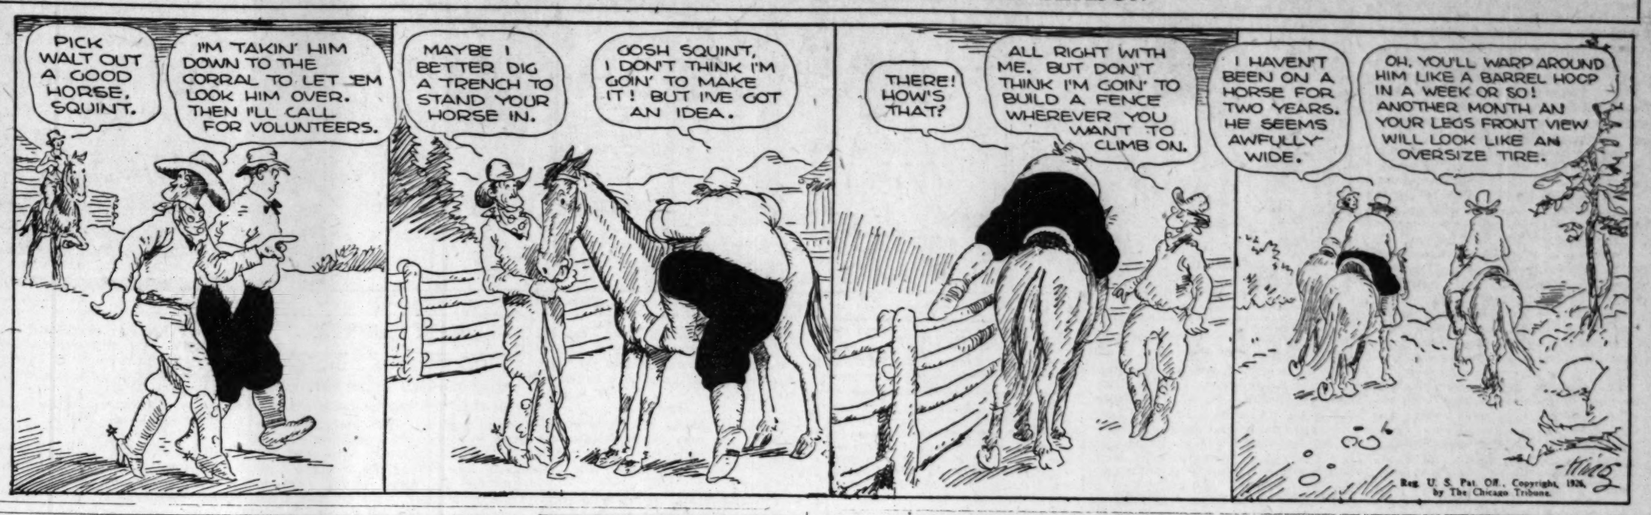

"What beats me," said Frensham, "is why Connington should want to kill Alistair Panton, who, by the way, is something more than a mere name to me, because, although we never met, I wrote to him after things happened in France. I, for one, never believed John was given a square deal. But I'd better steer clear of that business just now. What I'd like to have is a reason for the deadly feud between the two men."

"Possibly, I can supply it," said Lord Oban, speaking with an intentness which caught every ear instantly. "This morning a gentleman whom many of you doubtless know, but of whom I had never heard until certain proceedings in the law courts were reported in the newspapers, Mr. David Leslie, a London solicitor, whote me a quite illuminating letter. That is to say, it was written early yesterday, and received by me today. Being a lawyer, he was cautious. I have no doubt he kept ever before his eyes the many pitfalls which beset a well meaning person who risks prosecution for criminal libel. But, while avoiding personalities and specific statements, he certainly succeeded in showing me that my son's case cried aloud for revision. I admit now that a sort of unease—I cannot call it a definite suspicion—was leavening my own thoughts. Certain circumstances had, of late, been disturbing, to put it mildly. Then came this quite masterly exposition of the way in which my son might have been treated unjustly by those who, like myself, tried to put the laws of honor before all other considerations. So I said not a word to any other living person about Mr. Leslie's letter. I resolved to give most careful and dispassionate thought. There are those now under this roof who would have hailed it with joy as bearing out their contentions. The man now lying dead within a few yards of us could not have failed to use every wile and strategy to disprove its seemingly logical conclusions. Therefore, for once in my life, I decided not to act in haste."

The B. A. E. are for Boris Alexander Emanuel. The N. F. E. mean Norinne Flavia Eugenia. The A. C. L. before the Glutz, initial Alexander Caesar Landimir. Mouthfuls, what?

Mouthfuls, and also clues. You look at those names and right away you know the sort of picture you're about to see. An "ia" picture. Little old kingdom somewhere overseas with a name ending in "ia," having a revolution or a runaway princess or a prince who won't behave; a lot of diplomats diplomating about to beat the band; wild eyed duennas willing to duennathing [pun, my lambkins] that will bring their charges to time; comic opera soldiers, unconsciously humorous valet, cook, or what have you, and farcical situations that could happen nowhere but in an "ia" kingdom or thereabouts.

In the present instance two of these small principalities are at swords' points. One of them is—Novia, I think; name ends in "ia" I know. The other is, if I remember correctly, Maurraine. That name DILN'T have the "ia," but it certainly looked familiar. Probably saw it on a sleeping car.

Well, a marriage is arranged between the princess of Novia and the prince of the other little hotbed. The princess arrives to be wed, discovers that her fiancé is in truth one gay dog, and sets out to teach him a lesson. She makes him fall in love with her, believing her to be somebody else.

He falls hard; hurries to tell his royal father that never will he marry the princess, is drummed out of the army, and complications that the disciplining princess had never foreseen come thick and fast, culminating in—what the film will show you.

That glorious little flirt, Greta Nissen, is, as usual, right on the job, all bright eyes, grace, smiles, and the rest of the charms that are making her such a favorite with directors—especially for costume movies. She DOES wear clothes and wigs so well!

Norman Kerry is delightful as the prince. Marc McDermott, heading the conspirators, is the polished sinner he knows so well how to be. Certainly the years love Mr. McDermott. Gets handsomer every day of his life and is a far better actor now than he was when pioneer lady fans shivered ecstatically over his love making and muttered, "Gee, he sure is grand."

"The Love Thief" is technically rather nice. It's just a shiny, sugary fluff of a summer movie, warranted to produce neither fat nor muscle on the brain.

Sort of Reminiscent of Horse and Buggy Is This

This picture has an honest horse and buggy atmosphere that will please those who care not for automobiles. It is slow, but it is full of good and noble purpose and it would teach you what a sweet thing charity is both to giver and receiver.

The novel by Dana Burnet furnished the inspiration for the film. Not having read the former—can't say how like it the latter is, but I kindly suspect the book of having rather more verve than the photoplay.

The plot is thus:

The rich Miss Van Zant writes checks for fashionable charities, but of personal interest gives nothing. Her sister has married for love and been disowned by the rich Miss Van Zant, who, even when Mary's husband dies and she, Mary, is left alone and penniless with her small son, refuses to give her even one penny.

A Dr. McLean in whom Miss Van Zant is interested, becomes interested in Mary and her child. Through him the baby is adopted by Miss Van Zant, who wots not it is her own small nephew she receives so grudgingly into her home.

In the meantime Mary becomes sort of half witted and wanders away. Nobody knows where she's gone. Her own small son, who starts out on a "shining adventure," is the one to discover her and after awhile everybody with the exception of one unsatisfactory crumb of an aspirant for Miss Van Zant's hand and riches, are left happy and good.

The film is voluminous with incident much of which it could have done without. The acting is all right—but I think the players were rather bored and show it. Photography stacks up pretty well. Can't say as much for the direction.

I have a hunch that "The Shining Adventure" was made quite a while ago. My hunches are often wrong.

Sally's Circus Guests to See First Baby Sea Lion, Born 'on Tour'

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Have you heard, girls and boys, of the way circus history was upset last spring? It was, by one of the sealion families which appear in the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey combined circus; and it happened in Montreal on June 21, after the performance.

The heroine in the case was "Lady," whose act in the show is to balance a miniature ladder on her nose and then climb a full size ladder, still keeping the little one in place. After the sea lions had been put to bed after the show, some proud barks from "Lady's" husband, "Major," attracted their trainer, Capt. Frank Huling, and when he arrived at their cage they proudly exhibited little "Monty," the first sea lion in circus history to be born on tour! And the whole happy family will be here, and we'll see them when we have our big party at the circus a week from next Thursday.

And that's only one small reason, girls and boys, why we'll have one of our best times of the year when Thursday, July 22, comes along. I don't need to tell what fun the circus is, and especially the greatest of them all. With five rings going, hundreds of trained animals, and scores of clowns, the show is so wonderful that we can't begin to see it all.

But even that isn't all we'll see—for we'll visit the menagerie, and the "Congress of Strange People," and the Wild West show after the main performance. And you can see it all as my guests, just by writing a winning letter, and getting it to me by next Thursday morning.

Don't forget, though, to get the letter to me on time, and to give your street address and your age.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Milton L. Bronstein, 2233 Ballou street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Where Asked.

Lincoln park.

The Answers.

Mike O'Hayden, 1415 West Erie street, factory worker—I believe they are, in the long run. The petters are liked best for a while, then they grow stale. Girls that won't pet are the more loveable, and these are the ones boys prize the highest. The other kind is a bright flash, but they don't last.

Joseph Rawa, 1415 West Erie street, clerk—Like all the rest of us, I have had experience with both kinds, and, say what you please, the girl that won't really pet is the one you have the most respect for and pick to go out with the second or more times. You have to spend too much money on petters.

William R. Latta, 2529 West Adams street, clerk—I don't think so. I feel that a young man who thinks of marriage finds it rather embarrassing to go with a girl who he knows or suspects will pet with every Tom, Dick and Harry that comes along. If they will pet before marriage they might afterwards.

William Jentzsch, 2644 West Adams street, clerk—The attitude of the girls of today is, speaking frankly, to have a good time at any cost, no matter what they pay for it. If the fellow wants to pet after having a good time, the girl will pet, then make another date. Now, figure out the answer.

Michael E. Prahar, 1455 South Sangamon street, electrician—Most girls like to be petted just the same as the boys do, and they think the boys will like them better for letting them pet them. The girl who won't pet is a home girl. Now, the girl a man likes best is the one he thinks will be suitable as a wife for him later.

Hundred Dollar Check Puts Algonquin Ahead in Tribune Fund Race

Beginning with a note from Miss Wilhelmine F. Coolbaugh, whose check for $100 sent the Camp Algonquin fund over the thousand dollar mark and even a bit ahead of THE TRIBUNE free ice fund, which reached that amount a couple of days ago, the latest group of communications for THE TRIBUNE funds are packed with interesting contents.

Miss Coolbaugh's gift is the fourth of that amount to be received from an individual this season. Custodians of the funds sincerely hope several more Chicagoans will succumb to the "hundred dollar habit."

Little Bobby Friedman is but "five and a half" years old, but even at that is one of the older friends of the funds. His annual contribution of $10, divided equally between the free ice and the Algonquin funds, has been received, together with a note in which he comments, "I think you're real nice to poor kiddies for keeping up the camp every year. Much obliged." Bobby.

Next Monday night, July 19, both the free ice and the Camp Algonquin funds will be made the beneficiaries of the great patriotic spectacle, "Spirit of 1776," at the Lincoln Park arena, Sheridan road, Waveland, and Grace streets. A cast of 1,000 persons, a vast patriotic pageant, novel and beautiful lighting effects, and a great display of fireworks in the grand finale will finish an exciting evening for the thousands attending.

Tickets are fifty cents and $1.10, and may be purchased at the Garrick theater lobby, at the arena, or at leading hotels and clubs.

THEATER

For the purpose of record, it is stated that a play named "Frosty," by Gustav Bowhan, was performed for the first time last night in the Adelphi Theater; that the principal performer was Miss Sibylla Bowhan, who was here last year in the long run of "Rose-Marie"; that she had the assistance of eight other performers for the assorted chores of heroism, villainy, cue-giving, and comic antics; and that the play will be continued until further notice. . . . The foregoing seems to me to be an adequate report on the night's proceedings.

Miss Fay Bainter, who recently gave some try-out performances in the East to a comedy by Vincent Lawrence, is tentatively mentioned as a visitor to the Playhouse when Mr. Keenan shall have finished his engagement there in "Black Velvet." . . . And Mr. Keenan's engagement is for an indefinite period. His takings last week were large, with a sell-out twice Saturday, and, I am told, another last night.

Mr. Belasco is reported to have three hundred or more actors under contract for the new season; so, there is expectation that he will be a busy producer. . . . He is to start his New York season with "Fanny," the piece he and Willard Mack prepared for Miss Fannie Brice and tried out some weeks ago in Atlantic City. Then, he says, he will make known "All the Way from Texas," by Mr. Mack, with the author and Miss Beth Merrill at the head of the cast. Miss Merrill, if you don't know just who she is, is the young woman who was so colorless and stagy in the rôle of the retrieved street-walker in the garbage named "Ladies of the Evening" when it was given last Autumn in the Blackstone. . . . "One of America's most distinguished stars" is announced by Mr. Belasco for the principal rôle in a play from the German of Alexander Engel; and he adds that he will produce "The Desert," a piece from the Spanish, for Miss Katharine Cornell.

Miss Cornell's rôle in "The Green Hat," it is now stated, will be acted in California by Miss Ruth Chatterton, and not by Nazimova, as was announced some weeks since. . . . Miss Chatterton's English husband, Ralph Forbes, is to be with her in the cast, taking the part acted in Chicago by Leslie Howard.

Miss Anglin, who is arranging a répertoire wherein she and Miss Blanche Bates may co-star, has decided to add Cyprienne in "Divorçons!" to her rôles. When Sardou's merry old piece is the bill for Miss Anglin, Miss Bates will act the Lady in Shaw's "The Man of Destiny."

Halsted Street Church Lays Corner Stone

Five ministers, one of them the present pastor and the others former pastors of the Halsted Street Institutional church, participated yesterday in services accompanying the laying of the corner stone of the new $300,000 home of the church at 1935 South Halsted street.

The Rev. Robert Stephenson, incumbent, presided at the services. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. J. F. Clancy, the scripture lesson by the Rev. G. K. Flack, the New Testament lesson by the Rev. T. K. Gale, and a telegram of greeting from George Engelking, president of the board of directors, was read by the Rev. G. B. Martin of Elgin.

The principal address was made by the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago Temple and superintendent of the City Missionary society. The Rev. Edward D. Schutz, superintendent of the Methodist church, also spoke.

Women Told to Use Ballot in Lieu of Hammer

Don't Criticize Unless You Vote, They're Advised.

Chicago's sights, Chicago's hospitality, Chicago's chapter of the Business and Professional Women's clubs, and two of Chicago's ablest women orators furnished an interesting, full, and enjoyable Sunday yesterday for three hundred members hailing from every state in the union east and south of Illinois, with one from Honolulu for good measure.

Climaxing the day's program for the guests, who were en route to the national convention opening today in Des Moines, were the addresses of Mrs. Medill McCormick and Miss Helen Bennett at a dinner in the Congress hotel last night.

Ruthlessly and graphically, in an effort to drive home a realization of the power of women's votes in government, Mrs. McCormick plunged into an arraignment of what she termed "a pitiable state of affairs," declaring she has observed a growing disposition to make sport of men in public offices, and to find humor in their shortcomings and their sins of omission and commission.

"Are we going to let ourselves slip slovenly into an attitude of mind in which we make a joke of our government and its administrators?" she asked. "Are we going to raise a generation of children who will adopt that attitude and enlarge upon it? There's something terribly wrong with us if we do, and our children will not be healthy minded men and women. Our public servants are in office because our vote put them there, or because our failure to vote allowed them to get there.

"No one has any right to criticize the government or its officers who has not given something of himself in the upbuilding of it. Public opinion governs the public vote, and the responsibility of women in the matter of forming public opinion is doubled, because we influence both the home and the business world."

"Today is the day of the girl who is vigorous and strong and well," she said, "who is physically and mentally healthy and interested in the health of her community. I have seen many women come to Chicago and enter the business world with ambition and determination, and go down to defeat because they did not cherish their health. They did not have the same regard for their health that men have for theirs.

"The business woman who plays golf every Friday afternoon gets along better in the world. Most of us take our work too seriously, and in a few years are worn out for lack of play. Let's learn to idle and to play enough."

OUR SECRET AMBITION

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

An Electric Plug.

It is rather foolish to try to say in a short space anything about how to run electric appliances, because we most of us know, even if we cannot say it as cleverly as one bright woman has recently done, that what we need often for our modern homes is an engineer more than a maid. Many a woman ruins her electric percolator in short order by wetting the heat element. The cord attached to the wash machine is wet to its loss, and some women washing base boards have put a wet finger into an outlet.

But perhaps one of the commonest troubles is the wearing out or breaking of the cords not merely to the live wire, but through that. We take it to the electrician—our cord with an outlet plug at one end and the device plug at the other. What may happen? If something is wrong with that device plug, or he thinks you should have a new one, he may give you something that does not fit your device. Then you may take back the plug, device and all, and first and last waste much time and pay two or three times for a tiny bit of work you might do yourself.

The cord for a flatiron gets about as hard usage as any, even with the protecting twist of wire where the cord goes into the device plug. Suppose the cord is entirely worn through and the iron will not heat at all. There is no mystery about the matter. A woman of sense and judgment, especially if she has seen it done, can cut off that wire and sit down with a screwdriver, take that device plug apart, remove the ends of cord, uncover the ends of the cut wire—three coats—fit them into that plug and screw it up.

She must look at washer and tiny nut and not lose them. She must not leave any flying ends of the copper wire under the screw. In these days when girls can make radio sets, any woman can master the mechanism of an electric plug, beginning with wall plugs perhaps, and the time should have passed when she would pay a man two or three dollars for coming to the house to fix that which belongs to the washing machine, or some other heavy device.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Jerry hailed a neighbor the next day after the arrival of triplets at his house and shouted, "Say, the old stork has nerve! He came to our house last night an' brought the baby we ordered and threw in a couple of extras with it." W. S. M.

"What is the cause of all the excitement at your house today, did your sister graduate from high school?" I asked Paul junior, who lives next door.

"I'll say she did," he replied promptly, "an' we're givin' a party to cel'brate her graduatin' from learnin'." W. S. M.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MISS B.: THE LUMP BETWEEN your shoulders may be due to a faulty sitting posture. Here are some exercises to correct the condition: Lie on your back on the floor, arms stretched down close to the sides, feet and body stretched to fullest length. Try to raise your head, with no help from your arms or feet, so that your chin will rest on your chest. Do not strain by repeating too often. Flop over and raise the head backward as far as possible. You will feel the pull on the muscles of the back. Do each exercise five times at first, gradually increasing the number of times. For additional exercises, send me a stamped addressed envelope.

LUELLA: TEA, WHEN PROPERLY prepared and used moderately, is not harmful. It should be freshly prepared, never allowed to boil, or stand too long on the stove, as the tannin thus extracted is harmful. It should not be taken too hot.

Muriel McCormick to Pass Summer Out in Lake Forest

BY NANCY R——

Miss Muriel McCormick made use of one of the most convenient of feminine prerogatives last week and changed her mind about her plans for the summer. Instead of accompanying the George McKinlocks when they sailed on the Conte Rosso Saturday for a holiday in the Italian lake country, she is to be in Lake Forest, in charge of the McKinlock ménage until they return in September.

However, the next two months will not find her idle. She is going to study music—I believe her daily duties include some six hours of practicing at the piano which is no small undertaking with so many summer distractions at hand.

She went as far as New York with the McKinlocks to bid them adieu at the dock, and then spent the week-end just past with her grandfather, John D. Rockefeller, at his beautiful estate on the Hudson. She is to return tomorrow to this part of the world, to take up the work with which she'll fill the time until her hosts sail for home again.

Another of our musical young women, Miss Frances Heyworth, is vacationing here just now with her parents, the James Heyworths. Since Miss Heyworth made her bow to Chicago society she has spent most of her time in New York and Paris preparing for an operatic career, and her many friends in and about our city are delighted to welcome her home once more. She and Miss Laura Thompson were among the enthusiastic audience at Ravinia on Friday evening at the exquisite performance of "L'Amore de Tre Re."

Day's News in Society

There were several Chicagoans enjoying the colorful celebration of the Salem, Mass., tercentenary last week, according to word from northern Massachusetts. Vice President Dawes was present. Joseph Leiter, who has opened his summer estate, Edgewater, at Beverly farms, has put into commission one of the fastest speed boats on the north shore. Thomas Leiter sails his yacht in the weekly races at Manchester.

Mrs. John C. Ellsworth, who has exhibited her interest in the work of the Chicago Woman's exchange in previous years, gave the use of her house Friday and Saturday for the annual sale at Manchester, Mass. The McClelland Barclays have had as their guests at Topside in the Bass Rocks district Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyers of New York. The John Clays have been motoring in the White mountains. The Clays are at Finisterre, far out on the point at Gloucester, where a fine view of the sea and the shore may be had. The gardens at Finisterre are noted for their early July blooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeWitt Shumway of Lake Forest have departed to spend the summer at Charlevoix, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Viles have returned from abroad, bringing with them their daughter, Miss Glee Louise Viles, who has been studying for the last year in Florence. They are occupying the Lake Forest domicile of Mrs. James Viles, who is to give a garden debut party for her granddaughter in September.

Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson of 2450 Lake View avenue, has established herself for the summer at her lovely Lake Geneva place, Wychwood. She is planning to have a number of interesting guests during the season. She has with her for July Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns Peattie, former Chicagoans, now residing in Tryon, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Harper of 1363 Hyde Park boulevard, announce the birth of a son, Peter Gray, at the Michael Reese hospital on July 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Sampsell of Highland Park have returned from the east, where they attended the graduation of their son, Marshall Grosscup Sampsell, from Yale, and of another son's graduation at the Hill school.

Mrs. Grant and her daughter, Princess Cantacuzene, were with Mr. Honore for some time before his death. Mrs. Grant will return to her Washington home in a few days.

Chic Gingham Frock—By Corinne Lowe

SPECIAL PATTERNS by May Manton

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The Gingham Dog of fashion has been consumed, not only by its old hereditary enemy, the Calico Cat. No, it has formed a little entrée for that beast of prey, that ferocious fabric eater, the Crêpe Tiger. So strongly, in fact, has the habit of confining our summer wardrobes to crêpe fastened upon us that the good old cotton and linen families of other years are almost extinct.

Yet there are still women—and fashionable women at that—who include a few organdies, and ginghams, and dotted Swisses, and batistes in their resort wardrobes. Witness to this fact is supplied by the exclusive little uptown shop which provided us with the above.

Here is a morning frock of pale yellow in the finest of gingham. It is a one-piece model, but through the aid of seaming almost deceives you as to its purpose. In this deception the square patch pockets with their two buttons apiece contribute their aid.

The corsage is plaited and square-necked. But none of these points is important in comparison with the outstanding feature of the frock—that row of buttons traversing the top of each sleeve. These buttons, matching those on the pockets, are of white pearl.

An Oversight.

A friend of my husband's sent us some of the results of his fishing trip—two fine trout, so hubby invited one of the men from the office to dine with us.

The meal looked palatable and inviting as we sat down to the table, but after a few minutes, to my consternation, I saw our guest making a valiant effort to chew his food. Just then hubby took a mouthful and a look of horror came over his face as he said, "Beth, you didn't scale the fish." E. H.

Interested Audience.

My most embarrassing moment occurred in school. I had been out of the room for a time, and, upon returning, saw that the teacher was not at her usual place, the desk. Nor did I see her in the room. So I began walking around the room imitating different ways she had, of course exaggerating them greatly.

The other pupils giggled, but did not laugh loud as I expected. In looking over the room, imagine my embarrassment upon seeing our teacher sitting—watching me, in one of the vacant seats in the corner.

I went, with much pep to my seat and sat down blushing, for I certainly was embarrassed. O. E. U.

Astors Arrive Today, but Bar Social Affairs

To the keen disappointment of the society world of Chicago, the social affairs marking the visit here of Lord Astor of England and his eldest son, William Waldorf Astor, will be conspicuous by their absence, in compliance with an ultimatum issued by the distinguished guests, who are to arrive very quietly in Chicago this morning for a few days' stay.

Except for the dinner at the Saddle and Cycle club tonight, at which Mrs. Medill McCormick, their hostess, will entertain about twenty guests in their honor, practically no social activities will occupy their attention. This, it is explained, is due to the purpose of their tour of America, which is designed to acquaint the younger Astor with the industries and institutions of the country in whose annals his ancestor, the first John Jacob Astor, had so prominent a part.

Sunday Music on Air Wins' Elmer's Praise

Pianist and Orchestra Are Special Treats.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

There were many strong charactered programs, but many weak though not vacant hours in the radio world yesterday.

This may have been due to many entertainers being at Charlie Erbstein's world war hospital benefit show at the Auditorium—not a broadcast affair.

Some of the entertainers may have been at the ball game at Cubs park, a W-G-N broadcast, at 2:30. At any rate, there is no question about a lot of the audience being (listening) in on this.

I have an inkling that I should have been a listener on the concert by the Florentine instrumental trio, W-G-N, 2 o'clock.

The musical event of the day unquestionably was Moissaye Boguslawski's piano recital, KYW, 4:30 to 5:30. Mr. Boguslawski may be considered among the limited number of artists who loom larger and more important upon each succeeding performance. At each performance there is a different atmosphere created. The selections, tone color, and technical difficulties yesterday were unusually varied, the composers being Bach, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, and Chopin.

The Sunday concerts by the Palmer house symphony players, WJJD, 4 to 5, is one of the regular Sunday features that is becoming grander upon repeated hearings. At this receiving point there is a finesse about their playing that is a never ending source of keen enjoyment and admiration.

The Woodstock [Ill.] male quartet in the WLS Little Brown church musical program, 7, was, I almost feel tempted to say, the richest, smoothest, and most sincere of any quartet I have yet heard singing music of a sacred character.

On the always important W-G-N 8:15 Sunday concert, from New York, Edmund Burke, baritone, figured prominently and advertisingly by reason of his connection with the Metropolitan Opera company, but he did not figure prominently musically. Apparently it takes a very great singer to surpass Allen McQuhae, the lyric tenor and director of these eastern summer concerts.

William Matter, baritone, WQJ, 8, gave so good an account of his voice that it is to be hoped we have a chance for better acquaintance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, July 11.—At Cronulla, a seaside resort at Sydney, Mr. Nicholle, returned soldier suffering from acute tuberculosis, and his wife are believed to have entered into a death pact.

Their two sons, aged 12 and 9, were first murdered with a chopper ax. The house was then well saturated with kerosene. The wife is then believed to have murdered the husband with the chopper, subsequently setting fire to the house. When the fire was well alight the woman shot herself.

Neighbors rescued the elder boy from the burning house, but he died in an ambulance. The other three bodies were charred almost beyond recognition. It is believed the straitened circumstances of the family, together with the father's illness, caused the tragedy.

E. C. YELLOWLEY IS MUCH IMPROVED AFTER OPERATION

Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley was greatly improved last night following his operation at Mercy hospital yesterday morning, it was announced at the hospital.

The operation was performed after the prohibition chief had been rushed to Chicago following sudden seizure with appendicitis Saturday while he and Mrs. Yellowley were passing through Kenosha en route to the Dells of Wisconsin for a vacation.

ROB THEATER MANAGER OF $300.

Isadore Kamode, 1444 South Ridgeway avenue, manager of the Douglas theater, at 22d street and Sawyer avenue, was held up and robbed of $300, the receipts for the day, by three bandits on his way home from the theater last night.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: After All, Why Be Abrupt?

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Monday, July 12.) (Chicago Daylight Saving Time.)

HARRY LOMBARD, baritone, and Leila Fairchild Lombard, pianist and whistler, will present the Lyon and Healy artist recital on W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, at 2:30 o'clock every afternoon this week, except Saturday. Each day they will offer a new program. There will be baritone solos, pianologues, duets, and whistling solos.

Harriet Monroe of the Poetry Lovers of America will talk on the organization of this club of poetry during the radio meeting of "The Woman's Club" on W-G-N this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Monroe is well known throughout the country for her books of verse and her talk this afternoon will be especially interesting owing to her thorough knowledge of poetry. Another feature of today's meeting of "The Woman's Club" will be the Chicago Ladies' Quartet, composed of Ethel Swan, Etta Johnson, Bernice Wessling, and Alma Fick. During the course of the radio meeting this afternoon Capt. William P. McFarland, chairman of the National Balloon Race Committee, will explain the purpose of the annual balloon race, which leaves Grant park at 4 o'clock tomorrow.

The daily lesson in elementary grammar and arithmetic is to be given at 10:15 o'clock this morning by Colletta M. Deignan. Any listeners wishing copies of Miss Deignan's instructions in these subjects are invited to communicate with W-G-N.

A miniature piano recital will be presented by Bertha Harding at 10:45 o'clock this morning, during the period of entertainment for shut-ins. Women listeners will find an interesting discussion on "Buying Summer Cottons" in the Home Management period at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Two excellent musical programs are to be offered this afternoon on W-G-N. At 3:30 o'clock the Marshall Field tea-room orchestra will be heard, and at 4:30 o'clock Edward Benedict will give his daily recital at the Kimball organ.

Monday is silent night in Chicago, and W-G-N and WLIB, the Liberty Weekly station on the Drake hotel, are off the air after 7 o'clock.

FIND BODY OF HANGING SUICIDE VICTIM IN WOODS

The body of an unidentified man, who apparently committed suicide by hanging himself at least a month ago, was discovered yesterday in the forest preserve near Schiller Park.

A rope used by the man, who stood on a box and leaped off after fixing the noose, had parted. A portion of it remained about his neck and the remainder was still tied to a tree branch.

Near the body the county highway police found a bottle that had contained chloroform, an ice pick, and the small box. There were no marks to indicate identity. The body was clothed in a new but inexpensive suit.

BATSMEN SLUG BALL; 200 FANS SLUG EACH OTHER

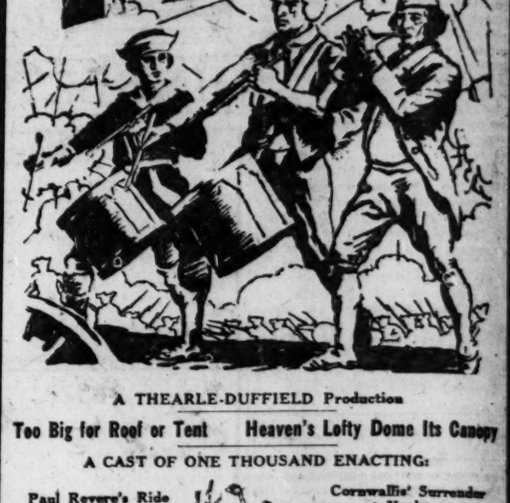

Five police flivvers, two patrol wagons and two detective bureau squad cars were rushed to a ball field in Portage Park yesterday to break up a near-riot in the ninth inning of a baseball game between Alderman Thomas Bowler's team and a nine representing the Hamburg Athletic association.

According to police reports the score was 4 to 3 in favor of the Bowlers when the Hamburgs started to touch up the Bowler pitcher. The score of 4 to 3 was satisfactory to the Bowler partisans and the ambitions and actions of the Hamburg sluggers irritated them beyond control, police said.

Two hundred fans were said to have engaged in fisticuffs while 5,000 noncombatants confined themselves to pointed phrases.

Follow This Rule
in skin care if safeguarding a good complexion is your aim
By NORMA TALMADGE
Copyrighted 1926 by P. O. Beauty Features

It is bringing the charm of natural loveliness to thousands
BEAUTY experts throughout the world now urge skin cleansing as beauty's most important aid.
FOLLOW THIS ONE WEEK—THEN NOTE YOUR COMPLEXION
Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.
Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.
Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond all doubt.
BE SURE TO GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE
It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Romantic Mate or Good Provider; She Wonders as to Choice

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a working woman of 35 and I have been going with two men over two years. It is hard for me to know which one I care most for, as they both have wonderful qualities. One is a stern sort of fellow, the other a more romantic type. Deep down in my heart I believe I admire and enjoy the company of the older one, who is 47, but my friends ridicule me about going with a man so much older. I am not such a young woman and I'm trying to convince myself that 47 and 35 is not bad. He looks years older than I because I could be mistaken for 25. He is not wealthy, but can give me a nice home.

"The other man, a few years his junior, is fine, but could not do half so well providing for me. I would probably have to work after the honeymoon. The older gentleman's health is splendid and he has had the same position all his life. He has a wonderful character and has had a college education. Should I let the difference in age count? Father, mother, and all my friends say 14 years' difference is too much for lasting happiness.—M. C."

When I read your letter over first, M. C., I said to myself: "Take the romantic one." And then I got to thinking about these romantic persons who never seem able to accumulate a dollar to support a wife properly. That is one of the great troubles of the romanticist. It would be lots more fun to marry one of them than to marry one who put too much store by material things and had little imagination. But, it being a world full of bill collectors whom you can't pull the Scherezade act on, I wonder if it isn't better to be a bit hard-headed about being provided for.

However, yours does not seem to be much of a problem to me, since you so obviously care more for the older man, and since he has the qualities that would make life pleasanter for you. The average man of 47 today is a pretty live youngster and if he takes care of his health there is no reason to suppose he won't be able to step right along with you for a good many years to come.

BUNDESEN GIVES TIP ON KEEPING HEALTH DURING VACATION

A health code for the week-ender and the vacationist is issued by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner, in his current weekly bulletin.

His guide to good times while vacationing includes such hints on sanitation as the following: Drinking water, which is often a carrier of typhoid germs, should be boiled whenever possible; if it looks suspicious, it is safer to drink bottled liquids; milk is not only a carrier of typhoid, but also of other contagious diseases — boil the milk if you do not know its source; buy food only from clean places—it is safer and cheaper; bathing in small, stagnant lakes or rivers is taking a chance with health; camp only in a place where you may be sure of sanitary sewage disposal; eat in time, eat enough, but not too much; protect yourself against flies and mosquitoes; in any event, be as careful outside of Chicago as you are in it, and you'll have a good time.

MRS. POTTER, 99, BUFFALO BILL'S FRIEND, IS DEAD

Mrs. Fannie Potter, who was a close friend of Buffalo Bill Cody and Gen. Nelson Miles while they were making history in the west, died Saturday at the residence of her granddaughter, Mrs. William H. Compton, of 1260 Columbia avenue. She was 99 years and 10 months old.

MRS. FANNIE POTTER. [S. Gordon Photo.]

Born in the state of New York, Mrs. Potter went west in 1871, settling at Leavenworth, Kas. Twenty-five years ago she went to Seattle, Wash., where she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Thomas A. Taggart. The latter died last September and Mrs. Potter traveled alone to Chicago to join Mrs. Compton.

Until a few weeks before her death the aged woman retained her memory and other faculties. She suggested that cheerfulness was the panacea for the ills of age.

WASHINGTON, OREGON, CALIFORNIA

Instead of trying to see just one part of the wonderful Pacific Coast this summer do the sensible thing and see ALL THE WEST in one never-to-be forgotten trip. The Pacific Coast Empire Tour is the greatest vacation transportation bargain you can buy on this or any other continent. Low round-trip summer excursion trips made by eight transcontinental railroads enable you to see all the West and tour the entire coast at only a fraction more transportation cost than one pays for a round trip to and from one single city.

Come out over one of the four northern transcontinental lines. See Spokane, Portland, Tacoma and Seattle; then, by rail or water to Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego. Or, reverse the route, visiting California first, and come north by train or steamer. Ask about trips to Alaska and Hawaii.

While on this memorable Pacific Coast Empire Tour plan to spend at least ten days in and around Seattle, gateway to the Orient and Alaska. Seattle is the hub of the scenic Puget Sound wonderland—Mount Rainier, San Juan Archipelago, Mount Baker National Forest, Lake Crescent, the Olympic Peninsula — snow-capped peaks, green mountains and evergreen forests. You will vacation in comfort in Seattle, a cool summer city.

Round trip fare for the entire Pacific Coast tour from Seattle to San Diego with different routes going and coming, only $108.30 from Chicago. Ask your ticket agent. Write today for free illustrated booklet, "Seattle and The Charmed Land," and "Pacific Coast Empire Tour." Room 110, Chamber of Commerce, Seattle, Washington.
